SMOOT INSISTS SENATE WILL BEAT ANY BONUS VETO

Finance Chairman Visits Coolidge and Still Believes That His Estimate Is Correct.

ADMITS POSSIBLE SHIFT

Popular Demand for Tax Reductions Is Agreed to Be Having an Effect.

FREAR FIGHTS MELLON BILL

Wisconsin Man Will Make a Speech Opening Radicals' Attack on the Plan.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Senator Smoot of Utah, Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, clings to the opinion that advocates of bonus legislation have two more than the necessary two-thirds majority to enable the Senate to override the expected veto of President Coolidge.

Not the slightest doubt is felt that the President will veto bonus legislation if it is sent to him. He is confident that a bonus would not only make it impossible to reduce Federal taxes but would even raise them above the present level. The President has received information which convinces him that the Senate will sustain his veto, even though that body is likely to pass a bonus bill in the face of the fact that it will be vetoed.

Mr. Smoot's latest reiteration of his view was made this afternoon at the White House. The Utah Senator called upon the President for a short time, but denied that he talked on tax reduction legislation. He said that they discussed principally politics in general. Senator Smoot seems to be among those ardent followers of the President who believe that Mr. Coolidge's pre-convention campaign is over and that he will be nominated at Cleveland on the first ballot.

Smoot Convinced By His Poll.

The Senator was asked whether he had changed his view with respect to the attitude of the Senate toward a Presidential veto of bonus legislation.

"I have not," he replied. "The poll I have made makes me of the opinion that there are in the Senate today two more than the two-thirds that would be required to pass bonus legislation over a veto. My opinion is based on the poll as it stands."

The Senator was asked whether he was aware of other polls, including one now in the hands of an Administration leader showing that enough bonus Senators would join Senator McKinley in refusing to override a veto after they had voted for the original bill. Mr. Smoot said that he was aware of such a poll, but that his own poll was to the contrary.

Those who have made the other poll are just as confident of their canvass of the Senate situation as is Senator Smoot. It is possible that several Senators now carried on the Smoot poll have not yet indicated to him their intention to vote to sustain the veto after having once voted for bonus legislation.

Aside from the question of the accuracy of his poll, Senator Smoot said there was no doubt that sentiment throughout the country in favor of tax reduction was growing with the rush of an avalanche. He admitted that it was most probable that the momentum of the demand for tax reduction would effect changes in the views of some Senators now on his list as being in favor of overriding the veto.

Frear Will Fight Mellon Bill.

The drive which the radical group in the House will make against the Mellon plan was foreshadowed this afternoon when it became known that Representative Frear of Wisconsin would make a speech on the floor soon after Congress reconvenes Jan. 3, and would denounce the Mellon bill as founded on false promises.

"I will offer a substitute which I think is a fair proposal and which I hope will be endorsed by a large number of regular Republicans as well as the so-called insurgents and the Democrats," said Mr. Frear.

While Mr. Frear would not discuss the details of his bill, it was learned that he would disagree with Mr. Mellon on practically every principle which the Secretary has put forward, with the one exception of lowering the taxes on earned incomes. Mr. Frear was busy this afternoon drafting his speech and also on a letter which he will transmit to the Secretary about the same time, "concerning a specific subject," he said, which he would not reveal in advance.

Mr. Frear was the author of the Nelson radical tax program. He said today that in making the speech he would not act on instructions from any bloc in the House, but instead would offer his plans on his own initiative. His last program on taxation would indicate that he favors reducing the normal income taxes to 2 and 4 per cent., as compared with the present 4 and 8 and the 3 and 6 suggested by Mr. Mellon; that he is against a reduction of the higher surtax rates below 50 per cent.; that he would like a tax on the undistributed profits of corporations; that he desires the restoration of the excess profits taxes, wishes an increase in the inheritance taxes and advocates a gift tax. It is also surmised that he will argue that the bonus can be passed and taxes reduced at the same

Bok Promises Bigger Move If People Accept Peace Plan

BOSTON, Dec. 26.—If the American people approve the plans selected by the jury of the $100,000 American Peace Award created by Edward W. Bok, the latter will take a second step toward the advancement of world peace with a far wider scope and intent and an award larger and more important in every respect, Mr. Bok announces in the January issue of The Atlantic Monthly.

Mr. Bok gives no hint as to the nature of his "second step."

GIVING PROFITS TO CHARITY

Project to Build Tracks in Jersey City and Atlantic City May Doom New York Racing.

Governor George S. Silzer of New Jersey has a plan under consideration for the re-establishment of thoroughbred racing in that State, with betting to be conducted under the pari-mutuel system. It is proposed to establish two tracks, one in Jersey City, ten minutes from New York by tube, and the other in Atlantic City. The proceeds under the betting system, over and above the operating expenses and a fair return on the investment, will be devoted to charitable purposes.

This plan has been developing for some time and has been before Governor Silzer for two months. It came in the form of a letter from Tex Rickard, internationally known promoter, suggesting the establishment of racing on the lines indicated. Mr. Rickard, when questioned last night, said that he did not care to discuss the matter.

It is understood that bills are now being prepared for presentation to the New Jersey Legislature and that they will have the support of powerful interests in that State. Mr. Rickard has back of him wealthy New York men and men of means and prominence in New Jersey. Governor Silzer was in Boston yesterday, accompanied by his secretary, F. M. P. Pearse, to address a Rotary Club luncheon, and efforts to reach him last night were unavailing.

It is expected that the plan to devote most of the profits to charitable purposes in New Jersey will be a powerful influence in securing legislation permitting legalized betting by means of the pari-mutuel system. It is the plan of the promoters, of which Tex Rickard will be the head and managing director, to establish racing on the lines which now obtain in the Argentine. There the Jockey Club takes the profits from the betting, and after deducting the amounts of the purses, expenses of administration and a return on the investment, turns them over to the Government to be apportioned among hospitals, schools, asylums, homes for crippled children and other charities.

Say Revenue for Charity.

The claim is made by the promoters that this will place thoroughbred racing on a high plane, lifting it above all hint of commercialism. The charities of the State would profit immensely, as the returns under the pari-mutuel system would be enormous on tracks so close to New York City and Philadelphia. Under the machine system of betting larger purses are possible and it is believed that vast crowds would attend the New Jersey tracks daily with the privilege of unrestricted betting.

In Jersey City the track will be located about ten minutes from New York by way of the new vehicular tunnel now under construction beneath the Hudson River. This will be a new and modern plant, and so will be that at Atlantic City. It is stated positively that the old Guttenberg track will not be utilized. It is proposed to establish a racing plant in Jersey City that will be superior in its details and construction to anything in this country. It will be erected on the flatlands of Jersey City within easy reach of the New Jersey end of the vehicular tunnel. It will include a modern rack track, vast grandstands, clubhouse, stables and all the other buildings necessary to an up-to-date racing plant.

These two tracks would represent a huge initial investment, in view of the costs of construction and upkeep of the Paris Officials Say Parachutes Were Aboard—See a Chance Crew Is Safe.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Thursday, Dec. 27.—The Dixmude is still missing. This is the ninth day since the dirigible left her base in France and, according to an official communiqué issued last night by the Ministry of Marine, nearly six days since she has been heard from.

All reports of messages subsequent to the one she sent Dec. 21 at 3 A. M. acknowledging receipt of another message are now considered false, and it is officially accepted that the last time the great airship was seen was the evening of the 20th when she was observed seventy kilometres southwest of Biskra headed in an easterly direction.

The mystery of the Dixmude's fate therefore is deepened by these facts, though there is perhaps more hope for the crew now than had been entertained during the last two days. With the reports that the dirigible was driven out over the Gulf of Gabes and calling for help branded as false the probability that she was lost in the Mediterranean seems eliminated, and it now appears that wherever the airship may be she is drifting over some dry land or has descended upon it.

Crew Possibly Alive.

In the latter event the crew would at least have had a chance to save themselves, for it has also been ascertained that the Dixmude did carry parachutes and life belts for all the crew and passengers.

The most probable hypothesis is held to be that formed by the officials at Algiers and supported in great measure by all controlled reports, that the airship is either floating over the remote regions of Southern Algeria or the interior of Tripoli, as the direction of the wind when she was last seen southwest of Biskra on the evening of the 20th would have carried her in that direction. A squadron of four airlanes was sent today systematically to search Southern Algeria, and four more planes were ordered from Algiers to aid them. All military planes in Tunis as well as cavalry patrols have joined in the search.

The region offers great difficulty in such a contingency as a forced landing. It contains enormous salt lakes, stretches of scraggly rockland and vast expanses of desert. The belief that the Dixmude lies in this area is further supported by the failure of its officers to take measures to communicate with the world if it had been blown over Tunis. As the crew are supplied with parachutes it is argued that the commander would surely have sent a man down for help, the wireless being out of commission, or dropped messages.

To overlook no precaution three destroyers have been sent from Toulon to the Tripolitan coast to aid the international warships scouring the sea there, which advices from Tripoli say is lashed by a violent storm.

An official list issued by the Ministry of Marine last night establishes definitely that the Dixmude crew and passengers total fifty, including twenty-one officers and three wireless operators, the remainder all being petty officers and mechanicians.

Fuel Probably Exhausted Sunday.

PARIS, Dec. 26 (Associated Press)—The Minister of Marine received messages today from the Port Admira: at Bizerta saying that the Dixmude was not seen over Tunisia on Dec. 23 or 24 and that she had never asked for help. It is established that the last communication received from the airship was on Dec. 21 at 3 A. M., when she acknowledged receipt of a telegram from Sidi Abdallah, Sarsha, and the intensity of the message justified the inference that she was then not more than 300 miles from Biserta.

It is calculated that the Dixmude's

INQUIRY ON GERMANY WILL BEGIN JAN. 14

Call to the International Committees Is Sent Out by Reparation Board.

DAWES TO SEE COOLIDGE

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 26.—Official nomination was made today by the Reparation Commission of fifteen delegates who will represent the United States, England, France, Belgium and Italy on the two committees to inquire into the means of creating stable money for Germany and balancing the budget, and into the extent to which German capital has been transferred abroad and methods by which its return can be secured. Notice of their nomination and invitations to attend the first meetings of the committees in Paris were sent to the delegates.

Committee No. 1, dealing with the situation in Germany, will meet January 14, and Committee No. 2, dealing with exported capital, will meet January 21. The only reason for the delay in convoking the second committee is that Henry M. Robertson, President of the First National Bank of Los Angeles, who has been nominated to serve on it, will not be able to reach Paris before that date.

Change in British Delegation.

In the nominations as made today the only change in the list of names already reported was in the case of the British delegation. When Sir John Bradbury compiled his list in consultation with Premier Baldwin and with the assent of the other British political leaders he obtained the consent of Montagu Norman, Governor of the Bank of England, to serve on the first committee, subject to approval by the Bank. The Bank has not seen its way to give this consent, the reason, it is stated, being that Mr. Norman's services cannot just now be spared in London. Sir John Bradbury, with the approval of the commission, has therefore asked Sir Robert Kindersley, a director of the Bank, to serve. Sir Robert was the first British representative on the Bankers' Commission on which the United States was represented by J. P. Morgan.

Though the first meeting of the two committees will be held in Paris, it is expected that later they will find it convenient to work in Berlin. Sir John Bradbury and Louis Barthou are in agreement that the fullest liberty shall be granted them to meet where they wish and when they wish, to discuss the situation from every angle with complete freedom and to report their findings irrespective of any political considerations.

Among the members of the Reparation Commission responsible for the creation of these two committees and the nomination of their members there is a fairly optimistic spirit, for it is realized that under the chairmanship of Colonel Charles G. Dawes and with such members as Reginald McKenna the two committees will prove themselves "strong." It is no secret that much is hoped from the driving force of the American delegation and from its detachment from the circumstances which have recently so much hindered the work of the Reparation Commission and caused a practical deadlock.

Berlin Government to Co-operate.

There is ground for hope, too, in the fact that the German Government appears to consider very favorably the work of the committees and is ready to give all the help it can both in supplying full information on the actual and potential situation of German finance and in helping Committee No. 2 to estimate and identify exported capital.

The Belgian and Italian representatives who were nominated today have been like the American, Britian and French, selected because of their technical knowledge of the questions to be examined and not because of political prominence.

Dawes Sees Coolidge Today.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Charles G. Dawes, who with Owen D. Young has been selected to represent the United States on the board of inquiry which, under the plan of Premier Poincaré, will investigate for the Reparation Commission Germany's fiscal condition, will confer with President Coolidge tomorrow. Mr. Young may also be present at the conference.

Although the Americans who sit on the two new committees will serve as private citizens, it is expected that the opportunity will be afforded them of using such data as have been collected by the American Government on the subjects to be studied.

The Prince was on his way to a session of the Diet when a youth opened fire upon his automobile. Hirohito was not injured.

The Prince Regent is the Crown Prince of Japan. He was appointed Regent on Nov. 25, 1921, on account of the continued ill-health of the Emperor Yoshihito, his father.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 26. — The "death house" at the State Hospital for the Insane at Dunning, Ill., became the fiery tomb of at least fifteen persons tonight when a swiftly spreading fire of mysterious origin destroyed two wings of the old wooden pavilion which is known by this grim name. Two or three others may have perished.

Twelve of the dead are known to have been patients in various stages of insanity. The others were E. J. Caraker and his wife, attendants, and Lowall, their eight-year-old boy.

Only one of the patients was identified, Michael Ledwith. The others were unrecognizable, their bodies being burned to a crisp.

In the excitement of herding the 500 to 600 insane men out of the blazing building some escaped. In addition to epileptics and others suffering from milder forms of insanity, a score or more of the violent type of maniacs got away.

The scene was changed in a moment from one of comparative peace, with a touch of holiday cheer, into a wild hour of fire-fighting, of controlling unruly patients, of forming lines for a march to safety through the rain with panic stricken faces at the windows of other buildings and mad cries in the night.

Prompt action of nurses, attendants, police and firemen saved a situation which might easily have become a general panic. More than 500 were led to safety, and the fire was confined to the part of the building where it started.

Five fire trucks with emergency equipment were stuck in the mud on the institution grounds and the firemen were greatly handicapped in their work. The institution fire brigade under Chief John Burke is credited with having saved several men from the burning building.

Six bed-ridden patients were carried out of the "death house," the ward which carries this name because it houses those in the final stages of brain disease.

Seventy-five patients who were trying to escape were driven back into line by police, who arrived from several stations, nurses and firemen.

Policemen rescued three men from a lavatory in the burning building, where they were hiding in fright.

Declares Crowding Was Necessary.

The crowding of between 500 and 600 patients into this old wooden structure was declared necessary tonight by Dr. Daniel Coffey, Superintendent of the institution, who said that the hospital was being taxed to its limits every day by the number of cases sent out by the courts. All the other Illinois hospitals for the insane are also overcrowded.

An investigation into these conditions is to be started at once. Judge C. H. Jenkins, Director of the State Department of Public Welfare, left Springfield tonight for Chicago after a telephonic conversation with Dr. Coffey.

There are several theories to explain the origin of the fire, which started at 5:40 P. M., while the patients were in the mess halls. They were to have a big Christmas entertainment later in the evening in the big amusement hall, a quarter of a mile away from the building which burned. Special choir music had been arranged, but this had to be abandoned later to make an emergency shelter and hospital for the cold and exhausted patients.

The most remarkable theory is that the fire started in a closet in Ward 5, where paint, varnishes and oils were stored. Inspectors of the Fire Prevention Bureau suspect defective wiring. A boiler explosion was rumored at first, but there was no boiler in the building.

The building is old, with long, curved wings. The front of the structure is two stories in height but the wings are only one story. "Escape" patients brought back to the hospital, those ready for parole and the last stage cases are housed in these wards. They are not classed as violent and they behaved exceptionally well, attendants said, in tonight's trial.

WOOD TRADED IN THOUSANDS OF SHARES AND HE PAID $1,000 A MONTH FOR ADVICE; 'TIPS' CABLED HIM NIGHTLY AT MIDNIGHT

Secretary Weeks Calls Wood Deals a Private Affair, But Says He Did Not Think Them Good Policy

Special to The New York Times.

NEWTON, Mass., Dec. 26.—Secretary of War John W. Weeks, who has been spending Christmas here, asserted tonight before returning to Washington on the Federal express, that he had received his first intimations of the speculative activities of Lieutenant Osborne C. Wood some months ago.

"The information came to me that young Wood was sending large sums of money to this country," Secretary Weeks said, "and I promptly directed that it be investigated. I became convinced that the young man had told the truth when he said he had made the money through investments, but as I did not approve of a Second Lieutenant in the army carrying on such activities I cabled to his father, Major Gen. Leonard Wood, to have it stopped.

"The War Department, you must understand, does not feel at liberty to pry into the personal and private financial affairs of army officers. But, on the other hand, it does not believe it is good policy for an officer whose salary is only moderate to engage in such huge transactions."

Secretary Weeks said he had no information on the statement cabled to THE NEW YORK TIMES from Manila by Richard V. Oulahan, its special correspondent in the Philippines, that young Wood contemplated handing in his resignation from the army. If Lieutenant Wood chose to do so it was possible for him to send his resignation by cable, Secretary Weeks said, and it could be accepted in a similar manner.

OIL STOCK AND FIRM SUSPENDED BY CURB

Trading in Southern States and Dealings of Richards, Hutchinson & Co. Under Inquiry.

EX-GOV. HASKELL INVOLVED

Stock Exchange Also Investigating—Stock Drops From 33⅝ to Price of 5 Bid.

The Governors of the Curb Exchange yesterday suspended from trading the shares of the Southern States Oil Corporation, after which both the Curb and the New York Stock Exchange began an inquiry into the recent heavy trading of this stock and the failure to pay for 78,000 shares on Monday. The effect of the suspension was a drop in the price from 33⅝, reached on Monday, to an offering price of 11 and a bid price of 5 yesterday afternoon on over-the-counter transactions.

Richards, Hutchinson & Co. of 42 Broadway, Curb brokers who were understood to have been refused payment for about 50,000 shares which they bought on Monday for the account of former Governor C. N. Haskell of Oklahoma, Chairman of the Board of the Middle States Oil Corporation, and other clients, were automatically suspended from membership on the Curb Exchange. A report that the firm could not meet its obligations was declared by members of the firm to be without foundation. The Middle States Oil Corporation is affiliated with the Southern States Oil Corporation through their joint ownership and management of the Oil Lease Development Company.

Ex-Governor Haskell's Statement.

After the suspension of the stock ex-Governor Haskell, intimating that certain brokers had used unfair tactics, authorized the following statement:

"Southern States Oil has nothing whatever to do with the trading of stock of its issue on the New York Curb or elsewhere. It is in first-class condition, and, as shown by recent appraisal by disinterested experts, shows a book value of about $40 a share, as I am shown the report with which I had nothing whatever to do—but is the appraisement of disinterested experts. The trading in stock has been purely personal by myself and many other people in no way connected with Southern States company, and who trade in Southern States stock as the multitudes do in other stocks for their own account.

"For some days past the trading has been aggressively carried on by both bulls and bears. If intrinsic value prevails, the bears will get the worst of it; if desperate tactics prevail, intrinsic values might temporarily be lost sight of. With a little more record information, which I am endeavoring to obtain, I may be able to show desperate methods of the opposition which honest public opinion will not approve. My observations so far are that most of the brokers are loyal and just in their methods of doing business; but there does seem,

NO OFFICIAL ACTION ON LIEUT. WOOD CASE

SENSATION IN WASHINGTON

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Revelation today of the successful stock speculations of Lieutenant Osborne Cutler Wood, son and aid of Gen. Gen. Leonard Wood, with the information that the Lieutenant intends to resign from the army after having accumulated a fortune, with a view to entering the American Diplomatic Service, created a sensation in official Washington.

From the Capitol to the War Department, where officials were hard pressed by newspaper men for an official statement on the subject, the assertion by Lieutenant Wood, in the presence of General Wood—to the chief correspondent of the Washington bureau of THE TIMES, sent to Manila to investigate and learn the facts at first hand—that he had made profits of between $700,000 and $800,000 some 10,000 miles away from the New York Stock Exchange, aroused the keenest interest.

There were occasional expressions of surprise that so young an officer, with the rank and pay only of a lieutenant, and dependent upon uncertain and delayed communications, had been able to make such lucky investments, and gain other profits through the shifting of funds on exchange rates, while seasoned veterans in Wall Street were playing a losing game. No additional details were available here, however, and with no further information forthcoming from the War Department, those who discussed the case were left to indulge in their own wonderment.

No Official Action Taken.

No official statement was obtainable from the War Department today with respect to the case. It was asserted, however, at the department that, so far as officers stationed here are aware, no official action had ever been taken in connection with the speculative investment activities of Lieutenant Wood, although it was admitted that Secretary Weeks had been advised some time ago, informally and through private channels, with respect to certain transactions attributed to Lieutenant Wood.

In the absence of Secretary of War Weeks at West Newton, Mass., visiting his son Sinclair Weeks over Christmas, officials in the War Department told newspapermen today no formal statement could be issued. Any formal comment on the case, they added, must come from the Secretary of War, if he cared to issue a statement. It was the understanding, however, of the officers on duty in the department that the matter had never been handled officially by the department, although the Secretary of War was understood to have some knowledge of the case, and no instructions or orders had ever been officially issued dealing with it.

The further information was vouchsafed by an officer in the department that after the matter had been brought in an informal way to the attention of Secretary Weeks, he had unofficially advised friends of both General Wood and Lieutenant Wood to take the matter up with General Wood.

In doing so, Secretary Weeks is understood to have indicated that while there was nothing in his knowledge of the case which warranted the shelter that he had any official jurisdiction over speculative investments by officers of the army, Lieutenant Wood, in the judgment of the Secretary of War, should stop his speculation. It is also understood that after the Secretary had indicated this view, assurances did come through private channels and friends of the Lieutenant that his speculations had ended and that Lieutenant Wood had

NO BIG PROFIT IN EXCHANGE

Philippine Peso Has Varied Only About a Cent in a Year—Lieutenant's Mentor Talks Freely.

Publication yesterday in THE NEW YORK TIMES of the facts concerning stock speculations of Lieutenant Osborne C. Wood, son and aid to Major Gen. Leonard Wood, Governor General of the Philippines, by means of which the young man made profits in Wall Street of between $700,000 and $800,000 in a few months of spectacular play, brought out the fact that the Lieutenant's stock deals were based on cable advice sent to him at midnight each week day by Alfred T. Moore, owner of a small bureau which makes a speciality of sending market advice to speculators. For this service Wood paid $500 a month for several months, but in midsummer of this year he had been so successful in the market that he voluntarily increased the tipping fee to $1,000 a month.

It also came out that despite his distance of some 10,000 miles away from the seat of market action, despite the small capital with which he says he started and which must have continued to handicap him, and despite the uncertainty which must have attended getting his "tips" at the right time, young Wood developed into a very [illegible] after his initial success in stocks and Oil of New Jersey in the "dividend market" of late 1922. During the last year Lieutenant Wood has plunged heavily on both the "long" and "short" side of the market. On single days he has been the possessor—on margin—of a line of as much as 35,000 shares of stocks. He has been "long" of as many as nineteen separate stocks on the New York Stock Exchange list, and at other times, when he believed the market was due to decline, has been "short" of as many as fourteen separate stocks.

Made a Record as Buyer of Advice.

Moore is the son of a Methodist bishop and claims a record of thirty-three years in Wall Street. He freely admitted yesterday, practically to all comers, that he had served as Wood's market mentor for more than a year, and in his unpretentious little office in Broad Street gave details of the information he had given to Wood, exhibiting as evidence of his statements a number of cable dispatches signed by Wood, in which the young man had told of his market position.

Moore conducts a varied service. He prints a daily market sheet or service, evidently mimeographed, in which a general review of the market is printed, together with a list of the active stocks with advice as to what should be done with them—that is, whether they should be bought or sold. In addition, he has a list of clients whom he advises by wire as to the probable market action of stocks. Lieutenant Wood was one of the preferred customers. In fact, Moore declared yesterday that Wood had paid his firm more money for market service during the last year than had been paid by any individual in the country to any other stock service.

Professional and speculative Wall Street calls such a service a "tipping bureau" and pays no attention to it whatever. Taken as a whole, such a service usually is supported by small traders, who trust that its proprietor has some sort of "inside" information from which they may profit. Hardened and experienced professional traders and most of the amateur traders do not listen to "tips" of this sort. However, Lieutenant Wood appears to have followed religiously the advice given him, as was shown by the cable messages from the young man in Manila, exhibited by Moore.

Wood "Quick as a Trap," Adviser Says.

"It would be foolish to believe that Wood made all of his money in one stock," declared Moore. "Make no mistake about the young man's trading ability. He's as quick and bright as a new steel trap. I have watched him switch his position in the market as quickly as any trader in the Street."

Osborne Wood's "tips" cost from 22 cents per word to $1.12 per word in cable tolls, according to Moore. The "urgent" messages of the Commercial Cable Company cost the sender $2.52 a word from New York to Manila. No time is guaranteed. A message takes from ten minutes to thirteen hours in transmission, according to the state of the traffic. Congestion is greatest between 4 o'clock and 8 o'clock in the afternoon. The difference in time between New York and Manila is thirteen hours. When the Stock Exchange opens in New York at 10 A. M., it is 11 P. M. in Manila; and when the Exchange closes at 3 P. M., it is 4 A. M. in Manila. The difficulties in active trading, there-

Radcliffe Girls Excel Harvard Men In Series of Tests for Intelligence

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 26.—Recent psychological tests given to a number of students at Harvard and Radcliffe Colleges show that the girls scored over the male students. The Harvard students show an average of 50.5 per cent., while the Radcliffe girls have a 55 per cent. average, based on tests given thirty-seven girls. The tests were devised by Dr. Abraham A. Roback of Harvard, and were given in the Harvard psychological laboratory by Professor Herbert S. Langfeld, Professor of Psychology.

The tests were based on relative speed in observation, deduction, mental application and interpretation. They were given in three instalments, with a time limit of fifty minutes. The same tests were given to both Radcliffe and Harvard students.

A Radcliffe student and a Harvard student tied for the first place with an average of 86 per cent. The low was scored by a Harvard student with 9 per cent. The lowest level reached by a girl was 28 per cent.

"The relatively higher mental average shown by the girls over the boys is to be explained by the fact that greater discrimination is exercised in sending girls to colleges than is shown in men," said Dr. Roback. "Before a girl is sent to college she must have demonstrated that she is fitted to enter a college and that she has a definite aim in view. A girl is not sent to a higher institution unless she has real ability and aims for something definite.

"On the other hand, at least a great many men go to college because it is the thing. There are thousands of students in colleges who do not know just why they are there and what they will do when they get out. They merely plod along, dependent upon the educational system.

"The results of the tests bring the colleges up to their greatest problem. A change in college entrance examinations is necessary, if the collegians are to maintain high mental calibre. There is one solution—the 'intelligence tests.'"

Chicagoan, Saved When 'Broke' by 10 Helpers, Builds $150,000 Apartment House for Each

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—Because they gave their employer their savings seven years ago to carry on his fight against the "modern" dances, ten young men here were started on their way to wealth today by the man for whom they work.

Seven years ago J. Louis Guyon was "broke." He had invested his entire capital in the building of a ballroom dedicated to "unceasing war on indecent dancing." His finances became exhausted. His ten floormen, instructors, ticket salesmen and office force pooled their savings, gave them to him and carried Guyon's ideas out to the letter.

The tide turned and now Guyon is rated among the wealthy—his newspaper advertising and assaults on "jazz" dancing are believed to be a contributing factor. Today he broke ground at Crawford and Park Avenues for ten flat buildings, each to hold thirty apartments, and each of which will go on completion to one of the ten employes.

Each employe will be taught the business of managing apartments, handling finances, and in three years will obtain a deed to the property, which is valued at $150,000, and will bring him an income of $27,000 annually. In four years more the whole indebtedness will have been paid off, as the deal is planned now.

Guyon advanced the money for the purchase of land and erection of the buildings and will permit the workers to pay the principal back out of their rentals.

fore, have been multiplied in the skies of young Wood.

The advisory messages filed via Commercial Cable by Moore at midnight each night varied in length and, of course, in cost. Wood's name was sent in code, known to the cable office in Manila. The balance of the messages was in plain English. On days when no fresh advice was to be sent, the mere word "unchanged" was sent by cable to Wood. But frequently he wanted longer and more detailed advice. The maximum price in cable tolls paid in a single day was $90, according to Moore. The cost ran as high as $400 in a single month. Frequently, according to Moore, Wood would become interested in a particular stock and he would receive a request from Wood for an analysis. This was cabled, and sometimes amounted to as much as a hundred words or so.

Traded Before Going to Manila.

Evidently Wood dabbled in the market before going to Manila. From June to July, 1922, the Moore service was sent to him in Chicago by mail. Then he instructed that it be sent by cable to Manila. The first message was sent Oct. 9, 1922, according to Moore. This just about coincides with the date of the "top" for Standard Oil of New Jersey, in which Lieutenant Wood declared on Monday to a special correspondent of THE NEW YORK TIMES in Manila, he made his first large amount of money. Moore declared that he advised Wood to buy this stock between 180 and 190.

"I told him to sell it at 250," declared Mr. Moore, unblushingly. The stock sold at 250½ before starting its long decline.

From that time until a few weeks ago Moore sent Wood a cable every midnight, six times a week. He exhibited these cables yesterday and many from Wood.

"Of course, I don't know whether he took my advice in all these cases or not," said Moore, "but I am sure he did take it in some cases."

According to one cable message from Wood to Moore, on Aug. 30, this year, Wood was long of Baldwin Locomotive, California Petroleum, Mack Truck, United States Steel, Standard Oil of New Jersey, American Locomotive, Standard Oil of New Jersey and Pan-American Petroleum. These shares almost uniformly declined until late November, when a change came in the market.

Moore declared that he had advised Wood to buy 10,000 shares of United States Cast Iron Pipe common at 33 to 35 and an equal number of shares of preferred. This stock sells currently at 42 and the preferred at 83. He declared that he instructed Wood on Aug. 23 to buy the Erie shares, all of which have had a big rise, ranging from 10 to 20 points. At the same time he says he cabled Wood to buy National Lead, which also has advanced.

"On Aug. 31," said Moore, "I advised the purchase of Willys Overland preferred, and I think Wood made a good profit in that."

Other stocks which Moore advised Wood to buy and which have advanced recently were Jewel Tea, Big Four, American Can, Continental Can, General Electric, Atlantic Refining, Houston Oil and Davison Chemical.

Wood Did Have Losses.

Naturally the boy speculator did not make a ten strike every time, Moore said. He took some severe losses in American Hide & Leather and one or two other stocks in which the industries they represented had experienced a difficult year. Asked if Lieutenant Wood was still taking the service, Moore said that he would prefer not to answer that question. Lieutenant Wood, however, has stated categorically that his speculations have ceased.

In just what New York Stock Exchange houses Osborne Wood made his trades has not been ascertained. It has been reported from authorative sources, however, that they were, in the main, houses with San Francisco, or at least West Coast offices. It has been reported that one of his accounts was with the New York Stock Exchange firm of Logan & Bryan of 42 Broadway and another with the firm of Brown & Coombe of 100 Broadway, members of the New York Stock Exchange. The heads of both these firms declined positively yesterday to say whether or not Osborne Wood had been a customer, or to give any information about any transactions they might have had for his account, on the ground that the information was confidential between themselves and their client.

Heavy Margins Needed.

However, admitting the correctness of Moore's statement that Lieutenant Wood was carrying 35,000 shares of stock on a single day, those familiar with the mechanics of the market declared that he would have been obliged to maintain a margin of at least $700,000 with the firms which handled these deals. Even that would be only 20 per cent., and in the cases of some of the stocks traded in, would be considered in Wall Street as very "thin margin."

The good fortune of the young soldier in the market was commented on freely in speculative quarters of Wall Street yesterday. The attitude of most of the out-and-out speculators was that probably the young man had demonstrated the truth of the theory that there is such a thing as geting too "close to the market and that long range shots are the best."

Not Much Profit in Exchange.

The statement to the TIMES special correspondent in the Philippines by Lieutenant Wood that some of his fortune had been accumulated in foreign exchange transactions caused considerable comment in banking circles yesterday because of the narrow range of the Philippine exchange—it is what Philippine exchange in which he used his funds—during the last year. Bankers hope do not, as a rule, bid up the premium on gold. As an indication of the narrow margin of profit that might be made through the purchase and sale of the Philippine gold peso in terms of dollars, the record of that currency for the year shows a low point of 49¼ cents, a high of 50⅜ cents and recent quotations of 49¾ to 49⅞ cents. Par is 50 cents.

Bankers whose institutions were mentioned in THE TIMES cable dispatch from Manila, bringing word of Lieutenant Wood's good fortune in the market, again declined yesterday to make any statement or comment whatever about the transactions, on the ground that whatever remittances had been made have been on instructions from a client, and that the relations between a client and his banker are confidential.

John H. Fulton, President of the National Park Bank of New York, in which institution it was reported a sum ranging between $175,000 and $250,000 has been deposited to Osborne Wood's credit declared that bank etiquette would prohibit him from answering any question whatever on the subject. He declined to state whether the young man has at this time, or has had, an account with the bank, or to give any details of its fluctuations if there was such an account.

Even the Earthquake Helped Him.

One particularly interesting incident of Lieutenant Wood's transactions, illustrating the difficulties under which a transpacific speculator would trade in the market here, came out yesterday in the course of inquiries into the Lieutenant's activities.

From an independent source it was learned that young Wood was very actively involved in the stock market about the date of the Japanese earthquake. Cable interruptions which developed at that time put him completely out of touch with his market adviser in New York and also out of touch with any opportunity to buy or sell stocks. However, his phenomenal luck held good. He happened to be "long" of the market at the time, and by the time the cables again were working and private messages could crowd in between the official and Government dispatches, the market had recovered from the earthquake shock and again was surging upward.

Standard Oil's Comment.

Officials of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, in whose stock, about the time of the recapitalization, Lieutenant Wood laid the foundations for his fortune, said yesterday they knew nothing of the young man or his market operations. One of them ventured the suggestion that he would like to be put on Wood's mailing list for a few weeks.

Henry B. Thompson, father-in-law of Osborne C. Wood, declined last night to make any further comment on his son-in-law's activities.

CALLS GENERAL WOOD RIGHT MAN FOR PLACE

Former Rotary President of Manila Says Our Educational System Breeds Trouble.

PERTH AMBOY, N. J., Dec. 26.—General Leonard Wood as Governor General of the Philippines was described as the "right man in the right place" today by Raymond W. Berbeau, a business man of Manila and former President of the Rotary Club there, in an address to the local Rotary Club in the Westminster Hotel.

"The troubles in the Philippines are due largely to the American system of education introduced into the islands," said Mr. Berbeau. "Class consciousness is being developed and that can never rule the islands. It is bound to breed trouble as long as it wields an influence."

Asserting that the Jones law passed by Congress in the Wilson Administration was a failure, Mr. Berbeau said that when Governor General Harrison was appointed by President Wilson he sought to make the natives as independent as possible. "The Filipinos were given the greatest power possible in self-government," said Mr. Berbeau. "They put the Government into almost every line of business, using the Philippines Bank to finance the enterprises, with the result that it was brought near failure."

Mr. Berbeau summed up by saying the Filipinos were better off than ever under General Wood.

arranged to embark on a steamer leaving Manila about Jan. 1 for the United States.

Frear Not Surprised.

Representative James A. Frear of Wisconsin, who in the last session of Congress, prior to its recess for the Christmas holidays, offered a resolution calling for a sweeping investigation of the Philippine situation, the Administration of General Wood as Governor General, and of allegations that Senators, Representatives and others prominent in Washington life had received payment from the Philippine Independence Commission for espousing the cause of independence, declined to comment at length on the case of Lieutenant Wood, but did have some observations to offer.

"I was not entirely surprised by the disclosures in THE NEW YORK TIMES," said Mr. Frear. "The investigation by THE TIMES has opened up some things quite generally understood in certain circles."

Beyond this Mr. Frear would not comment at this time. It is understood his attitude is that, inasmuch as he has introduced a resolution demanding an extensive investigation into the conduct of the Administration of General Wood in the Philippines, he does not feel that he should express himself on the case of Lieutenant Wood in advance of a possible inquiry into it that may come through the passage of the Frear resolution, which seeks to have the House Rules Committee report to what extent, if any, army or navy officers or other officials of the Government "own or have owned, or have profited directly or indirectly, either in their own names or in the names of others, through the holding or selling of stocks or bonds of companies, firms or corporations having affiliations in the Philippine Islands, or to what extent they have profited in other ways in connection with any Philippine concern, product or industry."

Brother Knew Osborne Was Lucky.

Leonard Wood Jr., brother of Lieutenant Osborne Wood, who was in Washington today, declined to discuss the speculative investments of his brother in the Philippines.

"I of course know that my brother contemplates leaving the army to go into the diplomatic service," he said, "and that he expects to leave for this country next month. I know that he has been very lucky in the purchase of securities, but as to the details, I am not in a position to talk, and do not think I should talk about his personal affairs when he is 10,000 miles away in the Philippines."

Leonard Wood Jr. has not been in the Philippines with his father but has remained in this country. He is in Washington this week in connection with the presentation of a theatrical production at the President Theatre.

At the State Department it was stated, in response to inquiry, that Lieutenant Osborne Wood had not applied for appointment into the Diplomatic Corps, and that he had not asked the department for any of the usual application blanks with a view to entering the service.

SCIENCE TO NOTICE RELIGIOUS DISPUTE

WALCOTT DENIES CONFLICT

Dr. Manning's Stand a Surprise to Scientific Circles—3,600 Expected at Cincinnati.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 26.—There is no conflict between religion and science, according to Dr. Charles D. Walcott, Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution at Washington, President of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, which will begin its seventy-fifth annual meeting here tomorrow. As a leading geologist, Dr. Walcott was interviewed immediately upon his arrival here today on the present controversy between the Modernists and Fundamentalists in the churches.

"Religion and science are not in conflict," said Dr. Walcott. "They are both seeking after truth, but in different fields. Science is trying to discover the truth about the physical phenomena of life, of nature, while religion is interested in the spiritual development of man.

"We have had these furious controversies between the theologians and the advocates of evolution for a long time. There has been an eternal conflict between the theologians and the scientists. It has gone on since the days when they threatened to execute Galileo, and it always will go on."

Dr. Walcott pointed out that it was not necessary for a churchman to be a theologian any more than it was for a scientist to be an atheist. He said that he was a churchman himself, but not a theologian. He is an active worker in the Presbyterian Church of the Covenant in Washington.

"It would be surprising if you knew the number of scientific men who are connected with church activities," Dr. Walcott went on. "A great many scientific men are thoroughly religious, not to say nothing about it, and no one thinks of them as church members. I was surprised to learn recently how many of the scientific men at the Smithsonian Institution attended church regularly."

Dr. Walcott pointed out that Dr. Henry F. Osborn of the American Museum of National History, Professor Edwin Conklin of Princeton University, John Merriam of the Carnegie Institute, John M. Coulter, dean of American botanists, and Dr. Samuel Schmucker, Professor of Biological Science in Pennsylvania State Normal, all leaders in their own fields of science, were among the many scientists actively engaged in church work.

Dr. Walcott expressed surprise that Bishop William T. Manning of the Episcopal Church had been linked with the Fundamentalists in the New York Church row. He said that Dr. Mannins had been regarded in scientific circles as unusually liberal.

Evolution More Firmly Established.

Despite claims of some Fundamentalists in the churches that the evolutionary theory was being abandoned, Dr. Walcott said that scientists were becoming more and more impressed with the facts of evolution as time goes on.

"A study of the fossils gives strong evidence of the truth of the theory of evolution," he continued. "One of the best illustrations is the progressive development of the skeletons of vertebrates through millions of years, from the lowest to the highest forms, culminating in the man-like animals, the chimpansee and the gorilla, and finally in primitive man, as disclosed by remains found in ancient caves of Central Europe.

"Throughout the world our scientists are diligently searching for the truth, with the ultimate aim of improving the physical, mental and moral life of man. In far-off Manchuria, American scientists have just found dinosaur eggs and bones, estimated by some to be 10,000,000 years old, and in California Dr. Millikan, studying the electron and the ultimate constitution of matter, is awarded the Nobel prize for his achievements, while in laboratories everywhere other scientists likewise pursue and bring to bay the age-long fugitive truth and turn it to the service of the race."

A comprehensive defense of evolution against the current attacks on it is expected to form the greater part of the address to be delivered at the first general session of the convention tomorrow evening by Professor Wallace McMurrich, anatonomist, of the University of Toronto.

About 1,500 papers on practically every subject in the range of science will be read during the convention which will last until Jan. 2. There will be lectures on physics, chemistry, astronomy, mathematics, geography, geology, zoology, botany, anthropology, psychology, economics, sociology, engineering, medicine, agriculture, education and practically every other subject in which science enters.

Scientific statements of much public interest are anticipated in various subjects, notably an address by Professor J. J. McLeod of the University of Toronto on insulin, the new treatment for diabetes. Dr. McLeod received the Nobel prize for the discovery of insulin jointly with Dr. F. G. Banting.

3,600 Scientists to Attend.

The meetings of the convention will be held at the University of Cincinnati and the Hughes High School. Dean Louis T. More of the graduate school, University of Cincinnati, who is Chairman of the local committee of arrangements, announced this afternoon that 3,600 scientists from all parts of the country, with their guests, had given notice that they would attend the convention. Many of the scientists who will attend the convention rendered notable expert service to the Government during the war. Prominent among these is a group of mathematicians and astronomers who solved the difficult problems arising in the preparation of range tables for the high-power guns that were used so extensively in the World War. The pre-war Ballistic theory proved entirely inadequate for the high-angle fire of such guns and two groups of mathematical experts were set to work at Washington and Aberdeen proving grounds in order to provide a new range table.

The actual work of the convention will be done in more than a dozen section meetings, using the facilities offered by the University of Cincinnati. Each section will be presided over by a vice president interested in that branch of science. The national scope of the gathering is seen in this roster of divisions:

Section A, Mathematics—Vice President, Professor Harris Hancock, University of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Section B, Physics—Vice President, Dr. W. F. G. Swann, University of Chicago.

KEEP UP CHURCH TRUCE.

Some Rectors Expected to Preach on Subject on Sunday.

So far as any expression of views was concerned, neither side departed yesterday from the Christmas truce asked by Bishop Manning in the Fundamentalist-Moderalist controversy in the Episcopal Church. It was learned, however, that a number of the rectors who have figured in the dispute were preparing sermons for next Sunday in which they would expound again the views that have disturbed the Fundamentalists.

"Teaching the Bible in the New Day" was the general theme yesterday at the fourteenth annual conference of Biblical Instructors in American Colleges and Secondary Schools, held in Earl Hall, Columbia University.

The conference will conclude this afternoon.

The fifty-ninth meeting of the Society of Biblical Literature will be held today and tomorrow in the synagogue house of the Central and Free Synagogues in Sixty-eighth Street, near Central Park West. Simultaneously meetings will be held of the trustees of the American Schools of Oriental Research and of the Corporation of the American Schools of Oriental Research.

Today's program will begin at 2 o'clock with papers by Professor J. A. Bower of Union Theological Seminary; Professor G. A. Barton of Bryn Mawr, Professor P. Haupt of Johns Hopkins University, Professor C. C. Torrey of Yale, Professor J. H. Ropes of Harvard, Professor N. Schmidt of Cornell and Professor M. L. Margolis of Dropsie College, Philadelphia, President of the society. At this evening's session Professor W. W. Moulton will read a report on the American School in Jerusalem and Professor D. G. Lyon will report on the Harvard excavations in Samaria. Both reports will be illustrated with stereopticon views.

COLUMBUS MEMORIALS PROBABLY DESTROYED

They Are Believed to Have Been Lost in Incendiary Fire at Palos, Spain.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 26.—Mail advices from Huelva, Spain, report that the town hall of the village of Palos de la Frontera, from whose harbor, now silted up, Columbus sailed in the Santa Maria on Aug. 3, 1492, has been totally destroyed by fire, which is believed to have been started by a local official.

An imminent visit by an inspecting officer appointed by the military directorate was announced, and it was supposed that the fire was set in order to do away with evidence of fraud in the municipal accounts. A commission of the Civil Guard has been sent down from Madrid with orders to make an investigation and at the same time to take steps to collect any papers relating to the discovery of America which might still exist.

Serious fears are entertained that all such municipal archives have been destroyed.

NEW TELEPHONE MANAGER.

Henry C. Carpenter Will Have Charge of New York System.

Announcement of the appointment of Henry C. Carpenter, 45 years old, to the position of general manager of the New York Telephone Company, effective Jan. 1, was made yesterday. Since 1919 Mr. Carpenter has been chief engineer. He will now be in charge of the Company's operations, reporting to J. S. McCullough, Operating Vice President.

Mr. Carpenter will be succeeded as chief engineer by George W. McRae of Chicago, chief engineer of the Illinois Bell Telephone Company, and formerly toll traffic engineer of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company in New York.

Gov. Cox Will Not Seek Re-election.

BOSTON, Dec. 26.—Governor Cox announced today that he would not be a candidate for re-election. "My intention," he said, "is to retire from politics at the end of my term of office. I have said no definite plans as to what I shall do then, but I expect to resume the practice of law."

OIL STOCK AND FIRM SUSPENDED BY CURB

with the present information, to be an opportunity for some of the others to explain their conduct. Temporary suspension in trading, however, of this stock I believe was wise and proper on the part of the Curb management, to the end that a brief time absolutely necessary to gauge the condition could be had."

C. H. Rowan, Vice President and Director of Southern States Oil, said that corporation, as such, had never "bought or sold a single share of its stock on the New York Curb Market or any other exchange." He said a recent appraisal had put the value of the corporation's assets at $19,011,877 net, exclusive of outstanding interests, and that the company will not permit the trading or temporary lack of trading in its stock to interfere with the production and development of its properties and the protection of the interest of its stockholders.

A special meeting of the board of the Middle States Oil Corporation has been called for 12 o'clock today to consider, Mr. Rowan said, "a proposition submitted for acquiring a considerable block of Southern States Oil Corporation stock from various brokers' accounts at a price not exceeding such average of brokers' balances."

The New York Stock Exchange made this announcement:

"The Committee on Business Conduct of the New York Stock Exchange is investigating transactions of Stock Exchange houses in stock of the Southern States Oil Corporation, trading in which was suspended today by the Curb market."

Dispatches from Boston quoted the following notice as having been posted on the floor of the Boston Stock Exchange: "Committee on Securities of Boston Stock Exchange advises members that before executing orders in Southern States Oil Corporation stock they have certificates in hand."

Officials of the Curb would not discuss the case pending the Governor's investigation other than to say that the suspension had been the result of an investigation conducted by the Exchange authorities regarding the market operations in the stock last week.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Dec. 26.—C. N. Haskell, sponsor of the Southern States Oil Corporation, which was suspended from trading on the New York Curb Market today, upon completing his term of office as the first Governor of Oklahoma in 1907, left office virtually penniless, according to his friends.

The next year Haskell became personal attorney for Harry F. Sinclair, and within a few months, in the vernacular of the oil fields, "crude was running in his veins." Soon he was drilling on his own oil leases and Oklahoma heard that he was becoming wealthy.

One of his outstanding achievements, as related here, was when he outwitted the field and was one of the first to engage in the Wyoming oil development in 1921. By this stroke he was said to have incurred the enmity of large oil interests.

CHILEAN PRESIDENT DEFIES THE SENATE

POINTS TO CONSTITUTION

Says He Will Send to Congress a Bill Setting the Noble Election for March.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Dec. 26.—President Alessandri sprang a surprise today upon friend and foe alike. He is a lawyer and there is little about the Constitution of his country which he does not know. His opponents accuse him of violating its spirit, but he points to the letter of the law and probably smiles to himself, while the jurists and pundits argue hotly for and against his interpretation of it. Yesterday nobody dreamed that the President would take the course which he has now announced through the press that he intends to take.

Ismael Tocornal, one of Chile's "elder statesmen," went to President Alessandri with two suggestions designed to bridge the gulf between the President and the Senate. In Tocornal's own words, "the country may fall into an abyss if the public powers are not inspired by patriotic motives." He talked to the President along that line, and then submitted his proposals.

One of the suggestions was for a compromise upon the date of the Noble election. Even Tocornal hardly expected the President to yield ground on this pivotal point in the whole electoral situation. It was hoped that Tocornal's second proposal would find more favor in the President's eyes, as it simply amounted to a request that President Alessandri's new Cabinet should be "a business ministry," and that it should include members who would carry on affairs and would stand in the public eye for freedom of the elections next March.

President Alessandri listened in silence to all that Tocornal had to say. Then he replied. His first point was that he was not a dictator and had no ambitions that way. He was the constitutional President, invested with certain powers which he proposed to utilize to the full in his country's interest. His second point had reference to the Noble election. He would send to Congress a bill fixing the date of that election in March. Since the Senate wants the election held at once, this was like flaunting a red cloak before a bull.

The third point of the President's response to the would-be conciliator contained the germ of the surprise which the President has now set before the country. The Cabinet, whose formation was forced by the Senate, the Executive said, consisted of men whom he considered to be the best qualified to handle the country's affairs. He could not find it in his heart to appoint others more qualified, and the Cabinet should remain in control at least until the income tax bill has been passed. If that plan did not meet with the approval of the Senate, he, the President, would have only one recourse—to form a new Cabinet of members of the Liberal Alliance, a fighting Cabinet.

Tocornal came away after grimly thanking the President for his declaration that he had no dictatorial ambitions, and that the idea had never entered his head of going outside the law and the Constitution.

Alessandri's opponents seem for the moment nonplussed, but there is little likelihood of the Senate throwing up the sponge after this counter-blow to Senatorial votes of censure of the Cabinet and no confidence in the President. Even the President's supporters were somewhat taken aback.

The Cabinet meeting—the old Cabinet is carrying on, pending the formation of a new one—was held today, and several Ministers informed the President that they had doubts as to the wisdom of the course he proposed to follow. Considerations of dignity and honor made it necessary, they said, that a Cabinet censured by the Senate should not remain in office, and it was also a question whether such a procedure would be in strict accordance with the Constitution.

The Executive was prepared for these objections. He is a wizard of speech, and famous for his knowledge of constitutional law.

He recited precedent after precedent and telling arguments to prove that the President was not always obliged to remove Ministers because of a vote of censure by only one of the branches of Congress. That such has been custom since 1891, when the Balmacedist dictatorship was overthrown by a revolution which cost 10,000 lives, he admitted, but there were other considerations to which due weight must be given in the present circumstances.

Although President Alessandri apparently did not entirely convince doubters, who refused to express an opinion on the constitutional point involved, he won the support of the Cabinet sufficiently to obtain their agreement to remain in office until the Chamber of Deputies has passed the Income Tax bill. This measure is before the Lower House for the second time. After being passed once by the Deputies it came before the Senate, which adopted it with amendments and they are now being considered by the Chamber.

APPEAL FOR OUR SHIPPING.

W. S. Marvin and A. S. March Ask Industry to Use Merchant Fleet.

Support of American shipping by American industry was urged by W. S. Marvin, Vice President of the American Steamship Owners' Association, and his plea was echoed by A. S. March, Vice President of the Steamship Operators' Association, at the meeting last night of the Traffic Club in the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria.

"Give our shipping men a chance, half a chance even, and they will make good," said Mr. Marvin. "If the commercial interests and the country do not support our ships and their operation, the American overseas line will be swept from the Atlantic. I am sorry to say that our shipping is decreasing. We are now carrying not more than one-third of imports and exports in American ships."

Mr. Marvin said a handicap to American shipowners and operators was the question of wages, which makes competition with foreign vessels and their lower wages for operation difficult to meet. He suggested that a small protective measure, far less in amount than that accorded American industry in general by the protective tariff, would enable the survival of the American merchant marine.

"Business men of America, place your imports and exports in American bottoms," he suggested. "On the North Atlantic today our ships are carrying not more than 10 per cent. of the trade with Great Britain. In the West Indies, we are doing better. There our ships are getting 50 per cent. of the business. That is due to the fact that American business has larger interests there, has immense capital invested, and in a general way merchants and shipping lines are working close and efficiently together.

"We cannot and would not reduce wages. The seamen, especially the engineer, can step ashore and get pay similar to that he is receiving in protected industry on land. The wages represent 4 per cent. of the capitalized American tonnage, small in individual amount per ship, but large enough to eliminate American ships by foreign competition."

Mr. March took issue with critics of the Shipping Board, saying there had been unjust condemnation of its work and operation of lines. He asserted there was no truth in the report that the board had forced any privately owned steamship line out of business.

PARIS, Dec. 26.—Two ceremonies were held in Paris today to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the discovery of radium. The first at the Sorbonne and presided over by President Millerand, was in the manner of an official and public recognition of the work of Mme. Curie and eulogistic addresses to the genius and altruism of the famed co-discoverer of radium were made by Rector Appell of the Academy of Paris, Professor Perrin of the Sorbonne, Dr. Declere of the Academy of Medicine and Leon Berard, Minister of Public Instruction. The second ceremony, while less official, was of far greater importance, ushering in, as it promises to do, a new era in the practical application of radium to the treatment of cancer. This ceremony was the inauguration of the Curie Foundation and was presided over by Paul Strauss, Minister of Hygiene.

The Curie Foundation is a private institution which is recognized as a public utility and is authorized to receive gifts made to advance the application of radium. Unlike the radium institute, which confines its work to scientific research, the Curie Foundation has a dispensary for the consultation and treatment of sufferers, and also a hospital service for both indigent patients and paying patients. No one is refused treatment and all the money paid by patients who are financially able is turned back to the work of the foundation, all doctors and scientists connected with the institution giving their services free.

To the Curie Foundation Mme. Curie has given the first gram of radium extracted by her husband and herself, while the committee of American women has given an equal amount and Dr. Henri de Rothschild has donated half a gram as well as an annuity of 300,000 francs. The Minister of Hygiene has also obtained for the institution an important subsidiary from the Pari Mutuel and the Paris banker has subscribed 13,000 francs yearly for special research.

Despite these gifts, however, the expenses are at present exceeding the income because of the great number of sufferers who have appealed to the foundation for treatment.

PARIS, Dec. 26 (Associated Press). — President Millerand in an address emphasized the importance of the discovery of radium and voiced the gratitude of the world to Mme. Curie, the modest woman scientist largely responsible for it.

Mme. Curie, in a brief but emotional response, expressed regret that her husband had not lived to receive the honors due him. She said that the primitiveness of their laboratory and the difficulties under which they worked gave an air of romance to the discovery, but that this romantic element had not been an advantage.

"I exhausted our strength and delayed our success," she declared. Their five years of experiment might have been accomplished in two under proper conditions, she said.

DEGREE FOR RADIUM WORK.

Dr. Failla of This City Receives Paris University Award.

Dr. Gioacchino Failla, physicist at Memorial Hospital, Central Park West and 106th Street, has received the award of the degree of Doctor of Physical Science from the University of Paris for his studies of radium, according to word received here yesterday. The degree, which is said to be given rarely, was bestowed after an examination before a commission of which Mme. Curie was president.

Dr. Failla, who is an Italian by birth, has been connected with Memorial Hospital for five years. He is a graduate of Columbia University. Since he was placed in charge of the radium laboratory at the hospital he has been carrying on extensive experimental work with radium. It was said at the hospital that his duties were not concerned with treatment by radium, but with radium physics, in which he attained a high reputation. His work was said to deal largely with the economical use of radium.

Recently Dr. Failla left New York on a leave of absence for a trip to Italy. His associates at the hospital said that he had no idea of applying for a degree in Paris when he left, but that a short time ago he sent word here that he had been invited to do so.

WEST POINT CADET KILLED IN SUBWAY

Youth, on Leave for Holidays, Believed to Have Fallen to the Tracks.

Frederick Stanley Cusack, a West Point cadet, 20 years old, son of Colonel Joseph E. Cusack, now stationed at Fort Bliss, Texas, was killed by an Interborough subway train at the Wall Street station early on Christmas morning.

The body, found just south of the station, was identified yesterday by another cadet who started a search when Cusack failed to appear at a dance in Albany. Cusack was absent from the academy on leave, bore an excellent record there, departed in good spirits and had an unmashed check for $20 in his pocket. His comrades said the authorities at West Point believe that he fell from the platform accidentally. They say he could have had no reason to kill himself.

Young Cusack was appointed to the academy from Ohio in 1921. A brother was drowned seven years ago while he, too, was on leave from West Point, where he was a cadet.

Special to The New York Times.

EL PASO, Texas, Dec. 26.—Colonel J. E. Cusack, accompanied by Mrs. Cusack, will leave Thursday noon for West Point to attend the funeral of their son, Frederick Stanley Cusack. The boy was to have been graduated next year. A telegram from a New York undertaker to Colonel Cusack brought the first news of his son's death. Colonel Cusack has served in the army thirty-three years.

KILROE, BANTON AID, QUITS.

Assistant District Attorney to Engage in Private Practice.

Assistant District Attorney Edwin P. Kilroe tendered his resignation to District Attorney Banton yesterday, to take effect on Jan. 1. He is connected with the Appeals Bureau of the prosecutor's office, but during most of his eight years' service with the District Attorney's office he had been assigned to special investigations, including the Dreamland Park land frauds and the Mitchel election fund. His investigation of the war charity frauds resulted in $250,000 being returned to contributors, the return of several indictments and the breaking up of the practice.

His investigation of theatre ticket speculating brought about an ordinance adopted by the Aldermen restricting speculators to a profit of 50 cents on a ticket. Mr. Kilroe's investigation of matrimonial agencies forced many of them out of business.

In acknowledging Mr. Kilroe's letter of resignation, Mr. Banton expressed regret and added: "Permit me to wish you every good thing as you retire from public office to engage in private practice."

COOLIDGE PARDONED MAN NEVER IN JAIL

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—A year ago Philip Grossman, a saloonkeeper, was sentenced by former Federal Judge Landis to a year in jail after he had violated an injunction against selling intoxicants. President Coolidge in his list of Christmas pardons included the name of Grossman. But today it developed that Grossman had never been in jail, although he recently lost an appeal to the higher court.

The Presidential warrant was not received today. Word had been received that President Coolidge had commuted the sentance and it was expected that Grossman would be knocking at the door of the House of Correction, seeking admission today so that the executed clemency would become operative.

But, as Richey V. Graham, Superintendent of the institution expressed it, "we can't liberate a prisoner who isn't a prisoner." The comment of Robert Lorz, U. S. Marshal, was similar:

"I have the commitment papers for him, also a telegram from Attorney General Daugherty announcing the pardon. If I get him I must take him to the Bridewell; then they can release him."

Grossman, however, was neither seen nor heard. His attorney, Louis J. Behan, and his friend, Homer K. Galpin, Republican County Chairman, said that he was expected here any minute from Hot Springs, Ark., where he has been seeking to regain his health. Mr. Galpin, incidentally, denied rumors to the effect that Grossman had spent a large sum in his efforts to escape jail, and Mr. Behan said that while the trial and appeal expenses were large, no other money was expended. Reports of the amount his fight to escape jail cost Grossman vary from $15,000 to $30,000.

Attaches of the Department of Justice admitted there had been something of a "slip-up" in the President's Christmas present to Grossman, but were not specific. An "inadvertant act of a Department of Justice employe" was mentioned.

This caused the so-far unanswered question as to whether the Presidential warrant freeing Grossman of the sentence has been withheld, or whether it would now be operative if received. It was explained that the President's clemency was not a pardon in the strict sense of the word, but was rather a commutation as it did not annull the fine of $1,000 imposed by Judge Landis.

It was said at Washington that Senator William B. McKinley requested a pardon, and that at the suggestion of the President the Department of Justice reviewed the case and recommended clemency. Mr. Galpin said that a review of the evidence on which Grossman was sentenced indicated that it was untrustworthy.

G. W. Middekauf, special assistant to the United States Attorney General, was convinced there was justice to Grossman's contentions, and added his to the recommendations for a pardon. District Attorney Edwin Olson, who said that he had not been consulted in the matter of the pardon, declared that he was undecided as to the present status of Grossman's right to liberty. It would take a few exchanges of telegrams with Washington, he said, to settle it.

Cunard Subsidiary to Run From Calcutta to New York.

The Cunard Line agents announced yesterday that commencing with the sailing of the steamship Malakuta from Calcutta on Feb. 20 a new direct freight service between that port and Colombo to New York and Boston will be established which will be operated by the Brocklebank line of steamships, a subsidiary of the Cunard. 12 LUNATICS PERISH IN ILLINOIS ASYLUM mind is clear, except during his attacks, was the first to see the fire. He had finished his dinner in Ward 5 mess-room and had gone to his bedside, where he had kneeled down to pray. As he looked up he saw flames bursting out from the cupboard where the paints are kept. He rushed out, giving the alarm. Edith Koger, telephone operator, gave the alarm to the hospital officials in the scattered parts of the institution and the fire drill was sounded.

As soon as the alarm was given, Dr. Corwin called all twenty physicians and all the available nurses. They hurried to the aid of the attendants in the annex in driving the patients out of the building, and in striving for a fire line.

The flames swept through the old structure with great rapidity. If it had been at night, with patients in their beds, many more might have perished.

Some lagged behind to get Christmas presents which were dear to them. There was no time to get coats. A few blankets were snatched up and the patients filed out into the cold rain. The bucket brigade under Chief Burke was soon on the job. Chemical wagons from the walls, but they were useless. The volunteers rushed in to save the laggards and to take care of those who were unable to walk.

A general alarm was sounded through the City of Chicago, and Fire Chief Edward Buckley and Assistant Chief Seyferlich came out with about fourteen companies. The patients in the violent wards rushed to the windows when the refugees from the burning wards marched past. They cried to be free, thinking they were trapped. They were driven away from the windows by police and attendants and order was restored.

New water mains had been put through the hospital grounds during the Lowden administration, and when the engines got into position they soon turned enough streams on the fire to stop it. The front part of the pavilion was saved, but the damage to the wings is estimated at $50,000.

After the flames subsided, firemen began to search the embers for bodies. It was soon established that fifteen or sixteen patients were missing, but it was thought that they had

LIBERALS ARE REJOICING

But Republicans Fear That He May Be Contemplating an Accord With Royalists.

By ANNE O'HARE McCORMICK.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ATHENS, Dec. 26.—The immediate effect here of the decision of ex-Premier Venizelos to return to Greece after three years of banishment is to shift to his shoulders all responsibility for the solution of the problems created by the events following the election. All parties agree that the fate of the country is now in his hands. No more remarkable political phenomenon has ever been witnessed than the spectacle of a whole people holding its breath for a week and now breathing freely again at the word of one man.

Drachma Has Sensational Rise.

Aside from that relief, the news was received here with no more popular excitement than the departure of the King. The only enthusiasm was on the Bourse, where the market was mobbed yesterday in consequence of the sensational rise of the drachma. This jump is due to the assurance that no change will now take place in the Government except by constitutional methods. No provisional Cabinet, either Republican or coalition, will be formed until the arrival of Venizelos, which is timed not to take place until the Constituent Assembly opens. It is announced that this opening will be purely formal. The Dean of Assembly will be appointed temporary Speaker, and a permanent President will be chosen only after consultation with Venizelos.

It is remarked that Venizelos's decision was taken before his receipt of a reply to his questionnaire. Its unexpectedness is causing considerable embarrassment, particularly to the Republicans, who seem now to have joined in the universal petition for his return in the belief that it would not be answered. General Pangalos, leader of the militant Republicans, who left Athens for Saloniki two days ago, started back to the capital to rally the Republican forces as soon as he learned of the receipt of Venizelos's telegram.

The Premier's insistence that his stay will be temporary and provisional is variously interpreted. Colonel Plastiras, head of the Revolutionary Committee, believes that once here his patriotism will force him to take active command of the Government. Others predict that he will demand the recall of the King in order to re-establish the status quo existing after the elections. Both ideas are scouted by the Venizelist republicans, whose position is shifting since the announcement that their old chief will return. They declare themselves ready to follow him in everything except the re-establishment of the Glücksburg dynasty. Their leader is M. G. Rousses, formerly Greek Minister to the United States and slated for the important post of Prime Minister or Minister of Foreign Affairs in the new Government.

Monarchy Done For, Says Rousses.

"I am sure Mr. Venizelos is absolutely determined not to take an active part in politics," Mr. Rousses told me today, speaking as an intimate friend and kinsman of the ex-Premier. "He comes in response to the universal appeal of his people to advise them in a grave crisis. He asks for a detailed comparison of the vote of Dec. 16 with that of November, 1920, because he wishes to know the extent of the change in national political sentiment. There is a very great change. Mr. Venizelos comes back to a different Greece from the Greece he left. The feeling for democratic government has grown enormously during the last three years, in which we have suffered and solidified.

"When asked if he would interpret the recent election as a popular mandate for a republic Mr. Rousses replied:

"The election was an overwhelming vote for Venizelos and against the reigning dynasty. More than that it is difficult to say. About one-third of the electorate abstained from voting. The fact that the tabulated results appear to return more Deputies than there are seats in Parliament is due to disputes in certain districts as to whether the Liberal-Republicans intended to vote Liberal or Republican. I am not sure the majority of Greeks desire a republic; I am sure they will have no more of the present dynasty, and that there can be no question of domesticating any other royal house in Greece."

The talk of inviting an English or any foreign Prince to occupy the Greek throne is generally discounted. It is regarded as certain, however, that Venizelos does not return without having learned the attitude of France and England toward the future form of government.

"He's Coming," the Usual Greeting.

ATHENS, Dec. 26 (Associated Press).—Athens is talking of little else than the decision of Eleutherios Venizelos Greece's wartime Premier, to return to his homeland and give the country the benefit of his genius as a statesman and conciliator in an attempt to solve the problems which have arisen from Greece's bitter political strife.

Greek meets Greek with the salutations, "He's coming," which is reminiscent of two years ago, when King Constantine was recalled from exile in Switzerland, and already sworn political enemies have been seen shaking hands.

The Athens newspapers today devoted large portions of their space to portraits of Venizelos and to particulars of the successful effort to induce him to return to Greece. The Republican papers, while not desiring to minimise the importance of the event, take care to point out that the former Premier's sojourn here will be only temporary and proceed to reveal their fears that Venizelos may insist on the return of the King in order to gain the support of the Royalists for his program.

The Democratis, the mouthpiece of the Republicans, declares that Venizelos will be made to feel that all efforts toward a restoration of the dynasty and the prevention of constitutional changes will be futile.

The anti-Venizelos sentiment is summed up by the Chora as follows:

"Partisans of Venizelos are borrowing the same shouts of joy which signalized the legal and honest return of Constantine. But Venizelos is not returning as a victor. His electoral victory is false and non-existent. The people are wearied through the hatreds engendered by him."

The Liberals naturally hail the return of Venizelos, while the revolutionary Government's organ, Eleutheros Logos, expresses the hope that Venizelos will eventually be persuaded to become the next Premier. It declares he cannot regulate the situation unless he personally directs the Government.

LONDON, Dec. 26.—The military organizations in Greece which agitated for the departure of King George, says an agency dispatch from Athens, have been dissolved voluntarily in view of ex-Premier Venizelos's decision to return to Greece. The organizations have notified M. Venizelos that, having fulfilled their aims, they will leave the future confidently in his hands.

The services organized by Colonel Plastiras as leader of the military revolution will also be dispensed on Jan. 1, the dispatch adds. The newly elected National Assembly will be opened the following day with a speech by Colonel Plastiras and will adjourn until the third week in January, after the Greek fetes, thus giving M. Venizelos time to consider the situation.

ANGLICANS CONSULT MERCIER ON REUNION

Archbishop of Canterbury Discloses Meetings, but Says the Progress Is Slight.

LONDON, Dec. 26 (Associated Press).—The question of the reunion of the churches, especially the Anglican and Roman Catholic, which was advocated in resolutions at the Lambeth Conference in 1920, has made only the smallest headway, according to a Christmas letter which the Archbishop of Canterbury has issued from Lambeth Palace to the dignitaries of the Anglican communion.

Reviewing all that has happened since that conference, the Archbishop discloses that three private conferences have since been held at Malines, initiated by Cardinal Mercier and a few Anglicans, with the object of discussing "the outstanding and familiar barriers between the Church of England and the Church of Rome."

The third of these essentially private and unofficial conferences was held only a few weeks ago. The Archbishop says that, although he himself accepts personal responsibility, he does not desire to involve others in that responsibility. He explains that the conferences cannot properly be described as negotiations, since the Anglicans participating were in no sense delegates of the whole church.

"The movement has merely sought to effect some restatement of controverted questions, and the elucidation of perplexities. The Archbishop believes that further conversations must follow, but, in conclusion, says:

"The difficulties are immense; you know them as clearly as I do. They may prove for some time to come insuperable. Paul may plant and Apollos water; it is God who giveth the increase."

TALK OF STRESEMANN AS ENVOY TO PARIS

Federal Commissioner to Run Thuringia—Report of Hitler Suicide Denied.

BERLIN, Dec. 26.—In political circles tonight it was insistently rumored that the German Ambassador to Paris would be Foreign Minister Stresemann, and his political friends and confidants were kept busy with this report. Dr. Stresemann is going to Switzerland for a brief vacation.

Politically Germany is marking time during the week-long Christmas holiday, the only small trouble spot being little red Thuringia. The Government tonight practically decided to send a federal commissioner to administer Thuringia until the new elections early next year. Dr. Quaatz, a leading spirit of the Stinnes-Stresemann German People's Party, being mentioned for the post.

According to a late report from Munich, Herr Hitler did not commit suicide in the Bavarian fortress of Lansberg, as some papers reported.

PASSES GERMAN NOTE ON

Poincare Getting Views of Officials in Ruhr Before Replying.

PARIS, Dec. 26 (Associated Press).—Premier Poincaré has sent the German memorandum on the proposed Ruhr-Rhineland negotiations to General Degoutte, commanding the French forces in the Ruhr, and M. Tirard, Chairman of the Allied Rhineland Commission. M. Poincaré requests that they forward as soon as possible their views on the subject, after which the Premier will draft a reply and this will be sent to Brussels.

When France has reached an agreement with the Belgian Government as to terms, a reply to the German memorandum will be handed to Herr von Hoesch, Chargé d'Affaires, probably within a week.

BERLIN, Dec. 26. — Greater Berlin's fire department, five companies strong, called on Ambassador Houghton at the Wilhelmsplatz Palace shortly after 10 o'clock this morning. It was the first three-alarm summons to startle the placid Berlin fire-eaters in many months.

The excitement was caused by a radiator in one of the rooms of the Embassy, emitting clouds of steam to the intense fear of the German servants who sent in the alarm. The broken radiator was quickly repaired.

SUES FOR DARNING NEEDLE.

German Woman Appeals When Lower Court Disclaims Jurisdictio .

KIEL, Germany, Dec. 26.—A darning needle is the basis for a lawsuit which has been carried from the Holstein District Court to a higher tribunal because of the law providing that a district judge cannot pass on cases involving articles worth more than a half billion marks.

As a darning needle now costs a billion paper marks the woman who lost her suit for the possession of the needle in the lower court is carrying the litigation further in an effort to get the better of the neighbor with whom she is disputing the ownership of the needle.

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 26. — Frank P. Lund, who was born in Denmark, is now on a visit to Copenhagen as the representative of the United States Department of Agriculture and the International Education Board. It is Mr. Lund's intention to establish in Denmark small model farms which could be cultivated by young men and women in their spare time.

This system has been tried with great success in the United States and important agricultural reforms have originated in it.

The Rockefeller Institute will place the funds necessary for the purpose at the disposal of Danish farming organizations. Danish agricultural circles are taking great interest in the plan and it is hoped many small model farms will be established next Spring.

PRINCE DENIES TITLE LOSS.

Eric of Denmark Contradicts Copenhagen Cable About Engagement.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 26.—Prince Eric of Denmark denied tonight that his engagement to Miss Lois Frances Booth of this city had caused him to renounce his title of Prince. He declared that a Copenhagen dispatch was incorrect, asserting that he had received another dispatch from Copenhagen which put a different interpretation on the message.

While he admitted that he would have to renounce any right to the throne, he denied that King Christian had taken away his title of Prince. He said that he would still be known as His Royal Highness, besides being the Count of Rothenborg, the new title conferred on him by King Christian.

FRENCH BUDGET SHOWS A SURPLUS

OUTLOOK CALLED VERY GOOD

Real Financial Situation Wrongly Represented by Exchange Rate, Chamber Is Told.

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 26—According to estimates of the French budget for 1924 as presented today to the Senate by Reporter Henry Bérenger, there will be a balance on the right side of 568,000,000 francs. The receipts are estimated at 22,960,000,000 francs and expenditures at 23,382,000,000.

Last Summer the Poincaré Government obtained the consent of the Chamber and Senate for operation throughout 1924 of the same budget arrangements as had been decided for 1923. During this year the estimates have been exceeded by 750,000,000 francs, from which sum will be taken the amount voted last week by the Chamber toward increased cost of living allowances for State functionaries.

M. Bérenger, in his report, paints an optimistic picture of the financial situation during the coming year. He points out that while in 1920 there was a deficit of more than 23,000,000,000, the ordinary budget this year and next will be more than balanced. The economic situation of the country he describes as "very favorable," and declares that the real financial situation of France is very wrongly represented by the adverse exchange rate of the franc, which today touched nearly twenty to the dollar on the Paris Bourse.

Cut in Payment to Bank Approved.

In the Senate today Finance Minister Lasteyrie obtained the assent to the "exceptional" convention made this year with the Bank of France reducing repayments of the State's debt from 5,000,000,000 to 2,000,000. The Senate Finance Commission in giving its approval emphasized, however, the necessity of a policy of economy and money stabilization. There was some criticism from Senators who seemed to see in a reduction of State repayments a connection with the fall of the franc.

M. de Lasteyrie in asking for approval of the Senate to that part of the budget covering "recoverable expenses" stated that by the end of the year France would have spent for reparations pensions 115,000,000,000. This amount, which is budgeted for separately each year, is charged against Germany's unpaid reparation bill.

Several clauses in the new budget reduce credits for reconstruction. Thus Article 10 allocates only 2,000,000,000 instead of 3,250,000,000 from the national defense bonds to payment of war indemnities. This and other reductions are a result of an appeal made to the optimism of the representatives of the liberated districts who, in view of the financial situation of the country, waived some of their claims from immediate consideration. Nearly 2,000,000,000 francs will be paid in taxes by the liberated districts during the last year, M. de Lasteyrie announced.

Depreciation Blamed on Germany.

PARIS, Dec. 26 (Associated Press). — The depreciation in French exchange was blamed today by Minister of Finance de Lasteyrie on Germany's failure to pay reparations and "consequent evils." M. de Lasteyrie was replying in the Senate to questions regarding the financial situation.

The Minister said commerce and finance were in good shape. But, nevertheless the franc had been falling for three years. He concluded that the psychological reactions of world finance were unfavorable to France. He recalled that France this year had repaid to Spain 204,000,000 pesetas, the United States $13,000,000, and Japan 50,000,000 yen, but had to borrow for expenses chargeable to Germany.

The franc, now at a record low point, was incompatible with a balanced budget, M. de Lasteyrie declared. Rumors of inflation and stories of wastefulness in the devastated regions were all characterized by the Minister as calumnies.

He regretted that interallied debts were not settled when the treaty of Versailles was signed. He deplored the effects of speculation and assured the Senate that the law against the export of capital enabled the Government to act if necessary.

The Minister expressed confidence that France by hard work and self-sacrifice would recuperate.

The Chamber approved M. Loucheur's proposal to reduce the number of Deputies from 626 to 591. The vote was 290 to 230.

For trafficking in drugs 329 arrests were made.

Naturalizations while fewer than last year were still greater than before the war, 4,375 applications being made and 1,381 favorably reported.

There are indications of less traveling outside the frontier, as passports for the year will not exceed 67,000, which is 6,000 fewer than last year.

GUARD JEWISH STUDENTS.

Rumanian Authorities Send Troops to Keep Order in Universities.

BUCHAREST (Jewish Telegraph Agency), Dec. 26.—The situation in the Rumanian universities is steadily growing worse in consequence of the anti-Jewish disturbance. The campuses of Bucharest, Jassy and Klousenburg Universities are being guarded by police and soldiers. Some of the professors have refused to lecture in the presence of the soldiers and, therefore, numerous lectures have been abandoned.

The Commercial Academy of Bucharest remains closed. The authorities there insist that there shall be no lectures unless the students permit Jews to attend. The University of Jassy is practically closed.

COMMUNISTS OFFER RUSSIAN PROGRAM

INSURGENTS WIN REFORMS

But No Provision Is Made for Carrying Out the Program, Which Requires Capital.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Dec. 25.—The program of the Communist Party to solve the economic crisis is published today. It consists of a lengthy series of points to be ratified in the form of a resolution by the full session of the Central Executive Committee of the Communist Party. This resolution then is to be submitted to the discussion of a special party conference scheduled for the middle of January.

Although the announcement of the Politbureau (the inner governing council of the Communist party) does not expressly say so, it is generally understood that the economic crisis is closely linked with the other problem of "democratization" of the Communist Party which is the subject of a vigorous discussion here at present because the demand for the reform of the Communist Party proceeds in the first instance from those who believe the present system of party apparatus is unable to cope with the economic problem.

In this connection it is worth noting that although the insurgents against the party machine appeared to have had rather the worst of it in the recent discussions owing to the charge by the machine leaders that they were risking a split of the Communist Party, today's program includes nearly all the points advanced by them. The program provides a remedy for all the ills of Russian economics, from penalties for non-performance of work promptly to limitation of opportunities of private speculators and a wider admission of foreign capital into mixed companies with the foreign trade monopoly.

Although the program states emphatically what should be done—credits for peasants, reorganization of industry, &c.—it does not say how all this is to be accomplished. It would be an ideal "pronunciamento" for any new Government on assuming power, and if Russia had, say, a billion dollars, there would be ground for optimism for the new program. But in the present situation doubts are permitted.

The Bolsheviki have made so many bricks without straw in the last few years that doubt may seem invidious, but that they should solve the present crisis without big capital honestly seems impossible. Not having capital themselves it will be necessary sooner or later to get it from abroad.

PARIS, Dec. 26.—A dispatch from Syria states that a French patrol has picked up one of the youngest and most inveterate vagabonds on record. He is Kurt Heine, 14 years old, of Berlin and now on his way back to his parents.

Kurt ran away from school in October and without money or passport made his way to Trieste. There he got a job as porter on the docks and managed to stow away aboard the liner Helouan. At Alexandria he gained the shore unnoticed and a few days later stowed away on the boat Gastelin.

At Tripoli in Syria he slipped ashore and proceeded to walk to Beirut, where he arrived Dec. 8. There he was picked up by a French patrol who found him wandering about half naked and almost dead from starvation.

After hearing his story the authorities placed the lad aboard a freighter bound to Hamburg with a request that he be guarded at all intervening ports to prevent his leaving the ship and continuing his Odyssey.

SEER WARNS AMERICA.

Mme. de Thelème Predicts Earthquakes and Bad Times Here.

Copyright, 1923, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

PARIS, Dec. 26.—Mme. de Thelème, who says that a year ago she predicted the death of President Harding, warns the United States that it will suffer from great earthquakes the coming year. The evil influence of Neptune cost President Harding his life, she asserts, and she warns President Coolidge to be careful, although she assures him that nothing serious to his health will occur in 1924.

She says that bad times are ahead in America because of the influence of Uranus, and that there will be fires and catastrophes of all sorts in the United States.

Mme. Thelème predicts that America's foreign policy will be the cause of bitter discussions and strained relations with foreign powers, and that the people will be dissatisfied and suffer from hard times.

She also asserts that there will be religious trouble in 1924 and warns the Pope to the most extreme caution. During the Winter France will contract a new alliance owing to threats of revenge from Germany, she predicts.

She says that there will be much unrest among the British colonies, especially India. She states that former Crown Prince Frederick William's life will be endangered through his living in Germany.

MURDER IN FRENCH TOWN.

Police Seek Man Who Shot Dunkirk Woman and Wounded Her Daughter

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 26.—The police of Northern France are seeking Frank Joseph Martin, who this afternoon shot and killed a woman barkeeper of Dunkirk and perhaps mortally wounded her daughter.

Martin, who is an Australian by birth and fought in the English Army during the war, but says he is a naturalized American citizen, was recently spurned by the barkeeper's daughter, with whom he had been living. All efforts to effect a reconciliation having been unavailing, he visited the bar this afternoon and began threatening the two women. They ordered him from the place, and he drew a revolver and shot the older woman in the forehead, killing her instantly. Then he turned the revolver on his former sweetheart, wounding her in the face. The girl managed, however, to fight her way past the crazed man and take refuge in a near-by store. Martin followed, but a neighbor appeared on the scene, took to flight and has not been seen since.

He was removed to a hospital, where it was declared that his injuries were not serious, and later he returned to his home.

MOSCOW IS 'PURGED' OF UNDESIRABLES

Police Arrest 916 Persons Who Are Accused of Leading a Parasitic Existence.

MOSCOW, Dec. 25.—Dzerjinski, former head of the Cheka and now of the All-Russian Gaypoyoo (State Police Department), publishes a Christmas order that the city be purged of undesirables. The order runs:

"To all citizens of Moscow: The acute housing crisis in Moscow and the continual influx of socially dangerous elements has put before the Gaypayoo the problem of purging the town of Moscow and other large centres of the Russian republic of the scum of the 'new economic policy,' who by interference with normal commerce industry have acquired a parasitic exploitation of the new economic policy. To fulfill the instructions of the Government and the decision of the newly elected Moscow Soviet in freeing Moscow from elements which perform no useful function the Gaypayoo in the last few days has proceeded to the arrest and expulsion of socially dangerous elements. Altogether in these days have been arrested 916 persons, whereof 532 were expelled from the city limits to various points and the remainder will be expelled in the near future. They comprise (1) bootleggers, 110; (2) card sharps and confidence men, 156; (3) smugglers of valuables, valuta, &c., 120; (4) persons of no regular occupation, usurers, &c., 453; (5) peddlers of drugs, 24; (6) keepers of disorderly houses, 53. Total, 916.

"The Gaypayoo makes known that in regard to persons of no regular occupation who come to Moscow with a view to a parasitic existence their expulsion will be carried out to distant parts of the republic and that the only chance to escape this punishment will be voluntary withdrawal of the above mentioned elements from Moscow town and Province. At the same time the Gaypayoo points out that any one taking part in normal trade or industry who has paid his taxes and carries on a commercial or productive business according to the laws of the Russian Federation can continue it quite tranquilly, with no risk of prosecution or expulsion."

Profiteers are not popular nowadays. Three were condemned to death only this morning for participation in one of the big State corporation scandals. The great white dining hall of the Hermitage Restaurant is nearly deserted this Christmas.

The reasons are not far to seek. A few days ago a little group of detectives quietly entered the hall and spent several minutes in conversation with the cashier. Then they approached the nearest table.

"Who is host here?" one asked. "Your papers, please."

With a smile the host produced documents full and in order showing he was a member of such and such a Government trading institution.

"What is your monthly salary?" was the next question.

Answers varied from $25 to around $100, which is about the limit in present day Russia, though it is notorious that scores of people are making as much as $5,000 monthly by more or less illicit commissions.

"A salary of $100 and the check of this dinner $75," said the detective, eyeing the Pommery or Veuve Clicquot in its silver ice bucket. "Your economies are too good—you are arrested."

And so it went round the room until a score or more unhappy "nepmen" went on the way to spend Christmas at the resort "Boutirki-les-bains," as Muscovites facetiously have named the big Gaypayoo Prison.

Eyewitnesses told me they had never seen anything so dramatic since the yet more terrible Christmas Eve at Warsaw during the great war, when Grand Duke Nicolas, then the Russian Commander-in-Chief, came suddenly into the restaurant of the fashionable Hotel Europe, attended by two huge Cossacks, and glaring down from his seven-foot height upon officers from Generals to subalterns, who had dashed back for a holiday from the near-by front—without leave—asked each "Your leave papers!" and, when a shake of the head gave a mute answer he himself tore the shoulder straps from the uniforms and sent one after another forth to death that same evening against the wall in the Warsaw citadel.

Victims of the present attempt of Moscow authorities to clean up the graft that is sapping the State trade probably will escape with a week or two imprisonment unless their accounts are in very bad order.

Bulgarian Minister Reveals Plan for Another Rising.

SOFIA, Dec. 26.—In the Sobranje, after one of the Communist leaders had repudiated the insinuations that his party was collaborating with the Third International and rejected the idea that the Bulgarian Communists who had taken refuge in Serbia were preparing to invade Bulgaria next Spring, General Russeff, Minister of the Interior, revealed the existence in Bulgaria of a Communist revolutionary organization working secretly in conjunction with the extreme agrarians with the object of bringing about another rising.

The Minister added it had been proved that the organization was in contact with the Bulgarian Communists in Serbia. Several arrests have been made in the provinces and an agrarian Deputy is implicated.

HUNT FOR DIXMUDE PROVES ALL IN VAIN

store of gasoline might be exhausted by Sunday, Dec. 23, and consequently, the only thing left to do is to explore the regions where the airship might have come down either voluntarily or by force of circumstances.

All reports that the dirigible had been observed over Tunisia recently having proved erroneous, the Ministry considers that there is nothing to justify the belief that she was carried to sea. An exhaustive search made on Sunday and Monday in the zone comprised between the eastern coast of Tunis and the line of Malta-Tripoli, in which zone the British and Italian allies, yielded no result.

The opinion therefore prevails that search for the dirigible should be concentrated in Southern Algeria. Cavalry patrols were dispatched on Sunday to explore the territory, and as soon as the weather permitted airplanes from Algerian and Tunisian bases began a methodical exploration of the region where it was thought possible the dirigible might be.

Although there appears slight probability that the Dixmude has fallen into the sea, all light units available of the Mediterranean squadron, as well as the Provence, Algerie and Tunis flotillas, have been placed at the disposal of the Vice Admiral commanding in North African waters for fresh investigations of the western part of the eastern Mediterranean basin.

Department officials expressed the opinion that if after exhaustion of her gasoline she continued to travel as a free balloon, without help from her motors, she might cover considerable distances, as it was estimated that she had twelve tons of water on board for ballast, without reckoning her motors and accessories.

Regarding the food on board, it is stated now that in addition to fresh meat and other perishable foods sufficient for three days, she carried an eight-day supply of biscuits and an eleven-day stock of preserved meat, together with 900 gallons of water, a three-day supply, and her twelve tons of water ballast.

REPORT A RETREAT OF OBREGON FORCES

Vera Cruz Rebels Say Flank Attack Has Caused Federals to Fall Back to Apizaco.

BATTLE OPENS IN JALISCO

Obregon Reports Defeat of Insurgents Near Guadalajara and Capture of 200.

VERA CRUZ, Dec. 26. (Associated Press).—The Federal troops have withdrawn to Apizaco, on the Mexican railway line, about seventy miles east of the capital, according to information received at revolutionary headquarters here today. This fact, it was asserted, changes the situation radically on the Vera Cruz front.

A correspondent with the column of General Villanueva, on the Interoceanic Railway, with headquarters at Oriental, in a dispatch says the Obregon advance posts at San Marcos began to withdraw after slight skirmishes with the pursuing rebel forces.

After this message had been received, news was received at revolutionary headquarters of the withdrawal of the whole of the Obregon force to Apizaco, leaving the road free. It is believed, however, that the retreating troops cut the railway line at some places.

The withdrawal of the Federal troops is believed here to have been due to the danger of the flank movement started three days ago by General Maycotte with forces coming from the State of Oaxaca by way of the State of Puebla, advancing parallel with the Mexican Railroad. The movement of the Maycotte troops is in conformity with plans evolved by the council of rebel leaders held recently at Esperanza. The further working out of thhe plan, it is announced, will have an important bearing on the situation.

General Guadaloupe Sanches, chief of rebel military operations, will leave here tomorrow for San Marcos to decide on new military operations against the federal forces. From San Marcos he will return by way of the Mexican Railway and thus will have a chance to review all the troops forming a part of the two rebel columns east of Mexico City.

With the arrival of reinforcements a new attack on Santa Lucrecia, on the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, is to begin tomorrow against the Obregon garrisons. The capture of San Lucrecia, revolutionary headquarters declares, would mean the domination of the Isthmian Railway line.

Advance on Estrada's Troops.

NOGALES, Ariz., Dec. 26.—Two thousand Federal soldiers under General Lazaro Cardenas, marching from the interior of Mexico on the rebel stronghold at Guadalajara, capital of Jalisco, made their first contact with the rebel army today at Tamacula, capturing the town after repelling the enemy with severe losses, according to official Government advices received here tonight.

The defeated rebel troops were part of the army under the command of General Enrique Estrada.

The victorious Government forces captured 200 prisoners and are pursuing the rebels toward Guadalajara, according to the advices, which were received from President Obregon, who is commander in the Jalisco offensive. There were many casualties, the advices added.

While the Obregon army marches on Guadalajara from the southeast, Federal troops from Tepic, Nayarit, are entrenched at the Jalisco-Nayarit frontier, in half-moon form. By this means the Government hopes to halt a retreat of the insurrectionists toward the west coast if the Obregon army succeeds in driving them from Guadalajara.

Advance Begins on Guadalajara.

Copyright, 1923, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 26.—President Obregon today sent a wire from Irapuato to all chiefs of operations saying that General Lazaro Cardenas, commanding the Federal troops, has succeeded in getting in the rear of General Enrique Estrada's forces between Guadalajara and Guzman, cutting off General Estrada's communications with Manzanillo, a port on the Pacific.

General Cardenas's forces engaged General Estrada's rear guard at Tamazula and forced the rebels to retreat. The latter left twenty-eight dead and lost many prisoners.

The President's message states that General Amaro, commander of the Federal forces on the Guadalajara front, has begun an advance on the rebels at Guadalajara and that a general engagement is expected within the next few hours. General Obregon reviewed the Federal troops immediately before the advance started.

The War Department announces that General Eugenio Martinez is continuing his pursuit of the rebels south of Puebla in the State of Oaxaca, and it is expected that an engagement will take place soon at Tehuacan.

Reports have been received at San Luis Potosi to the effect that General Plutarco Calles is recruiting men and organizing new units to support the Government. These units are expected to be equipped and ready for the field early in January.

Rebels Claim Successes.

EL PASO, Dec. 26.—General Alfred Garcia, former military commander in Zacatecas, has joined the rebel forces of General Enrique Estrada, it became known here today when travelers from the south disclosed that he had been appointed "Director of Railroads," under the revolutionists. Dr. Cervera Llano is Director General of the Mexican railways under the Obregon Government.

Agents of the revolutionary faction here considered important a cablegram from Vera Cruz saying that Estrada had taken Yurecuaro on the Guadalajara-Mexico City railway. It indicated, they said, that he had circled the Federal forces and repair crew at work on the wrecked bridge at Salemes station and is between the loyal forces in that zone and the national capital.

Railroad men who have returned to Mexico City from Jalisco declare that it will be thirty days before the railroad into Guadalajara is repaired, if the revolutionists are defeated soon. Long sections have been torn up. The road bed has been destroyed in some instances.

De la Huerta Reports Desertions.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Dec. 26.—Overtaken and threatened with annihilation by the rebel army of General Romulo Figueroa, Federal forces under Generals Rafael Toscano Arneles and José Bolivar Sierra joined the Mexican rebellion, according to a bulletin issued in San Antonio tonight by Ruben Vizcarra, confidential agent of Adolfo de la Huerta.

According to the telegram received by Alejandro Lubbert, Mexican Consul General, the rebel leader, Romulo Figueroa, followed only by a small group of men armed with only knives, was buried back from the State of Morelos after an unsuccessful attempt to enter that State.

A bulletin issued tonight by Señor Vizcarra declared that Puente de Ixtla, south of Mexico City, garrisoned by 400 Federals, was captured by rebel forces under General Figueroa. Vizcarra based his statement, he said, upon a message from J. M. Alvares del Castillo, Secretary of Foreign Relations in the Provisional Government at Vera Cruz. The de la Huertistas captured forty prisoners, a quantity of munitions and two trains, while the Federals lost a number killed and wounded. Two rebels were killed and six wounded.

Complete control of the Vera Cruz oil fields by the rebels is claimed.

General Cesar Lopez de Lara continues to march on Tampico and is expected to attack before the end of December.

MELLON BILL TEXT SETS UP NEW BOARD

PROVISIONS BECOME KNOWN

Administrative Clauses Provide for New Methods of Redress to Taxpayers.

PROCEDURE IN DISPUTES

Secretary Wants Decisions Made Apart From the Revenue Bureau Machinery.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—The Administration tax reduction bill, in which the Mellon plan for a reduction of Federal income taxes is proposed, provides for the creation of a Board of Tax Appeals to consist of as many as twenty-eight members serving ten-year terms at salaries of $10,000 each. They would be appointed without regard to civil service laws, but solely on the grounds of fitness to perform the duties of the office.

This became known tonight when the text of some of the principaly administrative sections of the tax-reduction bill became known. The bill in its entirety has not been made public either by the Treasury Department or by the Ways and Means Committee, which has it under consideration. Members of that committee have been endeavoring at the request of Chairman Green to keep the text of the measure secret until after the holidays.

The members of the Board of Tax Appeals proposed to be created would be appointed by the Secretary of the Treasury, without confirmation by the Senate as in the case of appointments made by the President.

Whether the provisions for the creation of this board should be dealt with as "administrative" and have immediate consideration or should be classed with the proposed reductions in tax rates and other questions of policy to be deferred for consideration was a question that came forward for consideration at today's meeting of the Ways and Means subcommittee.

It was tentatively decided by the Republican members to class these provisions with the other administrative changes. Representative Garner, the ranking Democratic member of the subcommittee, objected, and intimation was given that there would be Democratic opposition to the Board of Tax Appeals section in its existing form.

Secretary Mellon is in favor of the creation of such a board because he feels confident that an independent administrative tribunal should be organized by the Government to sit on appeals from decisions of the Internal Revenue Bureau, and whose decisions would be as binding on that bureau as on the Federal taxpayer. There would be recourse by the taxpayer to the courts against any decisions of the proposed new board.

Provisions on Appeal Board.

The text of the provisions of the Treasury bill, establishing a Board of Tax Appeals reads in part:

"Section 1,000 (a). There is hereby established in the Department of the Treasury a board to be known as the Board of Tax Appeals (hereinafter referred to as the 'board'), to be composed of such number of members, not less than seven nor more than twenty-eight, as the Secretary from time to time determines necessary. Each member shall be appointed by the Secretary, without regard to the civil service laws but solely on the grounds of fitness to perform the duties of the office, for a term of ten years, except that in the case of original appointments the Secretary in order to secure rotation in office may make appointments for two, four, six or eight years, and except that a member appointed to fill a vacancy shall be appointed only for the unexpired term of the member whom he succeeds.

"Each member shall receive a salary at the rate of $10,000 per annum. A majority of the board shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business. A vacancy shall not impair the powers nor affect the duties of the board nor of the remaining members. The Secretary shall designate, from time to time, a member to act as Chairman of the board. The board may have a judicial seal, which shall be judicially noticed.

"(b) The Chairman, with the approval of the Secretary, may, from time to time, devide the board into divisions and assign the members thereto, and designate a chief thereof. If a division, as a result of a vacancy or the absence or inability of a member assigned thereto to serve thereon, is composed of less than three members, the Chairman may assign other members thereto, or he may direct the division to proceed with the transaction of business. Upon the expiration of thirty days after a decision by a division, such decision shall become the final decision of the board, unless within such period the Chairman has directed that such decision shall be reviewed by the board.

Procedure in Disputes.

"(c) The board shall hear and determine appeals filed under sections 274, 279, 308 and 312.

"(d) In any proceeding in court under sections 274, 279, 308 or 312, and in any suit or proceeding by a taxpayer to recover any amounts paid in pursuance of a decision of the board, the findings of the board shall be prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated.

"(e) Notice and an opportunity to be heard shall be given the taxpayer and the commissioner by the board, and a decision shall be made as quickly as practicable. The proceedings of the board shall be informal and in accordance with such rules as the board, with the approval of the Secretary, may prescribe. The opinions of the board (other than findings of fact) shall not be in writing unless the Chairman so orders. The findings of fact in each case shall be reported in writing. The principal office of the board shall be in the District of Columbia, but the board or any of its divisions is authorized to sit at such times and places within the United States as the Chairman prescribes."

One of the parts of the Revenue act of 1921 which has been entirely rewritten in the new bill relates to the collection of taxes. Sections of importance in Part V. of the bill relating to deficiency in taxes and claims in abatement read:

"Deficiency in Tax.

"Sec. 273. As used in this title the term 'deficiency' means

"(1) The amount by which the tax imposed by this title exceeds the amount shown as the tax by the taxpayer upon his return; but the amount so shown in return shall first be increased by the amounts previously assessed (or collected without assessment) as a deficiency, and decreased by the amounts previously abated, credited, refunded, or otherwise repaid in respect of such tax; or

"(2) If no amount is shown as the tax by the taxpayer upon his return, or if no return is made by taxpayer, then the amount by which the tax exceeds the amounts previously assessed (or collected without assessment) is a deficiency; but such amounts previously assessed, or collected without assessment, shall first be decreased by the amounts previously abated, credited, refunded, or otherwise repaid in respect of such tax.

"Section 274 (A). If, in the case of any taxpayer, the commissioner determines that there is a deficiency in respect of the tax imposed by this title, the taxpayer, except as provided in Subdivision (D) shall be notified of such deficiency by registered mail. Within 30 days after such notice is mailed the taxpayer may file an appeal with the Board of Tax Appeals established by Section 1,000.

"(B). If the board determines that there is a deficiency, the amount so determined shall be assessed and shall be paid upon notice and demand from the collector. A proceeding in court may be begun, without assessment, for any part of the excess of the amount determined as the deficiency by the commissioner over the amount assessed, or for any part of the amount determined by the commissioner if the board determines that there is no deficiency. Such proceeding shall be begun within one year after the final decision of the board, and may be begun within such year even though the period of limitation prescribed in Section 277 has expired.

Delay in Filing Claims.

"(C). If the taxpayer does not file an appeal with the board within the time prescribed in subdivision (A) of this section, the deficiency of which the taxpayer has been notified shall be assessed, and shall be paid upon notice and demand from the collector.

"(D). If the commissioner believes that the assessment or collection of a deficiency will be jeopardized by delay such deficiency shall be assessed immediately and notice and demand shall be made by the collector for the payment thereof. In such case the assessment may be made (1) without giving the notice provided in subdivision (A) of this section, or (2) before the expiration of the 30-day period provided in subdivision (A) of this section even though such notice has been given, or (3) at any time prior to the final decision by the board upon such deficiency even though the taxpayer has filed an appeal. If the taxpayer does not file a claim in abatement as provided in Section 279 the deficiency so assessed, or if the claim so filed covers only a part of the deficiency, then the amount not recovered by the claim shall be paid upon notice and demand from the collector.

"(e) If the taxpayer has elected to pay the tax in instalments and a deficiency has been assessed, the deficiency shall be prorated to the four instalments. Except as provided in Subdivision D of this section, that part of the deficiency so prorated to any instalment, the date for payment of which has not arrived, shall be collected at the same time as and as part of such instalment. That part of the deficiency so prorated to any instalment the date for payment of which has arrived, shall be paid upon notice and demand from the collector.

Assessments for Interest.

"(f) Interest upon the amount determined as a deficiency, or, if the tax is paid in instalments, upon the part of the deficiency prorated to each instalment, shall be assessed at the same time as the deficiency, shall be paid upon notice and demand from the collector, and shall be collected as a part of the tax, at the rate of 5 per centum per annum from the date prescribed for the payment of the tax, or the payment of such instalment, to the date the deficiency is assessed.

"(g) Weere it is shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that the payment of a deficiency upon the date prescribed for the payment thereof will result in undue hardship to the taxpayer the Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary, except where the deficiency is due to negligence, to intentional disregard of rules and regulations, or to fraud with intent to evade the tax), may grant an extension for the payment of such deficiency or any part thereof for a period not in excess of eighteen months. If an extension is granted, the Commissioner may require the taxpayer to furnish a bond in such amount, not exceeding double the amount of the deficiency. And with such sureties, as the Commissioner deems necessary, conditioned upon the payment of the deficiency in accordance with the terms of the extension.

"In such case there shall be collected, as a part of the tax, interest on the part of the deficiency the time for payment of which is so extended, at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum for the period of the extension, and no other interest shall be collected on such part of the deficiency for such period. If the part of the deficiency the time for payment of which is extended is not paid in accordance with the terms of the extension, there shall be collected, as a part of the tax, interest on such unpaid amount at the rate of 1 per cent. a month for the period from the time fixed by the extension for its payment until it is paid, and no other interest shall be collected on such unpaid amount for such period.

Claims in Abatement.

"Section 279. (A) If a deficiency has been assessed under Subdivision (D) of Section 274, the taxpayer, within ten days after notice and demand from the collector for the payment thereof, may file with the collector a claim for the abatement of such deficiency, or any part thereof, or of any interest or additional amounts assessed in connection therewith, or of any part of any such interest or additional amounts. Such claim shall be accompanied by a bond, in such amount not exceeding double the amount of the claim, and with such sureties as the collector deems necessary, conditioned upon the payment of so much of the amount of the claim as is not abated, together with interest thereon as provided in Subdivision (C) of this section. Upon the filing of such claim and bond, the collection of so much of the amount assessed as is covered by such claim and bond shall be stayed pending the final disposition of the claim.

"(B) If a claim is filed as provided in Subdividon (A) of this section the collector shall transmit the claim immediately to the Commissioner, who shall by registered mail notify the taxpayer of his decision on the claim. The taxpayer may within thirty days after such notice mailed file an appeal with the Board of Tax Appeals. If the claim is denied in whole or in part by the Commissioner (or by the board in case an appeal has been filed) the amount the claim for which is denied shall be collected as part of the tax upon notice and demand from the Collector, and the amount the claim for which is allowed shall be abated.

"A proceeding in court may be begun for any part of the amount, claim for which is allowed by the board. Such proceeding shall be begun within one year after the final decision of the board and may be begun within such year even though the period of limitation prescribed in Section 277 has expired.

SEE WIDE FORGERY OF PISTOL PERMITS

Police, Fearing Sale of Them Is General, May Revoke All Licenses.

THREE MEN ARE ARRESTED

Two Locked Up as Forgers and the Third for Violation of the Sullivan Law.

Through the arrest of three men last night, two on charges of forgery and one for alleged violation of the Sullivan law, it became known that the police had uncovered what they believe to be a wholesale business in the distribution of fraudulent pistol permits. For some days detectives have been hunting for the men supposed to be back of the sale of these forgeries. This is part of the campaign to rid the city of unlicensed carriers of weapons.

The police hope the arrests may lead to clues establishing the identities of the members of the alleged forged permit ring. The arrested men, it was said, apparently are nothing more than victims in the systematic sale of fake licenses. It was the impression at police headquarters last night that officials considered the situation a serious one. If the distribution of forged permits is as widespread as the police believe, it was intimated that all licenses may be revoked and new permits issued only after rigid examination of each applicant.

Knowledge of the existence of forged permits has come to light within the last six weeks. Several persons were arrested in that period when pistols were found on them and during trial of their cases in Special Sessions it became known that permits were forgeries. The judges of Special Sessions notified the police and early last week a general order was sent out to all detectives and patrolmen to be especially watchful of pistol permits.

When Carmello Gianone of 157 East Houston Street went to the East Fifth Street Station last night to have a pistol permit renewed, detectives found it to be a clever forgery. Gianone produced a pistol and was arrested, charged with violating the Sullivan law.

Gianone told the police he had got the permit from William Maretta of 248 Elizabeth Street. Maretta was arrested and he in turn said he had received the permit from Frank Criula of 76 Elizabeth Street, who was then taken into custody. According to detectives, Gianone paid $50 for the permit, Maretta and Criula had kept $5 each and a fourth man who furnished the permit got $40. The police are looking for the fourth man. The other three were locked up at Police Headquarters.

COOLIDGE AND JOHNSON HEADQUARTERS OPEN

Campaign Centres in Chicago Are in Hotels Facing Each Other Across Street.

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—Two national campaign headquarters of Republican Presidential candidates were opened informally here today, those of President Coolidge and of Senator Johnson of California.

These two headquarters virtually face each other in two Michigan Avenue hotels, separated only by a street. There were no ceremonies or bandwagon gestures as these two headquarters threw open their doors. The official opening awaits the coming of the national campaign managers of the candidates, William M. Butler, Massachusetts Republican National Committeeman, who is in charge of the Coolidge campaign, and Frank H. Hitchcock, national leader of the Johnson forces.

Mr. Butler is due here tomorrow to assume direction of the Coolidge headquarters, where James W. Good, former Iowa Congressman and Midwestern manager of the President's campaign, was on the ground today.

COOLIDGE ENDS PARTY ROW.

Harreld Agrees to Accept Oklahoma Judgeship Decision.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—President Coolidge, in a conference today with Senator Harreld, patched up the differences over patronage allotments which recently threatened a factional fight among Republican leaders in Oklahoma.

Restoration of harmony within the State party organization was hailed as something of a Coolidge achievement, as the rift was beginning to be seriously regarded by national leaders.

Senator Harreld is understood to have agreed to forget his disappointment at the President's turndown of John B. Meserve, his candidate for the vacant Federal Judgeship in Oklahoma. He will indorse any candidate upon whom the Republican leaders of his State will unite.

Mr. Harreld was one of the President's callers today. There was no mistaking the pleasing effect which his attitude had at the White House. There had been a hint that the Senator might desert the Coolidge ranks and seek to head an anti-Coolidge delegation to the Cleveland convention.

time, "the pie a la mode plan," as this double-barreled idea has jestingly come to be called here.

Representatives Garner, Hull, Timberlake, Watson, Oldfield and Chindblom of the Ways and Means Committee met this afternoon with Chairman Green as an informal subcommittee to continue looking over the administrative features of the Mellon bill. The work was confined to segregating the administrative features from the main tax provisions so that the full committee can review the administrative sections when it reassembles Jan. 3. It was decided to classify practically everything that did not concern a change of policy or an alteration of tax schedules as an administrative feature. There is still the possibility that the administrative features may be placed in one bill and passed in that fashion, if a serious difference over the tax features looms in the near future.

Many complaints have come up in connection with the present system—for one thing, because a taxpayer against whom a decision is laid must pay the sum demanded and then sue for it if he believes he has been unjustly taxed; second, because the Government has no appeal from the board decision, and, third, because the board, in the eyes of the taxpayer, it is held, now amounts to prosecuter, judge and jury all in one.

Under the proposed change, the taxpayer would be able to give bond instead of paying the tax. It was estimated today that more than 1,000 bankruptcies have resulted because of taxpayers' money being tied up through demands by the present board that the taxes be paid, the only redress being to sue for them. Under the Mellon plan the Government would have the right of appeal to the courts just as the taxpayer would have.

EX-PREMIER ACCUSED OF ACCEPTING MONEYS

Newfoundland Premier Reveals the Charges Made Against His Predecessor in Office.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Dec. 26.—Premier Warren made public today the charges against Sir Richard Squires, who resigned the Premiership last Summer, which are to be investigated by T. Hollis Walker, nominated for the task by the Colonial Office at the request of the Newfoundland Government.

Mr. Walker was instructed to conduct an inquiry into charges that while negotiations were in progress between the Government and two iron, steel and coal companies regarding obligations of the companies to the Government, "certain moneys were paid to the then Prime Minister by the companies," and into charges that revenues of the department of the Liquor Controller were paid to private individuals instead of into the Treasury.

Mr. Walker was also instructed to investigate expenditures of relief accounts in 1922 and 1923 of the Departments of Agriculture, Mines, Public Works and Public Charities, which were controlled by Dr. Campbell, who resigned with Sir Richard.

Both the former Ministers, it was expected, would arrive from England in January. The former Premier's report, it was said, probably would be ready for submission to the Legislature late in February or early in March.

HOPPES ESTRANGED, COURT PLEA SHOWS

Champion Billiardist's Wife Obtained Writ to Force Him to Return Son to Her.

Allegations that Willie T. Hoppe, champion billiardist, took his young son and daughter from his home at 141 West Ninety-fifth Street on Nov. 26 last and that the daughter returned three days later, but that Hoppe intended to keep the son William, 4½ years old, were made to Supreme Court Justice Burr by Mrs. Alice W. Hoppe, his wife, on Monday. Justice Burr signed a writ of habeas corpus directing Hoppe to produce the son in court at once for a hearing.

The petition in the case was filed in the County Clerk's office yesterday, but it was learned last night that Hoppe sent the boy to his wife's home on Monday night and that she had withdrawn the proceedings.

In her petition Mrs. Hoppe said that she married the billiard expert in Baltimore in 1910, and they lived together until June 1, 1922. Mrs. Hoppe said she and her husband continued to maintain separate rooms in the house owned by her father in West Ninety-fifth Street, and that Hoppe paid for board and lodging there. She alleged that when her husband failed to return the boy, after the daughter had come back to the house on Nov. 29, she was convinced that he intended to keep him.

Mrs. Hoppe asserted that she had nursed both children from infancy and was the proper person to have their custody rather than "a stranger or distant relative" of her husband. She said that because of her husband's profession he was away from home daily until midnight, while she was at home all the time and could devote herself to her children.

Friends of Hoppe had known that when he went on his trip to Chicago to meet Welker Cochran for the billiard championship of the world, he took the son with him, and visited several cities to play exhibition matches on the way. He retained the championship in the series in Chicago, from Dec. 17 to Dec. 19, and returned here with the boy last Friday night.

GIRL CHIROPODIST IN COURT.

Patient Says She Has No Right to Use Title "Doctor."

In adjourning the case of Dora Solosko, 23, a chiropodist of 273 Eighth Avenue, who was in court on the complaint of Sergio C. Acquirra of 333 West Twenty-first Street that she was practising without a license, Magistrate Charles A. Oberwager said yesterday morning in Jefferson Market Court that he hoped that the day would come when the Legislature would "prohibit organ grinders from using the title 'professor' and 'doctor'."

"Why should a man who is cutting toe-nails have the right to the title of doctor," he said, "when that word signifies that a man has had an education in some college or university, and that he has received not only some doctor's degree but also either the degree of Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science?"

Acquirra testified that he had applied to Miss Solosko for treatment of a sore foot last Saturday and that the sign on her door read "Dr. D. Solosko, Chiropodist." The fact that she had treated his foot while using the name "doctor" was illegal, according to Acquirra. Magistrate Oberwager said that he would grant an adjournment until Friday morning and requested District Attorney John N. Flood to look into the case to see if there were any grounds for prosecution.

John C. Dyer, attorney for the Pedic Society of the State of New York, who appeared for Miss Solosko, said that the law authorized chiropodists to prefix their names with "doctor" as long as the word "chiropodist" followed.

CAR HITS TAXI, SIX HURT.

Trolley Jumps Rails on Central Bridge Over the Harlem.

Forty persons were shaken up and six were slightly injured last night when a crosstown trolley car jumped the tracks while crossing the Central Bridge over the Harlem River at 161st Street, crashed into a taxicab and wedged it against the bridge railing. The street car, going west and driven by Motorman William Valentine, was descending the steel incline at the end of the bridge when it was derailed.

The impact with the taxi, driven by William Carmody of 444 East Fifty-eighth Street, stopped the derailed car in its course toward the railing. Besides Carmody, two passengers in the taxi, J. J. McGlelchen and his son John of 1,120 Tinton Avenue, the Bronx, were badly cut by flying glass.

A doctor arriving in a Lincoln Hospital ambulance treated them and three passengers of the surface car who suffered slight bruises.

AMERICAN WIFE OF CHINESE SLAIN

Found by Her Husband With Throat Cut in Washington Heights Home.

POLICE SEEK BOARDER

Cook, Out of Work, Is Said to Have Threatened Her When Money Was Refused.

Mrs. Helen Chunn, pretty twenty-year-old American wife of Harry Chunn, a Chinese, was found dead last evening in the bathroom of the four-room apartment the couple had occupied at 601 West 154th Street. Her throat had been cut and the cord of a bathrobe tied tightly about her neck. Chunn found the body when he returned from his work in the Viceroy Restaurant, 107 West Forty-second Street.

Chunn summoned the elevator boy and the police of the West 152d Street Station were notified. Inspector John Coughlin of the Detective Bureau responded. The police believe the young woman was murdered between 2 and 3 o'clock in the afternoon. A general alarm was sent out for Roy Namko, a Chinese, one of two boarders who lived with Chunn and his wife.

From blood stains found in a bedroom and leading across the small hall to the bathroom the police believe Mrs. Chunn was attacked in the bedroom, where a knife was plunged into her throat, severing the jugular vein. She either had staggered or had been carried into the bathroom and the bathrobe cord bound about her throat. Afterward the assailant apparently had returned to the bedroom and searched the bureau drawers. Ninety dollars in cash and a quantity of Mrs. Chunn's jewelry were missing.

In the woman's room there had been two photographs of Namko. Both had been cut or torn from the frames. On Tuesday night when he returned from work Chunn told the detectives, his wife told him that Roy had demanded money from her earlier in the day. She had refused it and he had threatened her, she said. Chunn said he had intended to tell Namko to leave, but Roy was not at home when he left for work the next day.

Chunn told the police that Namko had lived with them about five months. The other boarder, George Hoy, a Chinese, works in a restaurant at 111 East Fordham Road. He left the house with Chunn in the morning. Namko until he lost his position was a cook in a hotel in Eighth Avenue. In the police alarm he is described as 27 years old, 5 feet 9 inches tall, and weighing 145 pounds. It is said he wore a dark brown overcoat with a velvet collar, a black suit and black derby hat. Because of tattoo marks on his arms and police believe he has followed the sea.

Moses Freeman, the negro elevator operator, told the police that at about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon a package had been delivered to Mrs. Chunn with a card inscribed "To Sis, from Mildred. A Happy New Year." This was the last time Mrs. Chunn was seen alive. An hour later a Chinese friend of Chunn called, but no one answered the apartment telephone and he went away.

The door of the bedroom was taken to headquarters by detectives. On it, detectives said, were well-defined fingerprints.

Mrs. Chunn before her marriage was Helen Martin, and her sister, Gladys Martin, now lives at 39 Sanders Street, Philadelphia. The couple were married in Newark on Feb. 25, 1922.

SEEK TO REDUCE ACCIDENTS

Incorporators of Brooklyn Safety Council Announce Its Aims.

Surrogate Wingate and others applied to Supreme Court Justice Lewis in Brooklyn yesterday for approval of a certificate of incorporation for the Brooklyn Safety Council, which will attempt to reduce preventable accidents in industries and on the streets of Brooklyn. The signers of the application included Supreme Court Justice James C. Cropsey, City Magistrate Lawrence C. Fish of the Traffic Court, Charles J. Edwards, Edward B. Shallow, Arthur S. Somers and Henry B. Cochen.

It is said that the council, if its organization is authorized, will proceed with a campaign of education for the prevention of accidents. An effort also will be made to bring about uniformity in the interpretation and administration of the traffic laws.

DEPLORES ANTI-SEMITISM.

Dr. Schulman Also Urges Jews to Forget "Chip on Shoulder."

"The Jew should no longer wear a 'chip on his shoulder' and the Christian should replace his anti-Semitic prejudices with memories of how each race went over the top side by side in the World War," said the Rev. Dr. Samuel Schulman of Temple Beth-El last night when he spoke at the eightieth anniversary of the Independent Order of B'nai B'rith.

The celebration was held in the clubrooms of the order, at 2,307 Broadway. After Rabbi Schulman's address Louis Fabricant of the General Sessions Court spoke on the Jewish problem and pleaded for a better understanding between Jews and those of other faiths.

2 SAILORS STRUCK BY TRAIN.

Both Receive Serious Injuries in Pennsylvania Yards in Elizabeth.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Dec. 26.—Two sailors from the U. S. Battleship Wyoming, lying in the Brooklyn Navy Yard, were struck by a Philadelphia express on the Pennsylvania Railroad in the Elizabeth yards tonight. Both were taken to the Elizabeth General Hospital in a serious conditon. One of them, who gave his name as "Doc" Ware of Alabama, had his right arm amputated; the other, Charlep Cocke of Florida, received a fracture of the skull and is not expected to live.

According to the police the two men were crossing the tracks in an attempt to reach a Philadelphia freight train.

DEADWOOD!

"The Viewpoint of the Employee is the Most Neglected Asset in Industry."

EVERY week this man appears at your cashier's window and pockets a pay envelope.

YET—he has absolutely no right to receive money from you. His services do not yield you a penny of profit. He is a drag on his fellow workmen—deadwood—just another name on your payroll.

Scattered through your plant are dozens, perhaps hundreds of these phantom employees. Exhaustive surveys of industrial operations have shown that in the average plant 25% more man-hours are paid for than can be charged to jobs.

Usually this loss of productive effort is due to some form of misunderstanding, ignorance, lack of care or poor judgment on someone's part.

Whatever the reason, we can correct even apparently uncontrollable factors that are causing serious losses in your business—losses suffered by both employee and employer.

Executives, everywhere, have evidenced unusual interest in our booklet, "Stopping Payroll Leaves." We will be glad to send any executive a copy, gratis. Simply write us on your business stationery. Please address Dept. L 14

MERCHANTS OFFER RAIL MERGER PLAN

EXCLUSION OF BELT LINES

Wants Terminal Facilities Made Available to the Baltimore & Ohio.

The Merchants' Association announced yesterday that it would recommend to the Interstate Commerce Commission the assignment of the Central Railroad of New Jersey and the Catawissa branch of the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad to the New York Central Railroad rather than the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. It will recommend, however, that the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad have full use of the New Jersey Central terminals at the Port of New York, and that the Philadelphia & Reading, excepting the Catawissa branch, be assigned to the Baltimore & Ohio.

Those and other recommendations will be made on Jan. 7 when the Merchants' Association's representatives appear at a hearing of the commission on the proposed consolidation of railroads. The Merchants' Association also will endorse the proposal of the Port of New York Authority that the Interstate Commerce Commission exclude from its tentative plan of consolidation the belt lines and terminals of the Port of New York.

The decision of the Merchants' Association is based on a report of its Transportation Committee, headed by C. S. Keene. The committee in its report recommends:

"1. That the Merchants' Association of New York urge upon the Interstate Commerce Commission the desirability of excluding the belt lines and terminals of the Port Authority District from their tentative plan; but

"2. Your committee feels that there are considerations other than those directly involved in the terminal situation which are of controlling importance to the commerce of this port and we have accordingly made a study of the proposed alternative additional through routes of the New York Central and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad between New York and the West, and have reached the conclusion that the route offered by the New York Central is manifestly superior to that offered by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. We further feel, however, that the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad should have access to the Port of New York in a manner which will make it a strong competing trunk line.

Joint Use of Terminals.

"We, therefore, recommend that in the allocation of these properties, the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad, with the exception of its Catawissa branch, be assigned to the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad and that the Central Railroad of New Jersey and the Catawissa branch of the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad be allocated to the New York Central, subject to the following conditions:

"(a) Availability to the Baltimore & Ohio for freight solicitation, receipt and delivery of all freight and pier stations, industrial and team tracks of the Central Railroad of New Jersey within the Port Authority District, on equal terms with any and all other railroads.

"(b) Improvement of terminals or waterfront property within the Port District to be conditioned upon certificate of convenience and necessity to be issued by the Port of New York Authority.

"(c) Ample provision for adequate and nondiscriminatory handling of Baltimore & Ohio traffic.

"(d) Granting by the New York Central to the Baltimore & Ohio such trackage rights from Allentown, N. J., to Jersey City, N. J., and from Bound Brook, N. J., to Jersey City, N. J., as will be adequate at all times to enable the Baltimore & Ohio to render efficient service.

"(e) Protection of the Butler-Williamsport route by the establishment of through rates.

"(f) Equality in charges for services rendered by the New York Central to the Baltimore & Ohio with charges on New York Central traffic or traffic of any other railroad.

"(g) Rights and privileges with respect to the use or enjoyment of Central Railroad of New Jersey properties within the Port Authority district at the same time given to any other railroad to be given to the Baltimore & Ohio upon equal charges at the same time made against any other railroad.

"(h) The New York Central and the Baltimore & Ohio to join with other carriers in reciprocal switching throughout the Port Authority district."

Gives Its Reasons.

The reasons which led the committee to adopt the report were as follows:

"1. Because the New York Central is pre-eminently a New York Port line.

"(2) Because it controls today a better access to Williamsport, Pa., on the Catawissa branch of the Reading, and thence to the Central Railroad of New Jersey at Tamanend, and has included the Catawissa branch in its request.

"(3) If so aligned, the New York Central could operate its own trains with its own power and crews from anywhere on its lines west of Ashtabula all the way through to Jersey City.

"(4) The Baltimore & Ohio, on the other hand, must first obtain trackage rights from the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh from Butler to Dubois and then interchange on rates and divisions with the Pennsylvania from that point to Williamsport, Mr. Willard having testified that the Pennsylvania could not see its way to give him trackage.

"(5) Under such circumstances the Baltimore & Ohio's power and crews would be required to leave the trains at either Butler or Dubois, and Baltimore & Ohio crews pick them up again at Williamsport if that road were to secure the so-called short route set up by Mr. Willard in substitution for the New York Central short route.

"(6) The Port of New York must have and should not be deprived of the most efficient possible service of all the truck lines now reaching it.

"(7) This being so, if the Central Railroad of New Jersey and the Catawissa branch of the Reading should be consolidated with the New York Central group, it should be under such limitations and conditions as would permit the Baltimore & Ohio to have adequate trunk line service in its operations and adequate terminal facilities for passengers and freight on the water front properties at Jersey City."

BORAH TO SPEAK HERE.

Will Discuss Mellon Plan and Bonus at Republican Club.

United States Senator William E. Borah of Idaho will head the list of speakers at the first luncheon of the "Saturday Discussion" series to be given at the National Republican Club on Jan. 5. The topic of this luncheon will be: "The Mellon Tax Reduction Plan, Soldiers' Bonus." Secretary of the Treasury Mellon has been invited to attend the luncheon and members of the club are hopeful that he will accept. If he does he will not be one of the scheduled speakers.

Other speakers will be Knowlton Dunham, a lawyer, and Edward E. Spafford, New York State Commander of the American Legion, who will speak as an advocate of the bonus. Senator Borah will lead the pro-Mellon and anti-bonus side of the discourse.

Fletcher Will Contest Up Jan. 4.

The trial of the contest of the will of Austin Barclay Fletcher was adjourned until Jan. 4 by Surrogate Foley, after counsel for next of kin asked for a delay until testimony of Louis Viger, the decedent's valet, taken in Paris, can be sent here. United States Senator Walsh of Massachusetts will act as associate counsel for the contestants.

CHURCHES TO USE RADIO TO REACH MILLIONS

Many Denominations Plan Broadcasting to Carry the Gospel to All Peoples.

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—To disseminate more widely the religious teachings of Christian churches, radio broadcasting is soon to be undertaken by many of the larger denominations, according to an article in The Radio Digest. The magazine declares active steps already have been taken by several churches to utilize radio communication as a means of reaching millions of persons who might have no other contact with religion.

"The Vatican will in a few months adopt radio to spread the word of the Pope to millions of persons over the world," the article declares. "Due to efforts of a company headed by Guglielmo Marconi, radio inventor, a broadcasting station may soon be operated in the Vatican. By this means Rome will be enabled to transmit the voice of the Holy Father to almost every land.

"Of similar magnitude is the probable scheme of Protestant churches, particularly in the United States," the writer continues. "During the last few years the chiefs of Protestant denominations in this country have considered the practicability of radio as a means of spiritual regeneration.

"Independently of each other, their executives and prominent ministers have used radio for broadcasting sermons, biblical lessons and appeals to the public conscience. But not until the last few months have the national advantages of radio been deeply considered.

"The next quadrennial meeting of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ of America may include in its program plans for utilising radio in a national scheme to bring the church to the people. The Methodist Episcopal Church through its Committee on Conservation and Advance may soon consider the national application of broadcasting, according to R. J. Wade of Chicago, one of the executive leaders.

"Delegations from the Episcopal Church, the Catholic and the Greek Orthodox Church are likely to confer soon as to the practicable use of radio to send spiritual and other messages to all religious denominations, in the opinion of the Rev. George Craig Stewart of Evanston, Ill., on his return from a conclave which received from the League of Nations a proposal regarding the international conference.

Likewise, it was said in the article that the Baptist and Lutheran denominations are considering utilization of radio communication in their work.

DEMANDS $45,428,000 FOR HOME WATERWAYS

House Committee Will Fight for Full Amount on River and Harbor Work.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Members of the Rivers and Harbors Committee of the House, led by Representative Dempsey, of New York, the chairman, are planning to demand from the Appropriations Committee the full amount of $45,428,000 recommended for inland waterway improvements by the Army Board of Engineers for the fiscal year 1924-25, which was cut by General Lord, the Budget Director, to $37,250,000. Last year Mr. Dempsey was successful in obtaining the full appropriation of $38,-689,000.

There will be a battle between Mr. Dempsey and Martin Madden, the Appropriations Committee chairman, over the sum to be granted. Mr. Dempsey not long ago proposed a plan to supersede the Appropriations Committee with a central budget committee made up of members of the major committees and Mr. Madden denounced this idea.

For the next fiscal year the engineers recommended $400,000 for examinations and surveys, but General Lord cut this to $250,000 and that is the figure with which the Appropriations Committee will start. Chairman Madden said today that he could not tell what would be done with the rivers and harbors items until a study of the matter was made. He said, however, that getting Congress to join in a "pork barrel" attempt to increase river and harbor appropriations was quite a different matter from trying to upset the budget law, as proposed by Mr. Dempsey.

PEDDLERS GOUGED IN A HEALTH TEST

Fifteen Paid Private Physician $1 Each for Unauthorized Examination, Hirshfield Hears.

MARKET OFFICIAL PRESENT

Investigation Into Alleged Irregularities by City Employes Expected to Continue.

How pushcart peddlers have paid small sums of money for health examinations by a private physician was brought out yesterday by Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield during an investigation of the activities of employes of the Department of Markets. It was alleged that an Assistant Supervisor of Markets was present at the examinations, which were not reported to the Department of Health, as required by law.

Thomas J. Clougher, secretary to the Health Commissioner, explained that an amendment to an existing ordinance which went into effect on Nov. 1 last compels all food handlers, including pushcart peddlers, to be examined physically. He said private physicians cannot issue certificates, but may conduct examinations and report to the Department of Health, where certificates are obtained.

Dr. Michael Josephson of 145 West Seventy-first Street, a graduate of New York University, testified to giving fifteen peddlers physical examinations in the rear room of a drug store kept by E. & S. Samuels, at Eight Avenue and 144th Street, on Nov. 6 and charging them $1 each. The examinations were given in the presence of Max Gitterman, an Assistant Supervisor of Markets, the peddlers testified.

Dr. Josephson said he was in the drug store when he was informed that some peddlers were waiting to be examined and was then introduced to Gitterman.

"What was Gitterman to get out of it?" asked Commissioner Hirshfield.

"I don't know," he replied. "Nothing from me."

"Did you promise to give Gitterman a share or a present?"

"No."

Benjamin Shapiro, a peddler in the Eighth Avenue market, said he paid Josephson a dollar and received a card certifying that he was in good physical condition. He said the card was all he ever received as a result of his examination. He said he was called into the drug store by an unidentified man to be examined and saw Gitterman with the physician.

"Didn't you feel that you were doing Gitterman a favor by being examined by a physician he introduced you to?" he was asked.

"I thought I was doing the doctor a favor by giving him a dollar and myself a favor by being examined," was the reply.

Harry Goldberg, another peddler, said his examination took about two minutes.

"If Gitterman had not been there, you would not have given up your dollar, isn't that so?" asked the Commissioner.

"Yes," answered Goldberg.

"You thought the doctor was from the Board of Health because Gitterman was there?"

"Yes."

The witness admitted he knew he had paid the dollar uselessly and that he would have to be examined later. He said Gitterman was transferred from the Eighth Avenue market about a week after the examination. The investigation will be continued, it is expected.

LEGISLATURE TO SIT 8 WEEKS IN JERSEY

Limit Agreed Upon by Joint Conference Committee, Made Up of Republicans.

DISCUSS ELECTION CHANGES

Proposal to Compel Every Autoist to Take Out Insurance Not Acted Upon.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 26.—Decision to limit the forthcoming session of the Legislature to eight weeks was reached this afternoon at the State House by the Joint Conference Committee made up of Republican members of the House and Senate. The committee agreed to make the week of Jan. 28 the last for the introduction of bills and set Friday, Feb. 29, for final adjournment.

Proposed changes in the Election law to provide for two sessions of the State convention were discussed but no action was taken.

The suggestion came from Assemblyman Hershfield of Passaic. It is his idea that both meetings be held after the primaries, the first to receive platform suggestions and the second, a week later, to decide upon their adoption or rejection. In this way, he thinks, convention delegates would be informed of the various planks to be acted upon and would be able to get the benefit of them. The same proposition had been suggested previously by State Chairman Stokes.

Another proposal before the committee was for legislative action to take from the Governor the appointment of the State Commissioner of Education and vest it in the State Board of Education. The proposed school census plan was discussed also, but Senator Bright, after the committee had adjourned, said the question of expense might be an obstacle to its adoption. If the census could be taken with existing machinery the proposition would be certain of a more favorable reception.

The proposal to compel every motorist in New Jersey to take out insurance was advanced also by Mr. Hershfield, but was left unsettled. His proposal contemplates compulsory liability insurance in the sum of $2,000 and $2,000 additional for property damage. Mr. Hershfield said that at present 85 per cent. of the New Jersey automobile owners—there are about 400,000 of them—carry no such insurance. His idea is to create a State insurance fund and to give owners the option of insuring with the State or a private company. At $25 a car, Mr. Hershfield estimated that the State would have a fund sufficient to indemnify all claims and the surplus could be diverted to highway construction. First of all, however, he would have a committee of five members, serving without pay, investigate the practicability of the scheme.

The annual suggestion of a one-cent tax on gasoline bobbed up again, but, as usual, resulted in a difference of opinion among the legislators comprising the committee.

There was an informal discussion of the proposed half-mill tax to provide a fund of approximately $9,000,000 for an institutional building program, but the committee made no decision because the members did not have before them sufficient data to reach a conclusion.

The Senate Republicans will confer on proposed legislation Friday at the State House and the joint conference committee will meet there again next Wednesday.

SILZER URGES ECONOMY.

Asks Legislators to Confer on Cut in Printing Costs.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 26.—Republican and Democratic leaders in the Legislature, which will convene Jan. 8, today received invitations from Governor Silzer for a conference on the question of curtailing the State's bill for legislative printing.

"In considering recommendations to be made to the Legislature at the coming session," the Governor's letter said, "I have been looking into the question of legislative printing and incidental expenses. On the face of it, it would seem as if these expenditures are very large. I am, therefore, interested in having them investigated and examined.

"I would therefore request that you look into this matter for the purpose of ascertaining if it is not possible to reduce this cost. I am sure that it is.

"If you will let me know the next time you are to meet in Trenton I would like very much to have a conference with you, at which time we can exchange views on the subject, and perhaps lay out a plan for the reduction of these expenses."

DENOUNCES BOSTON COUNT.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Dec. 26.—Mayor James M. Curley was deeply incensed today at the figures sent out from Washington by the United States Census Bureau estimating the population of Boston at 773,591 as of Jan. 1, 1924.

"The estimate is at least 10 per cent. out of the way," declared Mayor Curley, "and if the Boston metropolitan district were taken into account the city would be in the 1,500,000 class."

The Washington figures revive the old controversy carried on during the term of former Mayor Andrew J. Peters, who also branded figures given out by the national bureau as "grossly unjust." The Boston Chamber of Commerce entered the lists on that occasion and after an investigation announced that the total credited to Boston was much too low.

Mayor Curley today declared the city's population to be 847,912 as of Jan. 1. He intends to register official complaint and request a re-examination of the records by which the bureau arrived at its lower figure. He will enlist the support of leading civic bodies, including the Chamber of Commerce, for a renewed agitation.

CANNOT TRY KLUXEN AGAIN, COURT SAYS

Trial Perfectly Regular and the Case Closed, Is the Reply to Prosecutor.

COUNTY ATTORNEY ACTIVE

Investigating at Request of Persons Who Believed That More Evidence Could Have Been Presented.

The possibility that Francis Kluxen, Madison, N. J., boy, acquitted of the murder of Janet Lawrence, 12 years old, of the same place, would be tried again disappeared yesterday when Justice Charles W. Parker of the New Jersey Supreme Court in reply to a statement by the prosecutor, that the jury had been improperly drawn, said that no such action against young Kluxen could be taken.

"There is nothing to the rumor," said Justice Parker, who presided over the trial. "The case is closed. The trial was perfectly regular. Once a defendant is tried and acquitted, that is the end of it. He cannot be placed in jeopardy twice on the same charge if once acquitted."

Monnell Sayre, Vice President of the Pension Fund of the Episcopal Church in America, who has begun adoption proceedings to make the boy his heir and who caused a split in Grace Episcopal Church in Madison by taking young Kluxen to services, said yesterday that his attorney, ex-Ambassador John W. Davis, had assured him "there was nothing to worry about, as the trial had been regular and the boy had been acquitted, making it impossible to try him again on the same charge."

Nevertheless, James H. Bolitho, Prosecutor of Morris County, who asserted a few days ago that a retrial might be had, began yesterday an investigation of the case, calling upon the County Clerk for a copy of the record of the trial. He said he had not yet found any evidence bearing out allegations of suppression of facts at the trial.

He said that he had abandoned the theory that the trial was irregular because tried before a jury drawn from Essex County talesmen. He added that he was looking into the case at the request of a number of residents of Madison who believed that the jury did not receive all the evidence that could have been presented to it.

WRECKS FOUR CARS TO SAVE WOMAN'S LIFE

B., R. & P. Engineer's Quick Stop Buckles His Train—Road's Officials Commend Him.

Special to The New York Times.

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Dec. 26.—To save the life of an aged woman whose name he did not learn, Louis Flick, an engineer on the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh Railroad, wrecked four cars at Indiana, Pa., at 5 o'clock last evening, according to officials of the railroad company, who this morning commended Flick for his action.

Flick was at the throttle of a locomotive when he discovered a woman, apparently deaf, walking along the tracks in the direction of the locomotive. Although he blew his whistle repeatedly, the woman remained on the tracks.

The engineer quickly applied the brakes, and as a result four cars attached to the train buckled and were wrecked. In saving the woman's life the engineer risked his own life, for railroad men say that the cars might have crashed into the locomotive on account of the sudden stop. Traffic was tied up for more than an hour by the wreck.

FOTHERGILL TO FIGHT IT OUT

Waldorf Guest Seized in Motor Boat at Sea Obtains Counsel.

Robert Graham Fothergill of the Waldorf-Astoria, arrested on Sunday night with four others on a thirty-ton motorboat off Fire Island on charges of conspiring to violate the Volstead act, obtained an adjournment of his case until 2 o'clock this afternoon when he and the other defendants appeared yesterday before Edward Barnes, Assistant Solicitor of the Legal Division of the Custom House. All were paroled by Assistant Solicitor Barnes after they had asked for time to consult counsel.

Questioned about the $46,356 in currency found in his pockets at the time of his arrest aboard the motorboat, Fothergill explained that he always carried large sums with him, both in America and England. He said he had no banking connections here and explained that he was a ship's broker. He said he came here from Bermuda three weeks ago on the steamship Arcadia, his mission bing to buy for some German clients. He asserted that he had correspondence to prove the nature of his business.

"Were you, when the cutter Seminole overtook you, going out to the Rafk in Rum Row?" asked Assistant Solicitor Barnes.

"No," said the witness, "we were simply going out on a pleasure trip."

John O'Dell, another defendant, of 214 East Eighty-third Street, said he had invited Fothergill and others to accompany him on a trip aboard the motorboat and that they were going "south." He did not name their destination.

HARDING FUND GROWS.

Families Send Subscriptions of $1 for Each Member.

Subscriptions received yesterday for the Harding Memorial Fund were greater than those of any day since the campaign to raise $250,000 in this city started, according to Arthur Williams, the general chairman here.

Several families sent subscriptions of $1 for each member and requested certificates of membership in the fund for every one. Arthur Brisbane wrote: "Needless to say I shall be very glad to do anything to co-operate in honoring the memory of President Harding. He was a good man, who worked himself to death."

Among the subscriptions received yesterday were $85 through the Capitol National Bank, $78 through the Fifth Avenue Bank, and $50 from Pioneer Lodge, 20, F. & A. M., through the Fidelity International Trust Company. The majority of yesterday's contributions were from women.

VETTER SENTENCE TODAY.

Judge Is Considering Clemency for Pair Guilty of Manslaughter.

Ernest and Marie Vetter will be sentenced today by Judge Burt J. Humphrey in the Queens County Court on their conviction of manslaughter in the first degree for killing Alonzo G. Storey in their home, 4,749 Bertha Place, on May 11. Since their conviction last Friday they have been in the Queens Jail but have had little communication with each other.

Meanwhile the record of each has been searched by County Detective John A. Butler, confidential aid to Judge Humphrey. In consequence the judge possesses full knowledge of the alleged marriage of the pair. The Judge, it is said, in considering the jury's recommendation for extreme clemency.

Jail officials say Vetter has been a model prisoner, but Mrs. Vetter has been nervous and a close watch has been kept on her. Attorney Sidney Rosenthal, who represented the Vetters at the trial, said last night that as soon as sentence was passed he would start action to get them released on bail pending a new trial.

NOBLE IS BEATEN IN JUNIOR TENNIS

PLAY STARTS IN DOUBLES

Appel and Van Ryn and Hill and Johnson Advance—Garretson Extended in Singles.

Play in the national junior and boys' indoor lawn tennis championship singles reached the round before the semi-final yesterday on the courts of the Seventh Regiment Armory, Park Avenue and Sixty-sixth Street. One more of the favorites in each tournament was eliminated. Stanley Noble of Cornell University, the fifth man seeded in the junior draw, was defeated in the second round by Hadley Lowerre of Princeton University in one of the few matches of the day that went to three sets. Lowerre won at 6—3, 4—6, 6—1. In the boys' singles Selwyn Orcutt, one of the strongest of the metropolitan players, seeded third in the draw, was put out by Jack Peck of Lawrence (L. I.) High School in the third round at 6—4, 6—4.

The survivors in the upper half of the junior tournament are Horace Orser of Stuyvesant High School, Kenneth Appel of East Orange High School, Louis H. Watson of Columbia University and Jack Garretson of Cornell. In the lower half are Weller Evans of Andover, John Van Ryn of East Orange High School, Carl Schuster of Dartmouth and William Einsmann of Astoria, who defeated Lowerre, the conqueror of Noble, in straight sets at 6—4, 6—3.

Malcolm T. Hill of Waban, Mass., Charles Einsmann of Astoria, Eugene A. McCauliff of the New York Tennis Club and William Rand of Mount Vernon High School survive in the upper half of the boys' championship. In the lower half are John H. Pitman of Hill School, Manhasset, L. I.; Maurice Perlow of Morris High School, Jack Peck and Joseph Da Fina of New Utrecht High School.

Orser and Conlin Advance.

Play in the national junior doubles championship was started yesterday and a full round completed with the exception of two matches. Among the teams to advance were Malcolm Hill and Henry L. Johnson of Waban, Mass., the national outdoor champions, who drew a bye; Kenneth Appel and John Van Ryn, the defending title holder, and Horace Orser and Edward C. Conlin Jr. of the West Side Tennis Club, one of the four teams seeded in the draw along with Hill and Johnson and Appel and Van Ryn. Carl Schuster and Frank Walsh, the fourth team, did not get into action yesterday.

Orser, the ranking player in the junior singles, gained his bracket in the round before the semi-finals with ease, defeating Edward R. Phillips of Rutgers College at 6—0, 6—1 in the third round. Appel won with almost as little trouble from David D. Hedekin of West Point at 6—3, 6—2. Watson won the first set of his match with Irwin A. Powell of Hill School by the safe margin of 6—2, but Powell improved considerably in the second chapter, tightening up and stroking with more aggressiveness, to carry the score to 7-5. This was one of the few sets of the day to go to deuce in the junior play.

Garretson, who furnished the first surprise in the tournament by eliminating Brainerd Whitbeck, gained his fourth round bracket at the expense of Jack D. Klein Jr. of the University of West Virginia. The match was closely contested for two sets, the Cornell player winning at 6—4, 6—4. Evans put out Frank Walsh of this city at 6—3, 6—2.

Walsh Defeats Irvine.

All the other juniors to reach the round before the semi-finals advanced two brackets. Walsh, before meeting Evans, put out Wood Irvine of the Hoboken Tennis Club. Van Ryn encountered in succession John S. Millen and Stanley Kunaberg. The latter, from Evander Childs, carried the East Orange youth to three sets before submitting at 3—6, 6—2, 6—1. Schuster won from J. Gordon Douglas Jr. by default and then defeated Austen G. Block of Columbia in a hard-fought match at 10—8, 6—3. Einsmann first disposed of Alan Welsman at 6—0, 6—3, after which he defeated Lowerre at 6—4, 6—3.

Lowerre had shown a strong forehand drive in his morning match with Stanley Noble, stroking with good pace and judging length with a nice eye. Consistent effectiveness in the use of this weapon and superior steadiness, except in the second set, when he lapsed for a short period, enabled him to get the best of the Cornell player. Against Einsmann the Princeton youth faced a stiffer sort of play and was not able to get his shots off so well as he did in the morning match. Einsmann stroked vigorously from the baseline and was quick to follow up the openings formed by his forcing shots, taking the net position and volleying with crispness and finality.

Hill, making his first appearance in the tournament, played through two rounds. First he defeated Anthony Forbes of Choate School in love sets and then he gained his next bracket at the expense of Lytle Chambers of Cutler School at 6—1, 6—2. Not one of the matches in the boys' tournament went to three sets, though several of them were closely contested through two. Perlow was carried to deuce in both chapters in defeating Frank Shields, and Peck had only a slight edge on Orcutt.

Edward W. Williams of Poly Prep, after winning his second round match from Oliver Keyes at the drawn-out score of 11—9, 6—4, had enough left to carry Rand to 7—5 in the first set. He then submitted quickly in the second at 6—1. Da Fina defeated W. H. Chambers in a one-sided match at 6—2, 6—2. The summaries:

Sensitive Plants of Fiji Prevent Loss of Golf Balls

LONDON, Dec. 26.—Golfing in the Fiji Islands is ideal, according to Englishmen who have been there, for the reason that it is almost impossible to lose a ball. Like most of the rest of the landscape, the golf links largely are covered with a sensitive plant which shrivels at a touch. Having pulled, sliced or topped his ball, the player merely has to follow it along the line of shriveled plants to its resting place.

U. S. HOCKEY BODY TO MEET CANADIANS

Haddock Announces Conference With Ontario Association Will Be Held on Jan. 3.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 26.—Representatives of the United States Amateur Hockey Association will confer with officials of the Ontario League at Niagara Falls on Jan. 3, it was announced here tonight by W. S. Haddock, President of the association. The Canadian hockey officials invited the association to send representatives to discuss the question of migration of players from Canada to the United States, and to take part in the ceremonies incident to the opening of a new rink.

The association has received from T. J. Kanaly, Eastern member of the Executive Committee, a protest against John McGrath of New York refereeing any further games. When Kanaly's detailed statement is received association officials will announce a decision it was said here.

The New Haven Club protested the game which the Boston A. A. won last week on the grounds that more than two substitutes were used. The protest was not allowed, as an amendment to the rules provides for six substitutes.

It was announced that playing certificates have been issued to James W. Herbert to play with Eveleth, E. J. Behan, New Haven; J. H. Cully, New Haven, and Alex McKinnon, Pittsburgh.

NAVY TEAM DRILLS EN ROUTE TO COAST

LINE-UP STILL UNSETTLED

Folwell Says Much Will Depend on How Players Stand 4,000-Mile Journey for Game.

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—After a brisk two-hour workout on Stagg Field at the University of Chicago, the Navy football squad, thirty-two strong, left here tonight for Pasadena, Cal., where New Year's Day it will clash with the University of Washington in the annual Tournament of Roses game.

The middies are scheduled to arrive in Pasadena on Dec. 30.

The thirty-two players, under Coach Bob Folwell, engaged in a practice that was full of pep and left for the Coast confident that they would win. The midshipmen appeared to be trained to the minute as a result of three weeks of strenuous work. The line-up will depend on the condition of the players after their 4,000-mile journey, Coach Folwell said.

Taylor and Brown undoubtedly will start the game at ends, according to Coach Folwell's plans. Levensky and Carney will appear in the guard positions, while Shewell and Walker will fill the tackle positions. Barchet, who probably will start at fullback, won recognition this season as a defensive and offensive player. Mathews, centre, has the reputation of being an accurate passer, while McKee, quarterback, is a brilliant field general and open field runner.

Navy Coaches Scatter.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 26.—The staff of assistants to Head Coach Folwell, which has been with him for nearly the whole of his stay at the academy, has begun to scatter and its members are not likely to be together in the same capacity again, owing to the demands of the service. Ensign Eddie Ewen, captain of the elevens of 1919 and 1920, will take up flying and will go to the Naval Aviation Training School at Pensacola, Fla., after the game at Pasadena. "Pop" Ferry already has reported on the destroyer Williamson at New York, to which he has been attached. Ensigns Welchel and Scaffe will be detached shortly after the return to Annapolis.

racing plants in New York State and other part of the country. But money to float the venture will be available immediately if the proposed enabling legislation is adopted. It was stated last night that the money to finance the venture will be the least of the worries of the promoters of the proposed plants.

Pari-Mutuels Illegal.

The effect of the establishment of pari-mutuel betting on race tracks in New Jersey on the existing plants in New York State can readily be conjectured. This form of betting is at present illegal in both States. The only form of betting employed is termed "oral betting." This form of wagering permits of no returns to the tracks, the Jockey Club or the State. It is conceivable that open betting in New Jersey at two meetings running throughout the racing season would put the New York tracks out of business.

There are at present in New York modern racing plants at Saratoga and Yonkers and on Long Island at Belmont Park, Jamaica and Aqueduct. The season at these tracks runs continuously from the first of May until the last of October. Because of the fact that there is no income from betting of any sort, the tracks in New York State are at a disadvantage in the matter of purses and the charges that are made for admission to the tracks. In the States where pari-mutuel betting is permitted larger purses are possible and the admission fee is almost nominal.

With two great tracks operating in New Jersey, one within a few minutes' ride of the heart of the greatest city in the country and the other within easy reach of Philadelphia, enormous attendances would be a certainty. The expense of attending the races would be nominal for a day of sport, while at present at the New York tracks it means a considerable item of expense.

Betting on the New York tracks involves personal acquaintance with a bookmaker, with whom an account must be arranged. There is no cash betting and in most cases it means considerable bookkeeping and usually daily settlements, the whole series of transactions being inconvenient and a clumsy method of betting.

The pari-mutuel system of betting is exceedingly simple. Bets are made with cashiers in amounts of $2, $5 and $10. The whole amount wagered is calculated and, after deductions are made, the balance is divided among those who wagered on the winning horses. The system is tremendously popular all over the world where it is in use, because of its simplicity and because it enables small amounts to be bet on all the races. The returns are enormous because of these conditions and more so because of the "break," which are the odd cents remaining after the odds are calculated in the nearest ten cents below the actual calculation.

With this system of betting and the enormous patronage that would surely follow from New York and Philadelphia, New Jersey would establish and operate the two plants proposed and earn tremendous profits, to be devoted, under the plan which it is proposed to lay before the Legislature, to charity.

Whether the proposed tracks would meet with the approval of the Jockey Club is something that does not worry the promoters. Major August Belmont, Chairman, and other officers of the Jockey Club could not be reached last night to secure their views on the subject. Algernon Daingerfield, Assistant Secretary of the Jockey Club, said that it would depend upon how the proposed legislation was drawn. New Jersey is at present territory that is under the jurisdiction of the Jockey Club, Mr. Daingerfield said. He also said:

"Whether permission of the Jockey Club would be necessary to establish racing in New Jersey with betting under the pari-mutuel system would depend upon how the act is drawn. Maryland was territory under the jurisdiction of the Jockey Club, but when the State Racing Commission was established it placed racing in that State under the jurisdiction of that body, and the Jockey Club no longer exercises authority except through the closest and friendliest relations."

In all cases the decisions of racing bodies in various sections of the country are recognized by other bodies and suspensions and other penalties are enforced by all.

Not only would the track at Jersey City menace the sport in New York State, but that at Atlantic City would have no small effect on the racing in Maryland. The Maryland racing opens about the 1st of April and continues to the middle of May, resuming in mid-September to continue until the 1st of December. If the sport were conducted at a great plant at Atlantic City during these periods, with the transportation available from Baltimore, it would certainly attract large attendance from that section that now patronizes the Maryland tracks.

West Has Won 4 of 6 Games In Tournaments of Roses

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 26.—Since 1916 six football games have been played between Eastern and Western universities in the Tournament of Roses at Pasadena, Cal., the West winning four, tying one and losing one. On the face of these statistics the Navy will enter the game New Year's Day against the University of Washington eleven with a handicap. The only game lost by the West during this period was the Harvard-Oregon clash, which gave the East a 7 to 6 victory. Following is the statistical record of the tournament football games:

1916—Washington State 14, Brown 0.
1920—Harvard 7, Oregon 6.
1921—California 28, Ohio State 0.
1922—California 0, W. and J. 0.
1923—So. California 14, Penn State 3.

HOREMANS IS NAMED REFEREE OF MATCH

Will Officiate at Junior 18.2 Title Play, Which Opens Here Tonight.

When Tadao Suganuma of Japan, the champion, and Jean Bruno of Austria, the challenger, meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the first 400-point block of the 1,200-point match for the national junior 18.2 balkline billiard championship at the Strand Billiard Academy, Edouard Horemans, the Belgian professional 18.2 champion, will be the referee. It was not until yesterday afternoon that Suganuma and Bruno came to terms on the referee question. The date of the match has been set for nearly a month, but the players had trouble in agreeing on a selection for referee. Edgar F. Appleby, the international 18.2 balkline champion, was the unanimous choice and accepted, but he was forced to cancel the referee job as he has to meet John A. Clinton Jr., in an amateur 18.1 balkline match in Pittsburgh.

Suganuma and Bruno both have demonstrated that they possess much billiard class and each is capable of breaking into high runs of more than 200. Only a week ago Bruno made a run of 290 in a 400-point exhibition match against Edgar Appleby, while Suganuma, who already is credited with a run of 407 in practice, made a run of 180 in a match against Willie Hoppe, the world's champion, in Philadelphia a few weeks ago.

The selection of Horemans at the last minute relieved what looked like a rather awkward situation. Under the rules governing the junior tournaments and the junior challenge matches, if the players are unable to agree on a referee by 7:30 o'clock on the night of the opening game of the match the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company, sponsors of the junior matches, has the right to name the official. Yesterday Thomas A. Dwyer, Secretary of the company, called the players together and after going over a long list of eligible men to referee the match, the players finally decided that Horemans was the man. Horemans announced last Monday, when his name was first mentioned, that he was willing to accept the job but Suganuma entered a protest which was not lifted until yesterday.

Edgar T. Appleby left yesterday for Pittsburgh, where he is scheduled to open a 150-point match at 18.1 balkline billiards tonight. His opponent will be John A. Clinton Jr., who finished second in the recent national amateur 18.1 tournament which was won by Francis S. Appleby. Edgar Appleby finished third, and he will oppose Clinton for the right to meet Francis Appleby in a challenge match for the 18.1 title.

Ely defeated Dailey, 3 to 2; Waldorf, 3 to 0.

Billiard Results.

Jean Bruno of Austria, practicing in preparation for his match beginning tonight with Tadao Suganuma for the junior 18.2 balkline championship, defeated Murray Elin at the Recreation Academy, Manhattan, last night by the score of 300 to 204. Bruno went out in fifteen innings ad made a high run of 110. Elin, unknown to local tournament play, made Bruno work hard to win, leading him the most difficult spreads and compelling him to resort to three-cushion shots frequently. Elin made a high run of 50.

Nicholas Labordus split two games with Samuel Judd and Harry Fisher in the Class B three-cushion tournament at the Strand Academy last night. In the first game he lost to Judd at 25 to 11 in forty-nine innings. Judd's high run was 4 and the loser's 3. Labordus defeated Fisher by the margin of a point, 25 to 24 in seventy-one innings. Both men made a high run of 5.

Charles Shongood won a surprising victory in the snooker tournament in progress at Doyle's Academy last night when he defeated George Barton by the score of 100 to 91 after trailing at 34 to 88. At the end of the first frame Barton seemed a certain winner, but in the second frame he added only 3 points to his 88 while Shongood was making 57 to go out. The winner's high run was 21, while Barton's was 25.

The play-off for the second, third and fourth prizes in connection with the John G. Thomas trophy 18.2 tournament took place last night at the Hoppe-Peterson Billiard Academy.

S. Swenarton won the second prize by winning both his games. In the first Swenarton defeated Harry Schuler 140 to 36 in eighteen innings and in the second contest, he beat William Becks, 140 to 124 in thirty-two innings. William Hathaway won the third prize by scoring a victory over Becks, 140 to 89 in thirty-five innings.

In a special 200-point match Herbert Hammer defeated Tadao Suganuma, 200 to 108 in fourteen innings. Hammer made a high run of 63 and had an average of 14 8-14, while Suganuma's best effort was a cluster of 52 and he had an average of 7 and 11-14.

On Saturday night of this week Willie Hoppe will give an open exhibition both at 18.2 and three cushion at the Hoppe-Peterson pariors.

In the first game of the second play-off of the three-cornered tie in the New York State professional pocket billiard championship at Lawler Brothers' Academy in Brooklyn last night Leo Silver defeated Peter Judice by the score of 100 to 82 in thirteen frames. Silver made a high run of 22, one better than that of his opponent. Judice led, 25 to 75, at the end of the twelfth frame. Tonight Judice will play Harmon.

Two games were played in the final round of the national Class C 18.2 balkline championship at the Recreation Academy in Brooklyn last night. Joseph Honsch won the first, defeating James R. Langdon by the score of 150 to 124 in 44 innings. The winner's high run was 15, the loser's 13. In the second game H. P. Mathews defeated Dr. H. D. Jennings, 150 to 120 in 52 innings. The high runs of winner and loser respectively were 18 and 17. Tonight at 7:30 Mathews will meet Frank Grimes.

COLORED BOY WINS HARAHAN PURSE

THREE FIRSTS FOR PARKE

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 26.—Colored Boy, four-year-old colt by Black Toney-Melton Mowbray, owned and trained by T. M. Botts, won the Harahan Purse over the course of a mile and seventy yards, the feature event on the card at Jefferson Park this afternoon. Colored Boy repeated his victory of his last start here over the same distance when he beat four others, including Tender Seth, The Roll Call and Bygone Days.

Colored Boy was well handled by Wallace, and he was also lucky to beat Hermis Kemble, which was undoubtedly pounds the best, by half a length. C. A. Coyle's colt was allowed to drop far out of it in the first half. Later he raced through the deepest going, the track being heavy, and finished gamely. With a good ride he would have won.

The winner disposed of The Roll Call in the first half, but began to tire in the last furlong and just lasted to beat Hermis Kemble. The latter carried top weight of 111 pounds, giving eight pounds to the winner and The Roll Call, which took the short end of the purse. Five ran for the $1,000 purse, with Colored Boy and Hermis Kemble equal choices at post time at 9 to 5. The Roll Call was held at 5 to 2.

This was another field day for Jockey Ivan Parke, who rode three winners, was second once and third once in five starts. Trainer F. Bechtelheimer also had a big day, saddling three winners for the European Heavyweight Champion Will Meet American in Bout at Garden.

RICKARD SIGNS THE ITALIAN

Erminio Spalla, Italian heavyweight, who holds the European title, will engage Gene Tunney, American light-heavyweight champion, in a fifteen-round bout at Madison Square Garden on the night of Feb. 1. Announcement to this effect was made yesterday by Promoter Tex Rickard after he had completed arrangements for the match with Billy Gibson, Tunney's manager, and Nick Kline and Babe Cullen, Newark promoters, acting as representatives Tunney's light-heavyweight title will not be involved in the scrap because Spalla cannot make 175 pounds, the class weight. Promoter Rickard announced that Spalla's weight probably will be 185 pounds. The Italian heavyweight is expected in this country on Jan. 9, prepared to enter training for the Garden bout.

Rickard announced that he had abandoned hope of arranging a world's light-heavyweight clash between Mike McTigue, holder of the title, and Tunney as an indoor attraction. The promoter said he may be able to arrange this battle for an outdoor date. Another indoor attraction which Rickard said he has abandoned is the proposed bout here for Georges Carpentier, French boxer, who formerly held the world's light-heavyweight title. Rickard planned to promote a bout at the Garden in which Carpentier would engage either McTigue, Tunney or Tom Gibbons, St. Paul light-heavyweight, but the plans of Rickard in this direction have been knocked askew, temporarily, at least. The promoter now is planning to bring Carpentier here for a bout during the outdoor season.

Rickard Planning Bouts.

The bout arranged for Spalla against Tunney is one of a series in which the Italian heavyweight will engage under Rickard's promotion if present plans materialize. The Garden fistic impresario has elaborate plans in view with respect to Spalla's future ring activities. It is Rickard's present intention to put Spalla through a series of ring tests calculated to bring out his qualifications as a heavyweight championship prospect. If Spalla survives his preliminary trials, it is Rickard's intention to subject the Italian heavyweight to one crucial test which will determine whether Spalla qualifies for a match for the world's heavyweight title.

Rickard does not expect that Spalla's development for a world's title match will be as speedy as that which surrounded the "building up" of Luis Angel Firpo, South American giant. The promoter made the flat statement yesterday that he did not think Spalla would be ready for a crack at Jack Dempsey, or whoever holds the title, until 1925, if, indeed, Spalla ever will develop into a qualified contender for the title. Rickard has no definite future plans for Spalla as yet. He is considering the advisability of starting negotiations for a bout between the Italian and Tom Gibbons, in the event that Spalla survives his meeting with Tunney. If Spalla is successful or impressive in the Tunney bout and in the proposed Gibbons match Rickard will seek other opponents of recognized ability for the Italian, as part of Spalla's ring development.

Spalla Once Was Here.

Spalla will be making his first appearance in an American ring in two years when he engages Tunney in the Garden battle. The Italian visited this country two years ago in quest of ring recognition, but at that time had nothing but his impressive size to recommend him. Since returning to his native Italy, Spalla has scored a number of ring successes. His exploits include victories over Marcel Nilles, French heavyweight, Barbarest, an Italian rival, and Vandeveer, Hollander whom Spalla defeated on points last May in a match at Rome to determine the European heavyweight championship.

Tunney yesterday expressed his pleasure at the opportunity presented in the signing of the Spalla match. The light-heavyweight titleholder was eager for a crack at M'Tigue for the world's light-heavyweight championship, but is resigned to a delay in this match until the difference existing between McTigue and Joe Jacobs is settled. In the meantime, Tunney welcomes the meeting with the Italian heavyweight. Tunney plans to continue his light training until about the middle of next month, when he will engage in an intensive period of preparation for the Feb. 1 battle. When the articles were signed yesterday, Tunney accompanied Manager Gibson to Rickard's office and declared confidence in his ability to upset Spalla's heavyweight championship aspirations.

Firpo Claims Conflicting Date.

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 26.—A dispatch from New York announcing that Gene Tunney and Erminio Spalla, the Italian heavyweight, had been matched to fight in New York Feb. 1, arrived simultaneously with an announcement by Luis Angel Firpo that he and Spalla would fight fifteen rounds in Buenos Aires in February under an agreement drawn up by Ferdinand Lanckman, a French fight promoter, who resides here.

When shown the dispatch from New York, Lanckman asserted that he had received a cable dispatch from Spalla promising that the Italian fighter would come here at the beginning of February. Lanckman added that he had cabled Spalla a money guarantee. Both Firpo and Lanckman said they were skeptical of the New York announcement, but that they would make inquiries of Spalla by cable.

Firpo announced today that his proposed fight for charity in Buenos Aires with some North American boxer would not be held owing to the fact that American boxers wanted more money to come to Buenos Aires than the charity association was prepared to put up.

FIRPO SAYS ARM IS WELL.

Cables Rickard That He Is Now Training for Next Bout.

When Luis Angel Firpo returns here from South America he will not be bothered by a lame left arm, according to a cablegram received yesterday by Promoter Tex Rickard. In a message to the Garden promoter, Firpo stated that the injury to his left arm, which, he declared prior to leaving this country, was responsible for his defeat at the hands of Dempsy, had entirely healed. Firpo added that he was entering training immediately for his next ring engagement. This will be against an American heavyweight, in Buenos Aires, if Firpo can induce an American boxer to make the trip for 10,000 pesos or about $3,200.

DUANE AND MANAGER PART.

Another boxing combination crashed on the rocks of disagreement yesterday when Mike Valentine and Carl Duane, Bronx featherweight, agreed to disagree. Valentine, who has managed Duane for two and one-half years in thirty-three ring battles, has severed relations with the boxer. Valentine held a contract with Duane which did not expire until next June, but for a financial consideration, the exact amount not being divulged, Valentine surrendered his claims under this contract. Differences of opinion between Duane's family and Valentine, as to how Duane's ring affairs should be conducted, are said to have caused the break.

Esthonians Use Baseballs In Reviving Billiard Play

Esthonia, since its separation from Russia, has started to indulge in sports on a major scale and one of the first branches to be revived was that of billiards. Enthusiasm ran high in the City of Tartu, but when an old table was found and put into condition for play it was discovered that the balls had been lost and none were available. The players then sought for substitutes and the great American sport, baseball, came to the rescue. Several matches were played with three baseballs on the table, and the players said that they experienced a thrill in playing their games. A large gymnasium was opened just recently and the attendance at the first class reached the 3,000 mark. Since that time there have been additions until the classes have been divided and the instructors are kept busy from morning until night.

MULDOON MAY STAY WITH BOXING BOARD

Athletic Commission Chairman Willing to Continue Work if Reappointed.

Contrary to popular belief, today's meeting of the State Athletic Commission will not be the last to be attended by Chairman William Muldoon. It became known yesterday that the last meeting of the year for the commission will be held Monday afternoon, when Muldoon will make the trip to the city from his home in Purchase, N. Y. Whether the Monday meeting will witness the last visit of the commission leader to the Fuller Building remains to be seen.

While Muldoon has steadfastly declined to discuss the situation, it is known that he intends to continue in office until his successor has been appointed or he is notified by Governor Smith that his services no longer are required. If such information is received by Muldoon at Monday's meeting, he will relinquish office. From what could be learned yesterday, Muldoon will continue to lend his assistance to the administration of the boxing law, even after Jan. 1, in the event that he is not officially advised of his successor's appointment.

The situation, in so far as it involves Muldoon, was explained yesterday by a friend of the commission Chairman as follows:

"Muldoon is wrapped up heart and soul in the preservation and elevation of boxing. All this talk about his being ready to relinquish office on Jan. 1 is without foundation. Muldoon will not seek reappointment, but if he is asked, he will continue to serve and continue his efforts to maintain boxing on the high plane the sport deserves. His term expires on Jan. 1, but he will not end his services then unless he is notified his services no longer are required. He is awaiting word from Governor Smith, who will decide whether Muldoon is through. In the meantime Muldoon does not want to desert the ship."

This expression of Muldoon's attitude supports the belief that Muldoon never has declared his intention of withdrawing from his associations with the State Athletic Commission automatically after Jan. 1. From a source close to Muldoon, it was learned yesterday that he has carefully refrained from publicly discussing his connection with the commission with anybody for the past fortnight. Followers of boxing and admirers of Muldoon are hopeful that the commission leader will be reappointed for a two-year term. They point to the steady progress boxing made under his regime as a monument to the ability of Muldoon to improve the sport over what it used to be in the old days, and predict that still greater progress will be recorded if Muldoon is retained and permitted to administer the law as conditions demanded.

It is understood that an attempt will be made at today's meeting to modify the arbitrary rule of the commission under which the ringside space allotted newspaper men at local boxing bouts is restricted to two sides of the ring. The ridicule heaped upon this arrangement is understood to have led to a decision to revise the rule and four instead of two sides of the ring for writers' use, while at the same time reserving enough space for judges and timing officials to preclude the possibility of their attention being distracted during a bout.

Another rule which is understood to be due for revision is the mandate closing the dressing rooms of boxers to all save managers and seconds of boxers. Under the rule newspaper men are prevented from obtaining interviews with boxers immediately after bouts.

This contest was the most interesting of the three principal events.

HEYDLER APPROVES OF PLANS FOR TOUR

National League President Endorses Proposed Trip of Baseball Teams to Europe.

FAVORS STONEHAM MOTION

Believes All-Star Line-Ups Would Be Bigger Attraction Than Giants and White Sox.

John McGraw's suggestion that two big league ball teams from the United States tour Europe next Autumn met with the approval of John A. Heydler, President of the National League, yesterday. The league executive seconds the McGraw motion with only one reservation—that the teams be composed of representative players on high character, the kind of men who are as good off the field as on it. He thinks that the impression the American athletes will make on their European hosts is the most important aspect of the question.

President Heydler also seconded the proposal of President Charles A. Stoneham of the Giants that the teams be all-star, selected not from one club in each league, but from the eight clubs of each circuit.

"The interleague rivalry appeals strongly to me," said Mr. Heydler yesterday. "That would supply the competitive interest without which the trip would not be so successful. Let's have a good team from the National and another good one from the American and then let them go to it. It would be a novelty for baseball, and don't overlook the fact that it would arouse as much interest in the United States as in Europe. Such a trip, with leading players on each side, would keep the fandom of this country highly interested, and the reports that would be cabled back would do much to focus attention on baseball on both sides of the Atlantic.

Ruth Would Attract.

"I think this would be better than two teams, such as the Giants and White Sox, making the trip. If one of the pair finished low in the standing it would hurt the venture. The presence of Ruth and Frisch and other internationally-known stars would be a tremendous factor in England and France, where they have read of these men, especially Ruth.

"In this, however, I am not thinking of the gate receipts. This should be strictly a sporting proposition, as much so as if it were a world series between two clubs. Only those players should be taken who are willing to go for other reasons than those of money. I would be opposed to the players figuring in the receipts. It shouldn't be a barnstorming tour, but a friendly visit of the athletes of one country to another country.

"We have had international track meets, international horse races, international hockey and skating and tennis and golf. Why not international baseball, except that in this case it will be a demonstration of how to play a game with which the Europeans are not familiar? And what better time for it than in the same year as the Olympic Games, the greatest international carnival of them all?"

"But, as I said before, I should want it to be sport and not business. The players, also, should be selected with a view of getting high-grade, representative men who can be depended upon to impress the people they visit with their sportsmanship and character. Fortunately, this will not be hard, for the day of the 'roughneck' in baseball has passed.

Wants Stars to Go.

"I don't say that we ought to pick only the best player in each position, but have a sprinkling of the stars in each league, so that Europe would know that it was seeing some of the best players in the United States. It would be infinitely better, too, for the people of the other countries to understand that the tour is not a moneymaking proposition and that the players won't be counting the people in the stands and figuring up their share of the receipts.

"Anyway, I doubt if any profits will be made. It will require a large outlay of money, particularly at the start, and somebody will have to underwrite the trip. Who this will be or how the trip should be handled I don't know.

"Under the conditions outlined, I can see no objection to the tour. The general idea of it is splendid, and properly handled, the baseball trip ought to be a wonderful force in cementing the relations between the United States and foreign countries."

Mr. Heydler, as a member of the Advisory Council, will vote on the matter, with Commissioner Landis and President Ban Johnson of the American League. A unanimous vote is required. Besides this, the owner of each club from which a player is selected will have to give his O. K.

Chick Evans Makes Hole in One For First Time in His Career

CHICAGO, Dec. 26. — Charles (Chick) Evans, who has been a champion golfer for many years, gave himself a Christmas present yesterday in the form of a membership in the Hole-in-One Club, when, for the first time in the thousands of holes he has played, he made an ace on the fourth hole of the Edgewater Golf Club course. He had two witnesses. The shot was 190 yards.

C. C. N. Y. AND N. Y. U. WIN IN CHESS PLAY

Local Players Blank Penn and Cornell in First Round of Collegiate League.

City College and New York University made clean sweeps in the first round of the twenty-fifth annual tournament of the Intercollegiate Chess League, which opened yesterday at the Brooklyn Chess Club. The champion C. C. N. Y. quartet defeated the University of Pennsylvania four by the score of 4—0, while the N. Y. U. players, who propose to make a determined bid to capture the title, blanked Cornell by the same score. These two rival New York teams will not meet until the final round tomorrow, and the championship probably will depend upon that encounter. Owing to the last-minute withdrawal of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, there are only four teams in the competition this year and only three rounds need to be contested.

The members of the winning teams were the following: City College, A. E. Santasiere, '25; E. Tholfsen, '23; A. Pinkus, '26, and H. Koslan, '26. New York University, H. Kabatzky, '24; D. Gladstone, '26; M. Kleiman, '27, and G. Kreines, '24.

Kabatzky of New Yoork University, who recently distinguished himself by winning his games from Alexander Alekhine, the Russian champion, in two successive simultaneous exhibitions given by the international expert, was the first to place his game in the New York University column. He outplayed W. J. Bryan of Cornell on the black side of a Sicilian defense and scored after 45 moves. D. Gladstone of Newark, the youngest of the sixteen players, beat G. G. Neidich of Cornell in 18 moves, the shortest game of the session. G. Kreines then defeated D. C. Haight, former Manual Training player, and M. Kleiman made it four straight for College of the City of New York by outwitting W. Muir.

CITY URGED TO BUY STATEN ISLAND LINE

PREDICTS CUT IN FARE

Acts Despite Willard's Proposal for Electrification and Other Improvements.

Plans for the city to buy, electrify and operate approximately thirty miles of transportation lines on Staten Island now controlled by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company will be pushed by Borough President John A. Lynch, with the backing of half a dozen civic and business organizations in his borough despite the announcement by Daniel Willard, President of the Baltimore & Ohio, of contemplated improvements in Staten Island. Electrification of approximately thirty miles of steam railroad in Staten Island has been practically promised to Acting Mayor Murray Hulbert and other members of the Board of Estimate by Mr. Willard, according to Mr. Lynch.

Mr. Lynch, in a statement at Borough Hall, St. George, S. I., said that Mr. Willard had assured city officials that the railroad also would extend its lines from Arlington to Tottenville, a distance of about eight miles, and build spurs to industrial plants.

If the city electrified and operated the steam railroads, Mr. Lynch said, a reduced fare would result. He pointed out that on the line from St. George to Arlington, and from St. George to South Beach, a distance of about nine miles, an 8-cent fare was charged, while on the main line from St. George to Tottenville, a distance of fifteen miles, the round trip fare was 79 cents for ordinary passengers and 23 for commuters. He said it would be possible for the city to operate the lines on the basis of a 10-cent fare. He estimated that $10,000,000 would be the cost of electrification, ventured no estimate of what it would cost to purchase the railroad lines. He described the present service as shameful and asserted that the residents of Staten Island were entitled to better transportation.

He added that he had already requested the Corporation Counsel to prepare an enabling bill for the acquisition of the lines on Staten Island, to be presented early in the next Legislature.

"If the city were to purchase the lines and electrify them, they would be in shape to act as feeders by the time the new tube to Staten Island is completed," he stated. "This would give Staten Island the transit service that it deserves."

ORATORIO GIVES HANDEL'S 'MESSIAH'

Society Celebrates Its Fiftieth Year With Frank and Walter Damrosch Conducting.

The Oratorio Society of New York gave the first of two holiday performances of Handel's "Messiah" at Carnegie Hall with three conductors officiating. The entire first half of the oratorio was given under the direction of Frank Damrosch and the second part through the "Hallelujah" chorus was directed by Walter Damrosch. The performance was given in celebration of the fiftieth year of the activities of the society, which the father of these conductors, Dr. Leopold Damrosch, founded.

There were but eighteen members of the chorus at the time of its first public appearance at old Knabe Hall on Dec. 8, 1873. The chorus last evening, which was augmented for the occasion, consisted of 350 singers, whose training had been under the direction of Albert Stoessel, who last night conducted the last five numbers of the oratorio and who will direct the entire performance Saturday evening.

The chorus gave evidence of the fervent manner in which it had prepared the oratorio in its preciseness of attack, clearness of enunciation, adherence to pitch and fluent response to the conductor. The soloists sang their airs in a spontaneous manner and each had vocal equipment to give admirable performance of the music. The solo parts were sung by Ethel Hazlett, soprano; Amy Ellerman, contralto; Arthur Hackett, tenor, and Richard Hale, baritone.

The orchestral setting was provided by the New York Symphony Orchestra, which gave an excellent performance, especially of the pastoral symphony. Philip James played the organ music and Charles T. Haubiel was the accompanist. There was the usual large audience, which enthusiastically applauded at each lull in the proceedings.

LASKY STUDIO TO REOPEN.

Famous Players to Resume Producing With Twelve Companies.

The Lasky studio in Hollywood will be reopened Jan 7, when Cecil B. De Mille will begin the production of "Triumph." This information was given out yesterday by Jesse L. Lasky, Vice President of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.

Complete resumption of producing activities, with twelve companies at work, will be brought about in Hollywood and Long Island before Feb. 1. Mr. Lasky said that the temporary closing down of the studios had brought about a system and mental attitude insuring the production of better pictures with less waste.

"More authority will be given the management of our studios," said Mr. Lasky, "and in the future no picture will be started until every item has been estimated. During the brief temporary closing of the Lasky studio our directors and scenario writers have been carefully going over the scripts of future productions. Each of these scenarios has been carefully studied with a view to elimination of all unnecessary expense; casts have been carefully chosen, and more time and study have been placed on every step of production from the original selection of material up to the final approval before actual photography.

"Some of the most important productions of this season will get under way with the reopening of the Lasky studio. Cecil B. De Mille's picture, 'Triumph,' will mark the reopening of the studio.

"In the Long Island studios we shall be busy. Under the direction of Allan Dwan, Gloria Swanson is now producing 'She Who Laughs Last,' based on Alfred Sutro's play, 'The Laughing Lady'; William de Mille is producing 'Icebound,' the Pulitzer prize-winning play by Owen Davis, and Thomas Meighan will begin Jan. 3 on a picture temporarily titled 'Quicksands,' from a novel by L. Y. Eraldne."

'Hell-Bent for Heaven' at Matinees.

"Hell-Bent for Heaven," a comedy by Hatcher Hughes, will be brought to the Klaw Theatre next week for special matinees, an arrangement necessitated by the present congestion in the theatres. There will be a private performance on Sunday night, to be followed by matinees on Friday, Jan. 4, and Tuesday, Jan. 8. The cast will include Augustin Duncan, Glenn Anders, George Abbott, Clara Blandick and John Hamilton.

MUSIC

Wagnerians Sing 'Rienzi.'

By H. C. COLLES.

RIENZI, tragic opera in five acts. German text by the composer, founded on Bulwer's famous novel. Music by Richard Wagner. At the Manhattan Opera House.

Rienzi.....Helarich Knote
Irene, his sister.....Luise Berard
Stefano Colonna.....Adolph Schoepflin
Adriano, his son.....Ottilie Metzger
Paolo Orsini.....Benno Ziegler
Raimondo, Papal Legate.....Hermann Eck
Baroncello.....Hermann Schramm
Cecco.....Emil Staudemeyer
Messenger of peace.....Editha Fleischer
Conductor—Eduard Moerike.

If "Rienzi" had not been written by Wagner, but by Spontini or Meyerbeer or any other of the contemporary composers who offered suggestive examples to its creator, it would no doubt have gone the way which most of their works have gone. But its composer's name has kept it in the repertory of most German opera houses, and German companies revive it sporadically elsewhere. So it is not surprising that it should be given a place early in the season of the German company now playing at the Manhattan Opera House, though it had rather a laconic reception last night from a comparatively small audience.

New York seems never to have shown much curiosity about "Rienzi." The records show that the Metropolitan Opera House began to give it in 1886 and ceased to give it after the thirteenth performance in 1890. If it has really not been given here for over thirty years one would have thought that there might be sufficient suffosity about an unknown work by Wagner to fill the Manhattan once. Perhaps the fact that the overture, the contralto air "Gerechter Gott" and Rienzi's prayer are all well known and are reputed to be the best parts of the music, deterred people from wishing to hear the whole.

The fact is that "Rienzi" cannot stand in the light of the later Wagner at all. The marvel is that having already conceived the central ideas of "Der Fliegende Hollander" Wagner could bring himself to finish "Rienzi" in Paris, having begun it at Riga. The most that can be said for it in this connection is that the best bits of "Rienzi" can be recognized as blood relations of the worst bits of "Tannhäuser" and "Lohengrin." But considered apart from its parentage, "Rienzi," as a spectacular opera of the late '30s it is by no means insignificant.

Wagner seized on the telling points in Bulwer Lytton's story and made of each scene an arresting picture. To the effects of fanfares, marches, processions, battles and pageantry, he brought a fund of fluent melody, and cared little if its quality was as cheap as the gilt and tinsel of the costumes. He devised bold declamatory passages for the principal characters at salient moments, and in the declamation of the German language more than in anything else we get a foretaste of the vocal style with which he enriched the German stage later.

The opera was given last night under the direction of Eduard Moerike in the spirit of spectacular opera of its period, and it was played by a cast which excelled in the declamatory side of the work. It was not a performance of great singers or of voices which one would specially desire for their individual qualities. But Mr. Knote filled the part of the last of the Tribunes and the first of Wagner's supermen effectively, and Mme. Ottilie Metzger put any amount of conviction and energy into the part of Adriano. The remainder of the cast was collaborated well.

The opera was to have begun at 7:30, but was delayed by the fact that some of the new scenery was not ready. Consequently it was 10 o'clock when the curtain rose on the third act and we cannot say at what hour it fell on the fifth. This does not mean that "Rienzi" is staged at the Manhattan with an unusual elaborateness—indeed a certain economy was noticeable, and the plan of having a scenic backcloth framed in side curtains was adopted with excellent effect.

Municipal Flag for Antonio Scotti.

Acting Mayor Hulbert is to present a municipal flag to Antonio Scotti at the close of the baritone's gala performance of "Tosca" at the Metropolitan next Tuesday evening. The Italian Ambassador will bring a decoration of the Order of San Maurizio e Lazaro, to be conferred at a dinner that follows at the Hotel Commodore. Others assisting are Miss Bori and Miss Ponselle, Otto H. Kahn, for the Opera Board, and Frederic R. Moore, for the popular testimonial.

Children Hear "Hansel and Gretel."

Humperdinck's "Hansel and Gretel" was sung to an amazing audience of children who filled the Manhattan yesterday afternoon for the grand opera version of "Babes in the Wood," done once previously by the visiting Germans. The Misses Rodegg and Fleischer enacted the children yesterday, Mr. Semper and Miss Basath the Parents, Mr. Schwarz the Witch and the Misses Appel and Ruth the Sandman and Dewman of the children's "Dream." For the second time here Weston Gales conducted.

Mistinguett in "Innocent Eyes."

The revue in which Mistinguett is to appear here will be entitled "Innocent Eyes," and will come to the Ambassador Theatre about the middle of next month. The book and lyrics of the new piece are by Harold Atteridge, with additional lyrics by Ted Seymour and music by Sigmund Romberg and Jean Schwartz. "The Dancers," now at the Ambassador, will be moved to another theatre.

Valentino Rejoins Famous Players.

The complex situation arising through Rodolph Valentino, a screen player, after having refused to act under certain conditions with Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, signing a contract with J. D. Williams of the Ritz Film Corporation, has been settled, apparently to the satisfaction of all concerned. Valentino will resume making pictures for the Famous Players concern. His first production will be "Monsieur Beaucaire," which is to be directed by Sidney Olcott. By the terms of the settlement all litigation is to be dropped, with the proviso that Valentino makes two pictures for the Famous Players.

"The Spook Sonata" on Jan. 5.

Strindberg's "The Spook Sonata," the first production at the Provincetown Playhouse under the triple direction of Kenneth Macgowan, Robert Edmond Jones and Eugene O'Neill, will have its first performance on Saturday night, Jan. 5. The cast will include Clare Eames, Helen Freeman, Stanley Howlett, Walter Abel, Mary Blair, Charles Ellis and Remeyn Park Benjamin.

Jane Cowl as Cleopatra Soon.

Jane Cowl, who has substituted "Romeo and Juliet" for "Pelleas and Melisande" at the Times Square, will continue in the former play until the end of next week, and on the following Monday will be seen in Washington in Shakespeare's "Antony and Cleopatra." After two weeks out of town in the play the production will be brought to New York, at a theatre to be named.

Massenet's "Thais" Sung Again.

Massenet's "Thais" was sung for the third time at the Metropolitan last evening. In the cast were Mme. Jeritza, Messrs. Tokatyan and Danise, and Mr. Hasselmans conducted. There was a crowded house.

Steal $950 From Candy Store.

'SWEET LAVENDER' ARRIVES.

English Company Is to Open in Pinero's Comedy in Boston.

Fourteen English actors and actresses arrived yesterday from London on the President Monroe of the United States Lines to "present Sir Arthur Wing Pinero's comedy "Sweet Lavender," which made a fortune for the late Edward Terry, who produced it at his own theatre in the Strand, London, in 1886.

The players are being brought over by Major Gordon Watney, who became wealthy by the manufacture of a gin and plays one of the characters under the stage name of Anthony Gordon. Some of the principals accompanying him on the ship were Sidney Paxton, who played here in "Fanny's First Play"; Bert Murray, Edgar Payne and Miss Dorothy Fletcher, who will act the title rôle.

"Sweet Lavender" will open at Selwyn's Park Theatre, Boston, in two weeks.

THE PLAY

By JOHN CORBIN.

NEIGHBORS, a comedy in three acts by Leon Cunningham. At the Forty-eighth Street Theatre.

Mr. Hicks	Frederick Burton
Mrs. Hicks	Josephine Hull
Josette Hicks	Ruth Nugent
Johnnie Hicks	Tom Brown
Mr. Stone	Sydney Macy
Mrs. Stone	Helen Strickland
Crawford Stone	Warren Lyons
Lillian Stone	Helen Mackie
Mrs. Blackmore	Georgie Drew Mendum
Nattie Blackmore	Alton Goodrich
Mr. Tullliver, LL. D.	Bruce Elmore
Aunt Carrie	Jessie Crommette

Possibly the Equity Players produced this little comedy by the author of last year's "Hospitality," on the theory that Broadway is the leading small-town centre of the nation. It is an engaging idea, substantiated by many current phenomena. The only trouble with "Neighbors" is that it presupposes an almost superhuman sense of humor with regard to family jars.

The stage exposes the interiors of two adjacent houses and the play makes an even more thorough exposure of the two families. The daughter of the Hicks household is on the eve of her wedding to the son of the Stone household. But Hicks senior is Burbanking in his garden in an effort to produce an odorless onion, while Mrs. Stone uses the adjacent back yard as the throne-room of a prize rooster. The rooster gets loose and mixes up the onions. As this is a repeated offense, Mr. Hicks mixes things up with Mrs. Stone.

The Hicks small boy takes up the feud with the Stone small girl. The respective spouses make a heroic resistance against losing their tempers, but are eventually drawn into the maelstrom. Owing to a peculiar arrangement of pipes, which is said to exist in the Middle West, Mrs. Stone turns off the Hicks's gas while supper is cooking, and Mr. Hicks retaliates by turning off the Stone's water when Mr. Stone is black as a chimney sweep from working in the cellar. And all the time the disconsolate bridal couple are dolorously chanting, "No wedding bells for them."

The comedy is so hectic in tempo and so rapid in developing new situations that it seems at times on the verge of degenerating into farce. But Leon Cunningham preserves always the admirable sobriety and truth in characterization which distinguished his far more serious play of last year. Except for the momentary loss of tempers, both families are intelligent, well spoken and dignified. Though literally small-town stuff, the action might almost as plausibly take place in any thoroughly American neighborhood. Once more Mr. Cunningham has given us a play well constructed, freshly motivated and soberly characterized.

The production is well up to the very high standard of the Equity Players. To mention only two of a cast that is impeccable throughout, Josephine Hull makes the amiable, sensible, worried Mrs. Hicks a thoroughly interesting little woman, while Sidney Macy makes the humorous and business-like Mr. Stone equally engaging, even when he is most painfully itching for a bath. Perhaps these two characters stand out merely for the reason that they are the last to be drawn into the feud of odorless onion against odious chanticleer. Those who are amused by endless family bickering will probably prefer half a dozen others.

Scarcely a Revival.

On the very day London reported that old-fashioned Christmas pantomime was dying out it came to life at the Greenwich Village Theatre, where Alfred Hemming, "late of Covent Garden, London," is presenting the story of Little Red Riding Hood and the Wicked Wolf in a series of holiday matinees.

The phrase "came to life" is perhaps an exaggeration. Mr. Hemming and his co-mates are fast and furious knockabout comedians, but with the exception of a few infantile gurgles of mirth they produced few symptoms of liveliness in their audience. There were a few lilting tunes, not too new, and a great many jokes not old enough to be really good. The costumes were gay and the dances lively. But it was discovered many years ago that, even at its best, this particular form of entertainment does not survive the ocean voyage and, with the best will in the world, it is not possible to say that Mr. Hemming has given reason to reverse that finding.

Percy Mackaye has written a play of varying interest in "This Fine, Pretty World"—a study of manners, customs and language deep in the Kentucky mountains, a bit of folklore with certain minor digressions by the author. Mr. Mackaye, emerging from a lengthy study of Kentucky mountaineers, came to the theatre with an interesting story to tell, but he has not been quite content just to tell it. He has tried to give it a touch of cosmic significance, and has thereby weakened it just a little as drama.

It is, however, a play with a good deal of sturdy force, and last night's audience at the Neighborhood Playhouse received it with unmistakable enthusiasm. Mr. Mackaye has not spared his mountaineers in the writing—they are revealed as an ignorant, superstitious and immoral lot. With all his attempt to get down to the heart of them, however, Mr. Mackaye never quite dissipates the feeling that he is putting his people through their paces rather than permitting them to do their own trotting. There is the constant suggestion that his folk are being shown under glass.

The language of the play, undoubtedly faithfully mirrored, is picturesque in the extreme. It requires a few minutes to get the hang of it, but a good deal of amusement can be got out of it thereafter. The piece is concerned with the attempt of one Gilly Magrot to "git shet of" his wife, and of his ready acceptance of a friend's suggestion that he should swear to lies regarding her virtue. The first act is brisk and spirited; the second contains a good deal that is repetitious, but the final act, laid in a rustic courthouse, is vastly entertaining.

It requires a stretch of the imagination to believe that even these Kentucky mountaineers would have written "Hedge" in chalk across the judge's bench, but Mr. Mackaye has been down in Kentucky and probably he has the documents to prove it. Either way, however, it is a comic trial that compares favorably with that in "The Showing Up of Blanco Posnet," which held the stage of the Neighborhood just ahead of it.

The performance is generally good, with chief honors going to the women in the cast. There is more than a hint of mountain breeze in the performance of Joanna Roos and other women of the hills are excellently played by Aileen MacMahon and Esther Mitchell. The leading male rôles are more than capably discharged by Perry Ivins, E. J. Ballantine, Albert Carroll and John F. Roche. The play has been well staged, the ensemble scenes being handled with particular skill.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

In the cast of "Thieves in Clover," Eugene Walter's new play, are Valarie Valarie, Amelia Gardner, Edward Emery, Robert Hudson and others. The play will open out of town next week.

"The Show-Off," by George Kelly, was placed in rehearsal yesterday. The cast includes Regina Wallace, Juliette Crosby, Helen Lowell and Louis John Bartels. The play will open in Atlantic City Jan. 14.

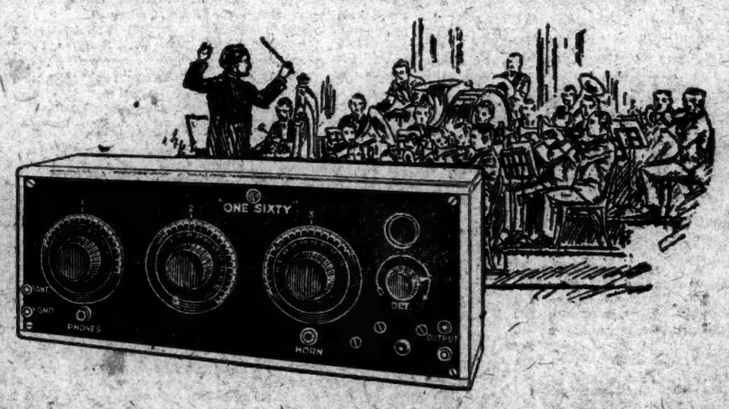
The Dependable Radio Receiver

FADA "ONE SIXTY"

with the NEUTRODYNE Circuit



Tune in Your Favorite Band or Orchestra

THEN when the loud speaker is bringing the music in sweet and clear, sit back and watch the faces of your guests as the announcer says "Atlanta," or "Pittsburgh," or "Fort Worth." The FADA "ONE SIXTY" radio receiver with the famous Neutrodyne circuit is a wonder at consistent performance. Day in and day out it is as trustworthy as a bank watchman. Turn the dials to your favorite stations and, if they are on the air, you'll get them every time—and on the loud speaker too.

FADA radio engineers have tried to produce a five-tube Neutrodyne receiver that would be better than the "ONE SIXTY" with four tubes. But try as they may neither our engineers nor any other engineers have yet produced a five-tube set that will excel the four-tube FADA "ONE SIXTY."

Distance getting is easy. During the recent trans-Atlantic tests numerous letters and telegrams came to us stating that the FADA "ONE SIXTY" was getting the different British broadcasts on the loud speaker satisfactorily. Volume is also a characteristic of the Neutrodyne circuit, and we say, "If we don't get 'em on the loud-speaker we don't count 'em."

Every FADA "ONE SIXTY" radio receiver is made with the same painstaking care and expert craftsmanship that characterize all FADA products. The name "FADA" is your assurance of quality in radio. Ask your dealer to show you the FADA "ONE SIXTY." The demand is tremendous, so don't delay. Price of receiver, $120.

A STRATEGIC RETREAT.

What STEKLOF wrote in Isvestiya on Nov. 7, 1922, about the connection between the Soviet Government and the Third International is of no intrinsic importance. As ZINOVIEV, head of the Third International, said in his report to its fourth congress: "The Soviet Republic and the Third "International are as the foundation "and the roof of a building; they be- "long together." (Quoted from the Communist Review of London, Volume III., page 475.) The question has no bearing on the alleged instructions from ZINOVIEV to the Workers' Party of America.

The Steklof article assumed importance from the fact that Senator BORAH and The New York World and STEKLOF himself chose to assert that Mr. HUGHES had been grossly deceived or was grossly deceiving. On Dec. 19 he quoted the alleged orders from ZINOVIEV and the Steklof articles as one proof out of many for the virtual identity of Third International and Soviet Government. On the following day Mr. BORAH said in the Senate: "So far as the "Third International is concerned, "the representatives of fifty-six na- "tions are members of it. We are "doing business all the time, and "making treaties, and we are dealing "with nations whose citizens are "members of the Third Interna- "tional." He forgot to say that we are doing business and dealing and making treaties with the Governments of those nations, and that the representatives on the Third International are members of revolutionary parties, most of them political exiles. However, the Senator was satisfied that "that is a wholly different institu- "tion from the Soviet Government."

A day later TCHITCHERIN announced that after consultation with ZINOVIEV and STEKLOF "I emphatically de- "clare these documents unmitigated "forgeries." He proposed to submit the question of authenticity to a court of arbitration, and added: "It is for Mr. HUGHES to exonerate himself." The next day STEKLOF added his contribution: / "Considering that the So- "viet Government has always main- "tained that it is separate from the "Communist International, it is at "least most unlikely that I as editor "of a Soviet newspaper would aver "the contrary in that paper's col- "umns." After references to the probability of forgery by Letts or Rus- sian émigrés, he ended: "If Mr. "HUGHES declines to accept the chal- "lenge to submit to arbitration, he "stands accused of baseless slander "before all honest men."

On Dec. 22 an editorial in The World said that "in a cooler mood "Mr. HUGHES will see that when a "Government makes charges of ap- "parent gravity it cannot do so in a "casual manner by emitting undated, "uncertified material." On the fol- lowing day Mr. HUGHES gave the date of the article in Isvestiya which he had quoted, and The World com- mented on Dec 24:

Secretary HUGHES cannot afford to ignore the categorical challenge of the Russian Government that he has sanc- tioned the use of a forged document. * * * Mr. HUGHES as Secretary of State, as a leading member of the bar, as a man of honor, is called upon to furnish either proof or apology.

So far as concerns the Steklof ar- ticle, Mr. HUGHES had not ignored the challenge: he had furnished proof. The article was found, not only in the State Department's files of Isvestiya, but in those of the New York Public Library; and now at last it has been found in the Isvestiya office.

What is the result? STEKLOF, ad- mitting that Mr. HUGHES has "a for- mal triumph," says that, "despite "the external coincidence of the "words," it doesn't mean what Mr. HUGHES thinks. He also says that Mr. HUGHES has written something into the article, but the files of the paper in the Public Library don't bear him out. He asserts also that Mr. HUGHES omitted a qualifying sentence; but Mr. HUGHES didn't. As for Foreign Min- ister TCHITCHERIN, he has prudently let the matter drop.

Senator BORAH, however, now finds that the Steklof article was only "a "sloppy effusion of an editor who was "trying to be good to his poor rela- "tions." Anyway, says Mr. BORAH, suppose the Third International and the Soviet Government do have an in- tericocking directorate, that proves nothing. And then he suddenly ex- ecutes a retirement under fire such as the most disciplined army in the world could hardly equal: "Let me "give an illustration here of the utter "unreliability of the news from Riga." What has the news from Riga got to do with it? The news in question comes from the State Department, the New York Public Library and Mos- cow. But Mr. BORAH seems to think that he has got out of the question of the relation between the Soviet Gov- ernment and the Third International by saying that "there has never been "anything like the wholesale lying "that has been going on from Riga, "Harbin, Helsingfors and other points "near the Russian border." SCHURZ- MANN had something to say about logicians who use such artifices when in distress.

CUT IT SHORT!

The first national platform was adopted in 1832 by a convention of young National Republicans which met in Washington in May, on the recommendation of the National Re- publican Convention of the previous December. This platform consisted of ten short resolutions. This model was, on the whole, fairly well fol- lowed in the nineteenth century. The Republican platforms of 1856 and 1860 could be read in a few minutes. That of 1864, reported by HENRY J. RAY- MOND, contained only eleven resolu- tions. In the twentieth century plat- forms have grown like JONAH'S gourd of Jack's beanstalk. They have be- come a sort of dreary mixture of stump speeches and long-winded President's messages. Thus the Re- publican platform of 1920 covers six pages of a political almanac, the Democratic six and a half.

Nobody can read all this stuff. Something for everybody is the idea. These multitudes of words are meant to catch gulls. The public is con- fused and deceived. So many "issues" are set before it that often, after an election, there is a permanent dispute as to what it turned on. The main "principles," the essential poli- cies, of a political party can't be many. They should be stated as clearly as possible, without rhetoric, in few words. Then the voter will know just what he is voting for. It is time to give up the rag-bag and omnium-gatherum platform. It is good news and characteristically Cool- idgian that the President is sick of the vote-hunting hodgepodge style of platform. He hopes that the Repub- lican National Convention of 1924 will make a platform of the earlier Republi- can kind—short, simple, direct, stat- ing the main policies agreed upon, leaving out the buncombe and the miscellaneous vote-angling apparatus and annexes. Mr. COOLIDGE wants an honest and a straightforward plat- form, so concise that everybody will take the trouble to read it.

This is a question of a good deal more than economy of attention. Honest platforms would be a step toward party responsibility, toward really responsible self-government. If the Republicans are wise, Mr. COOL- IDGE'S suggestions about the platform will be adopted; and nobody else in the party can write so well as he the platform he desires. It oughtn't to be longer than a newspaper column. If the Republicans have a short, com- mon-sense platform, the Democrats will have to do likewise or waste their wind.

THE PEOPLE'S UTILITIES.

The New York State Committee on Public Utility Information estimates that in 1923 "more than $300,000,000 "in securities will be purchased di- "rectly by the customers of the power "companies, their employes and "friends." In 1920 the corresponding figures were $35,000,000. It is an amazing rate of growth for so short a time. Nor does it stand alone. Similar figures are not available for railways as a whole, but between 1917 and 1922 the number of shareholders in twenty railways increased from 449,165 to 627,800. In both cases the number of individual owners of shares must be increased by the number of bondholders, together with investment institutions of all sorts, insurance companies, charitable and educational trustees, and others.

This diffused ownership implies that public utilities are the people's utilities. As the process of multiplying indi- vidual shareholders goes on, there is a prospect that public regulation may become more intelligent. It is not suggested that a mass of votes should influence legislation contrary to the public interest, but just the opposite. Regulatory and tax statutes have often been motived by a wish to punish some classes, losing sight of the broad public interests.

The million or more of small capi- talists cannot always be fooled in a matter so directly affecting them. They know that unreasonable regu- lation defeats itself. As President COOLIDGE has said, reasonable regu- lation is the only sort the Constitution allows. The sort of regulation which starves investors also starves service. If profits are forbidden in order that rates may be reduced, the result is that both investors in and users of utilities suffer together. There has been made by the public utilities an amazing record of public service. In- dustrials have thriven above both rail- ways and utilities, although the indus- trials are largely private enterprises. Misconduct, violation of sound busi- ness morals, should be punished with rigor wherever found. No more is asked for the utilities than a square deal, because they deserve it, not be- cause their owners are a multitude constantly growing.

LIEUTENANT WOOD.

When gossip and suspicion have long buried themselves with the name of a man in such a position as that held by Lieutenant OSBORNE WOOD, the best thing is to get at the facts and out with the whole story. In running down and verifying the in- formation about him which it has printed, THE NEW YORK TIMES is glad to say that no scrap of evidence has been found reflecting in any way upon Governor General WOOD. If his multifarious and pressing duties pre- vented him from knowing about the transactions in which his son was engaged, that was more his misfortune than his fault. When the General was told of the extent of the Lieuten- ant's speculations, he ordered a stop put to them. And when our corre- spondent in Manila approached him with an account of the Lieutenant's operations, General WOOD at once urged its publication and said: "I want nothing concealed." This was an honorable and manly attitude.

As for the son, he must have been amazingly dull or inconceivably reck- less with respect to the attempt which he was making to get rich quickly. He should have known, in the first place, that what he was doing was highly improper in any army officer. In addition, he ran a frightful risk as the son of his father and an aid on that father's staff. The possibility that scandalous charges might be brought not only against himself but against the Government of the Philip- pines, with which he had so delicate an official and personal relation, seems never to have entered his head. Yet he must have known with what keen eyes the Filipino enemies of General WOOD would watch the steps of Lieu- tenant WOOD. He could not have been ignorant that it was his duty to avoid even the appearance of evil, lest he should be the means of bringing scan- dal upon the entire American Ad- ministration in the Philippines. If he did not realize it in advance, he will soon discover how eagerly the politi- cal opponents of the Governor Gen- eral will seize upon the acts of his son in order to intensify the bitter- ness of their attacks upon LEONARD WOOD. Seldom can there have been a case of a son so lightly hazarding the reputation of his father.

If Lieutenant WOOD'S explanations are received with almost universal skepticism, the reason is that they are manifestly incomplete. The whole truth will have to come out. On his return to this country there can be little doubt that Lieutenant WOOD will be called before a committee of Con- gress, as the Frear resolution for an investigation will gain new force. Then he will be asked to fill up all the gaps in his narrative; to spread out his astonishing speculation in all its details; to give the names of the bro- kers through whom he operated, and of his backers, if he had any; to pro- duce books showing every purchase and sale in his name and every trans- fer of funds to and from New York and Manila. If he is wronged by the surmises which now inevitably attach to his name, the only way to dispel suspicions that may be unjust is to make a clean breast of the entire busi- ness from beginning to end.

FRIENDS OF THE LEAGUE.

There was printed in yesterday's TIMES a letter from Professor MIT- CHELL of the University of Richmond, urging that the $400,000 cut from the budget of the League of Nations be made up by voluntary contributions from private citizens of the United States. The suggestion carries its own appeal, though what the League most desires from this country is not money but active sympathy. Pro- fessor MITCHELL refers to the English organization in support of the prin- ciples of the League, which now has 300,000 paying members. We have no doubt that a much greater number could easily be secured here. If an association were to be formed calling itself simply The Friends of the League of Nations, and if such men as JOHN W. DAVIS, Judge CLARKE and Mr. BOK were to lend their names to it, along with representative women like Mrs. FRANK VANDERLIP, Mrs. FRANKLIN ROOSEVELT and Miss LAPE, with the membership fee fixed at, say, one dollar, we believe that it would require but little canvassing to yield a body of adherents which would make some politicians sit up and take notice.

One has only to remember the im- mense American expression in favor of the League during 1919 and early in 1920, when the treaty was still be- fore the Senate. Churches, labor unions, colleges, Chambers of Com- merce, sent in floods of petitions, reso- lutions and memorials advocating the entrance of the United States into the League. It is not to be supposed that all those millions have utterly changed their minds. It is said that the 7,000,000 majority of the Republican Party in 1920 was a mandate against the League. This was denied at the time by the successful candidate for the Vice Presidency, CALVIN COOLIDGE. Succeeding events have justified his interpretation of the election as one into which so many diverse motives and passions entered that it was im- possible to infer from it a clear ver- dict against the League.

Such energy for the League of Na- tions as was displayed by vast num- bers of Americans previous to the de- feat of the treaty cannot be wholly lost. It merely needs some organizing touch to bring it into the sight of the public and of Congress once more. The old sentiment for the League, based on the conviction that the United States cannot without peril remain apart from world concerns, and on the desire to do our part in pre- serving peace and extending civiliza- tion, still lives in the hearts of a great multitude. The unyielding friends of the League are widely dispersed and have had for some time no common voice; but if they were given the chance to rally to a society which asks of them only to sign their names and pay a trifling membership fee, they would come forward like a mighty army.

EXPLORING THE ARCTIC.

At a dinner of the Explorers' Club in 1912, Admiral PEARY predicted that "in a few years the polar regions "would be reconnoitred and explored "through the air." It was his judg- ment that Cape Columbia, from which he made his 500-mile sled journey to the North Pole, would serve as a practicable base. In "The Secrets of Polar Travel" he wrote:

From Cape Columbia it is less than 1,400 miles in a straight line directly across and over the Pole to Cape Chelyuskin, on the Siberian coast, the most northern point of Eurasia. To Wrangell Island across Crocker Land and the entirely unexplored region between the Pole and Bering Strait it is about 1,500 miles. From Cape Columbia to Spitsbergen it is 900 miles, to Franz Josef Land less than 1,000 miles, and to Point Barrow about 1,400 miles.

Cape Columbia, said PEARY, could be reached in a few hours by airplanes from Bowdoin Bay or McCormick Bay, in Whale Sound, Greenland. These sheltered inlets are readily accessible every Summer by a stanch ship like the Roosevelt. During August "there "are days and days of brilliant, calm, "warm weather, with temperature "above freezing point." All through the month there is daylight for twenty- four hours. PEARY proposed that airplanes unloaded from the ship be flown with gasoline and supplies to Cape Columbia, and that it be made the place of departure. The "glacial fringe" at Cape Columbia is level and firm.

The Navy Department, with the Shenandoah in hand and the ZR-3 building in Germany, has other plans, which include the use of airplanes as auxiliaries. Nome is proposed as the main base, "because of its early ac- "cessibility, proximity to objectives, "being in United States territory, and "having good supporting communica- "tions with the South, as well as "some local facilities." Two ships with mooring masts for the dirigibles are to proceed to Nome and to Spitz- bergen. It is explained that "through "force of circumstances, or to es- "tablish a transpolar air route," the Shenandoah might have to cross the Arctic Ocean, in which case Spitsbergen would afford a base for a return voyage. Point Barrow is also considered as an Alaskan point of departure. It is several hun- dred miles nearer the Pole than is Nome. Secretary DENBY is quoted as saying:

The Pole may be reached from Point Barrow with a good margin (1,117 miles), whereas the round trip from Nome to the Pole is problem- atical.

This is not convincing. An extra thousand miles would be well within the cruising radius of the Shenandoah. As a jumping-off place perhaps Point Barrow, with a wilderness hinterland, would have its drawbacks as a main base. However, it has the advantage of facing the unexplored Arctic. The Shenandoah in proceeding to the Pole would traverse the middle region of the unknown, and the distance of the voyage out and back would be nearly 1,000 miles less than if the start were made from Nome. A line drawn from Cape Columbia straight across the Pole and the Arctic to Wrangell Island (the Peary route) would not pass through the middle region of the unknown, but would cut a corner of it. In his statement the Secretary says that an expedition "having for "its object merely a dash for the Pole "would be unworthy of the serious "effort involved." Certainly explora- tion should be the main purpose of the adventure. There seems to be no reason why the Shenandoah should not cruise about, or navigate, the re- gion marked on the charts as unex- plored. Its area is not so extensive as to present any serious difficulty, provided the base be made at Point Barrow. A second venture might be attempted across the Pole to Spitz- bergen. If there is land in this un- known part of the Arctic, the Shenan- doah is the type of airship to make pioneer observations.

DISINGENUOUS.

"For one to say that he favors the "Court and at the same time present "conditions which are practically im- "possible of attainment is disingenu- "ous, to say the least." This is the comment which Professor MANLEY O. HUDSON of the Harvard Law School has made upon Senator LENROOT'S proposal to join the Permanent Court of International Justice with reserva- tions. How utterly impossible of real- ization, short of years, if ever, the Senator's proposal is, Professor HUD- SON'S letter in yesterday's TIMES makes clear to any fair-minded per- son. It would be starting all over again to create a Court such as is already in existence, and could be no more representative than the present Court may be and would be if only the United States joined it, for the other principal Powers that have not as yet adhered, Germany, Russia and Mexi- co, would doubtless be forthwith ad- mitted, making the Court to all intents and purposes universal.

The amendments which the Senator from Wisconsin proposes would have to be referred for approval to the forty-seven States, and it is not con- ceivable that his plan suggested for the selection of the Judges would be agreeable to the smaller nations or to the Dominion Governments of the British Empire. But assuming that such approval could eventually be had, it would probably take at least three years to secure it. The Court itself is powerless to change the stat- ute of its own existence nor can the League modify it. The Court is a creature of the States which signed the protocol and not of the League. All that the League did was to "for- mulate and submit" plans for a Court. It was not the States that set it up and provided for its conduct, the League Council and Assembly being empow- ered merely to make selection of the Judges, nominated by the national groups represented in the Permanent Court of Arbitration; but, as Secre- tary HUGHES pointed out, the Council and Assembly in electing Judges "do not act under the League of Nations." They are merely electoral bodies "utilized because they are groups of States," in which the great Powers have a check upon the smaller Powers and the latter a check upon the for- mer. It is, therefore, to use the lan- guage of Mr. HUGHES, "an independ- ent judicial body."

To associate the United States with the Court, under the plan of President HARDING and Secretary HUGHES, now supported by President COOLIDGE, will require no change in the statute which it is certain all the States will not readily and promptly agree to; and yet such an association will in no way involve us in the League. Every assurance of our full participation in the election of Judges and every pro- tection against our involvement in the League are provided in the Harding- Hughes-Coolidge plan. Bringing for- ward other plans which are wholly im- possible of realization, though with the professed purpose of bringing the United States into the Court, cannot in the face of the existent conditions be other than disingenuous or stupid. And the junior Senator from Wiscon- sin is not stupid.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

An Acquittal Seen as Outrageous.

Exactly the same impression seems to have been made by the acquittal of GERMAINE BEATON on the Parisian newspapers that was made here by that amazing performance of a French jury. With the exception of the Communist organ, the name of which, absurdly enough, is Humanité, the pa- pers of the French capital recognize that in setting free this savage and in- solent creature both civilization and the law were insulted.

Why the jurors did it is not clear, but the most plausible of the theories pre- sented is that they were an unintelligent lot and had been muddled by long and violent tirades against the political group to which PLATEAU had belonged.

These denunciations, as it happened, were based on facts, for it hardly was possible to make any untrue charges against the Camelots du Roi, and the other members of the little royalist party are not much if any better. They are preachers of violence, and doers of it, and presumably the jurors saw a sort of rude justice in the taking off by the Berton woman of one of their more ar- tificiales leaders.

That she had any right to appoint her- self his destroyer could not be contended seriously, however, by any except mem- bers of the party to which she belonged —the party that recognizes no law and no obligation to obey law. Several of the Parisian papers, after picturing GER- MAINE BEATON celebrating her liberation in the carabets of Montmartre, are ap- prehensive that her acquittal will lead to other "political" murders. But there is a chance that it will not, for so ob- vious was the miscarriage of justice in this case that it may create a strong revulsion of feeling—so strong that for some time to come jurors will not be led astray so easily.

A Wretched Form of Vengeance.

Just as France is angered and humili- ated by the acquittal of GERMAINE BEATON, so the State of Maine will, or at any rate should, feel the same emotions as a result of what a group of her citizens did to avenge the mur- ders committed by the man Snow. He had committed suicide as the last dem- onstration of his homicidal frenzy, and he had been buried, properly enough, not in any cemetery, but in a remote field of the farm that was the scene of his horrible deeds. From this unmarked grave his body was exhumed by night, carried to the house where his victims were found, and there burned with the house itself.

The motives which led to this act of vengeance on the dead are understand- able, but they are not such motives as should lead quiet New England folk to an act which, after all, was not less childish than it was repulsive. Snow's conduct had been abominable, indeed, but it was more like that of a madman than a criminal. A man long known as of "ungovernable temper"—in itself a sign of insanity—he had brooded over his domestic infelicities until they had given him a sense of intolerable grievance against everybody who had en- couraged his wife to leave him or had supported her in refusal to return to her impossible husband.

He had suffered no wrong from her or from any of his victims, but he per- suaded himself that they all were in a conspiracy against him. That he finally lashed himself into a state of wild des- peration has in it nothing that will sur- prise the observers of minds like his. More than probably a court trial would have resulted in his committal to an asylum, rather than in sending him to the gallows. Both fates he evaded by suicide, and, dead, his case was closed. Digging him up and burning him did not hurt him at all.

It can be said that only in some such way as this could his horrified neigh- bors express their opinions of him and his deeds, but those opinions needed no expression, for they could be taken for granted. The mutilation of corpses always has been held a culminating act of barbarism, and that Maine farmers should have been guilty of it is no less surprising than lamentable.

Will Keep Belated Christmas.

Russians are an obstinate folk. In spite of the fact that not only their new Gov- ernment, but all of their ecclesiastical authorities, new and old, have sanctioned and authorized the celebration of Christmas according to the Gregorian instead of the Julian cal- endar, the great majority of them re- fused to make the change and join the rest of the Christian world in correcting an ancient mistake. Even in this coun- try the orthodox Russians paid no at- tention to Dec. 25, but will observe Jan. 7 as the great day.

The reason for this in Russia seems to have been a mere disinclination to change a long-established habit, and probably there was some fear that by dropping thirteen days from the calen- dar not only would many birthdays be missed for this year, but there would be an actual shortening of everybody's life. Here the excuse given is that the change is something liked and ordered by the Soviet Government and to be rejected on that account, as the new régime is highly unpopular with most of the American Russians.

The reasoning is childish in both cases. The fact remains that the Julian calen- dar is wrong and that of Pope GREGORY right, not only for Christmas—if it is not slowly to advance through Winter into Spring and finally into Summer— but for all the days in the year, and by rejecting the latter system the Russians merely put themselves out of step with the other nations in this decidedly im- portant matter. To remain in error may not make much inconvenience for peas- ants on the steppes, but in the Russian cities and here it must be a great nui- sance to be obliged to transpose every date into another date. That the Soviet leaders instituted the reform is one of the few good things they have done, and if is not a bad thing merely because they did it.

Native Trees Versus Foreign.

Well justified com- plaint is made in a letter written by MELVIN R. GILMORE of the Museum of the Indian against the too common habit of planting foreign instead of na- tive trees in our cities, parks and around our public monuments. He thinks it absurd, for instance, that the Buckeye State should set out thousands of European horsechestnuts along its city streets, instead of our own more beautiful trees of the same genus. So, too, German lindens are planted in many American cities, though inferior to our own lindens, and all through the West where maples are planted, almost always they are Norway maples instead of our much handsomer rock maples.

Mr. GILMORE says that there are in the national capital more Chinese gingkos than American elms, while at Newburgh, where WASHINGTON took leave of the Continental Army, the old Dutch farm- stead, now a State park, is planted with Norway maples and other exotic trees. The foreigners, he insists, should be confined to botanical gardens and arbo- retums.

There is basis for this remonstrance, as not a few of the most beautiful trees in the world are native to this country, and no need exists for seeking them abroad except as a matter of curiosity. The case of fruit trees, of course, is different. Practically all of these of any importance are descendants of im- migrants, but they have been here long, have thriven and are quite at home. We cannot think of apple and pear, of peach and plum, or of any of their rela- tives, as foreigners, even by descent. They are cosmopolitans of origin hardly known and generally forgotten.

As for the gingko, it is a fine tree, even if it is Mongolian, and while it does not equal our American elm—no other tree in the world does that—still it has earned its welcome almost any- where.

Injunctions to Save the Park.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Revival of the plan to build a city war memorial in Central Park, the proposals to cut through the park for a subway, the in- stallation of a radio station and the pro- posed plan to take four and one-half acres of the park for a music and art centre il- lustrate the persistent and determined efforts made from time to time, in one form or an- other, to encroach on Central Park. Pro- tests in the past from civic organizations seem to have had little or no effect in dis- couraging schemes to invade the park for one purpose or another. Fortunately, the New York Court of Appeals, in the case of Williams vs. Gallatin, has decided that Central Park is to be maintained for the purposes for which it was created, and that no use of the park for other than park purposes is authorized. Accordingly, the speedy and effective way to prevent these threatened encroachments is by injunction under the Williams case.

Munkacsy Paintings.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In a report in today's issue of THE TIMES reference is made to attempt on the part of the Government of Hungary to buy the paintings of Munkacsy, and in connection with that a statement that two are owned by John Wanamaker and three others by Mont Kiss, a banker of Philadelphia. May I correct this report? There are at present two paintings in the Public Library, Lenox Division—Milton dictating "Paradise Lost" to his daughter and the other a scene in an auction shop.

GREECE'S GREATEST NEED.

"Political Preceptor" as the Future Rôle of Venizelos.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Though many exceptions may be taken to Mr. Lavandis's letter on the Greek situation, I will confine myself to what the space permits. What I said, and meant, in my letter was not that the perpetuation of the monarchy would be the "panacea to cure all ills," but simply that "between two evils the lesser is to be chosen." I am not a royalist, either by convictions or personal sympathies; I am as democratic as a Democrat can be; but, having in mind the interests of Greece, I see that a change of régime to a republic would be the greater of the evils.

What counts most in Greek politics is not the "political rowdyism and corrup- tion which are common incidents in all avenues of public life"—and which are found in American politics, too—but the absolute lack of principle which makes parliamentary life a strife between rival leaders a wholly personal one.

The assertion that—the spoils system, political rowdyism and corruption being common in the politics of all countries— there is no difference between the Greek and the American peoples as regards po- litical maturity is entirely ridiculous. So far as we know of American politics, have we ever witnessed or heard of a po- litical party resorting to a coup d'état to the force of arms—I am alluding to the recent "anti-revolutionist" insurrec- tion (the latest of a number of coups d'états resorted to at times)—either to anticipate an electoral defeat or to come to power after such, despite the verdict of popular will, and irrespective as to whether that would be utterly anti- patriotic and even highly traitorous?

Now, I do ask, what is it that may cause one to believe that, with the present prevailing political conditions, Greece will be better off by investing a political chieftain—like the politician- insurgents of recent years—with the highest executive office of the State? Must we ignore the fact that the Presi- dent of the United States is invested with more power than any crowned con- stitutional monarch? Are the persons or the form to blame?

In the same letter it was asserted that all Greek disasters after the fall of M. Venizelos were due solely to the dynasty —meaning, of course, the then King. Without wanting to say that the then King was wholly irresponsible for them, I must say that the assertion as a whole is a joke to anybody who is well ac- quainted with the Eastern policies of the European powers.

The era since the establishment of the Greek kingdom, but especially the post- war period, is referred to as an era of "political evolution vital enough to make popular conscience indignant and re- bellious." But is mere territorial aggran- disement without any change of some vital political principle a political evolu- tion? What are the principles, and into what have they evolved?

And the Greek successes during the period M. Venizelos was in power are alluded to as the culmination of the politi- cal (?) development of the Greek people. Undoubtedly the territorial aggrandize- ment, with the successful internal ad- ministrative reorganization, was a na- tional rejuvenation for Greece. But without wanting to go into sociological discussions, as an unbiased critic of the current political history of Greece, and with all my great admiration for the man and his work, I must say that it does not inspire a great enthusiasm. For the skyrocket-like brilliancy of a nation, mostly as the result of the achievements of the genius of a single man, is not a sure balance to determine the political maturity of that nation's people. When the annals of a nation become rather biographical than historical it is no sign of its political stability. Its glory and temporal power pass away soon after the man on whose genius they rested.

If M. Venizelos would take into con- sideration my humble opinion, I would advise him, if he goes back to his coun- try, to go, as he himself said he would have to do, not as a statesman but as a preceptor. What his country needs is not a great statesman but a great po- litical preceptor.

Eastern or Western Apples.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Apropos of Miss Goodale's praise of East- ern apples and her defense of the fair deal- ings of their growers, permit me to relate an experience of my own.

Like her, I never buy Western apples, but order from an up-State orchardist, whose ac- quaintance I made at the Apple Show. This Fall I ordered from him by mail—he is the only grower I know who has a New York office—and received a box of firm-fleshed, juicy Mackintosh Reds. When they were eaten I ordered another. This time, although apparently carefully packed, the apples were bruised, and one or two had specks of rot. I wrote the grower, expressing my belief that some samples had sent fruit which his prin- cipal would not have passed as fit for sale at the price I was paying, and in a few days received a telephone message from the grower, some fifty miles away, apologizing for the error, and promising another box of sound apples, which I received in due course without charge.

My only grievance against Eastern grow- ers is that so few of them seem to make an intelligent effort to market their product in New York, where there are thousands of people who know good apples, and yet feel themselves forced to buy Western fruit, which, by comparison with the best Eastern product, is tasteless and tasteless.

Some one has well said that the West grows apples and the West salesmen. Why can't the East, by co-operation of growers, proper packing and marketing methods—with a judi- cious use of advertising for the general benefit of Eastern orchardists—make it as easy to buy New York, New England and Pennsylvania apples here as it is to buy those grown 3,000 miles away? THE POPPY DANCE.

Swaying as in tune to lyre!
Red lips an exotic fire—
Haughty—happy—lovely—free—
Bloomed the Poppy, near the sea!
Dancing, if a breeze would stir
Fairy castanets for her!
Unaware of cold and gloom,
Eager just to live and bloom!

But the Viking, North Wind, came.
He of ruthless, bitter fame!
Prowling round in restlessness!
Sneering at all happiness.
Then the Poppy laughed at him,
Mocking from her stem, so slim.
Dodging—flipping—bowing low
With a radiant, lifting glow!

He was filled with mad desire—
Tried to quench her lovely fire
'Gainst the coldness of his breast.
Where he held her, cruel-pressed.
As he carried her away
To his realm with Him to stay
In the land of ice and snow
Such as flowers rarely know!

When you see on wintry nights
All the flashing Northern Lights—
Splashing yellow, red and green—
Little gold, blue lights between—
It's a Poppy flower's mad dance
As she struggles for the chance
To escape the Viking's hold
And the land of aching cold!

COOLIDGE IS URGED TO EXTEND SHIP LAW

He Is Considering the Limitation of Philippine Trade to American Vessels.

CONSULTS SENATOR JONES

President Is Believed to Favor the Plan if Treaties Do Not Obstruct It.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—President Coolidge is considering the advisability of extending the coastwise shipping laws to the Philippines. Because of his interest in the subject it is thought likely that, in the near future, he may issue a proclamation authorizing this ex- tension, which would mean that only vessels of American registry could en- gage in trade between the Philippines and this country.

The question was discussed at some length during a conference at the White House today between the President and Senator Jones of Washington, Chair- man of the Senate Commerce Commit- tee, who directed the greater part of the Merchant Marine act of 1920, which pro- vides for this extension whenever it may be warranted by the development of adequate shipping facilities in Amer- ican vessels. At the request of the President, Senator Jones will prepare a memorandum which will set forth rea- sons for this extension and recommen- dations for the issuance of an executive proclamation.

Senator Jones said upon leaving the White House that he hoped to have this memorandum completed and in the Presi- dent's hands within the next few days. He would not venture an opinion as to how long he expected the President to take in considering the matter.

Objections have been offered to the proposal, principally on the ground that the extension would violate treaties to which the United States is a party. This argument is understood to have caused President Harding to withhold the recommendation for the extension when it was presented to him last year. There are some who are of the opinion that the circumstances do not warrant the extension, being dissatisfied that adequate facilities have not yet been af- forded the islands by means of exclu- sively American vessels.

Senator Jones contends that conditions warrant the extension, and the point of view is known to be taken by Secretary Hoover. This was learned shortly after when the President conferred with Chauncey G. Parker, general counsel to the board.

Mr. Jones said that he did not believe that the President has fully made up his mind. He believes that the Presi- dent will issue the proclamation when convinced that no treaties will be vio- lated. The President is satisfied that the extension would go a long way toward developing American shipping, and, because of this, he believes it has great merit.

The President is studying the selec- tion of a successor to Edward P. Far- ley as Chairman of the Shipping Board and other matters of the board's per- sonnel, and is giving his attention to the drafting of a new policy for the board. During Senator Jones's call these questions were discussed, and the President also conferred with Ship- ping Board matters with T. V. O'Con- nor, a member of the board. It was the opinion of all who discussed the matter with the President that he had not made up his mind as to the selection of a new Chairman for the board.

McCormick Wants Senate Speed on Proposed Amendment.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Senator Mc- Cormick has written to Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, expressing the hope that action will be taken promptly by the Senate Judiciary Committee on the proposed child labor constitutional amendment. The amendment, which was introduced by Senator McCormick, has the sup- port of sixteen national organizations, brought together by Mr. Gompers for that purpose.

"The facts regarding the industrial ex- ploitation of American children," Sena- tor McCormick wrote, "were presented to the Judiciary Committee of the Sen- ate in the last Congress. In my opinion, there is no occasion for additional hear- ings as to the facts, although I shall ask Miss Abbott of the Children's Bu- reau to hand to the Judiciary Committee the statistics now made available by the census proving the constant increase of child labor in industry, including the awaited trades.

"All of us who are opposed to the ruinous exploitation of American child- hood are indebted to you and to the members of your committee who have acted so promptly at your call, and so decisively and sympathetically collabo- rated with us of the Senate. I am con- gratulating you upon the energy and tact with which you yourself acted.

"Many who write whom you have known since she was a girl, joins me in ex- pressing our gratitude for the confi- dence which the men and women of the committee, and you yourself, have shown in the last Congress and again in this Congress, you entrusted me with the child labor amendment."

"It is not the tear at the grave we may shed
When the fresh turf has just been laid o'er him,
That tells how we mourn for the friend who is dead,
Or how deep in our hearts we deplore him;
But the sun or the dew,
Though in silence it weeps,
Shall brighten with verdure
The grave where he sleeps.
And his record or love
On Fraternity's rolls
Will long keep his memory
Green in our souls."

2 HURT IN BATTLE WITH ZOO ALLIGATOR

SEIZES HEAD KEEPER'S LEG

Another Employe's Hand Torn in Fight to Transfer Reptile From Box to Tank.

While being transferred from a crate to an exhibition tank in the zoo in Prospect Park, Brooklyn, yesterday an alligator made an unexpected attack on Head Keeper John O'Brien and tore his left leg. Another keeper's hand was cut when he went to the rescue and it required the entire force of the zoo to get the fighting alligator into the tank.

The struggle marred the formal presentation of the big reptile to the Prospect Park Zoo and the struggle was witnessed by Borough President Maurice Connolly of Queens, Park Commissioner John N. Harman of Brooklyn, Park Commissioner Benninger of Queens, Willis Holly, Secretary of the Park Commission of Manhattan and a score of reporters and camera men who had gathered for the ceremony.

The alligator is 7 feet 4 inches long. It was caught at Little St. Simon's Island, Georgia, on Dec. 11 by a party which went South as the guests of City Chamberlain Philip Berolsheimer. In the party was Lieutenant Governor George R. Lunn.

Before the box containing the captive was opened newspaper men and photographers were warned that the alligator if aroused could leap ten feet. So the keeper drew a line eleven feet from the box and warned all spectators to keep beyond that mark.

A sleepy looking reptile was disclosed when the side of the box was removed and it had literally to be dumped out of the box in which it had made the journey north. One of the employes threw a dead pigeon to it hoping to wake it up, but the alligator showed not the slightest animation.

Head Keeper O'Brien made a noose and slipped it about the alligator's long jaws. Before he could pull it tight the alligator woke up with the suddenness of a whip being snapped.

The long body whirled half around and the side thrust of the jaws knocked O'Brien down. Before the surprised keeper could roll aside the jaws opened and the alligator caught the keeper's left leg just above the knee. William Ostrander fell upon the alligator and straddling its back grasped the jaws and pulled them apart just sufficiently for the head keeper to wrench his leg free.

The alligator was thoroughly mad and he showed it. Ostrander jumped to one side as the reptile thrashed out with his tail and the spectators were in danger of being stampeded when other employes with ropes and poles came running to the scene. There followed a few lively minutes before the alligator was headed for the tank and prodded in the direction the keepers wanted it to go. All the time the camera men were taking pictures of the battle.

There were 17,182 deaths from diabetes in 1922, compared with 14,933 in 1921 and 14,062 in 1920, in the registration area, making 85 per cent. of the country's population. LARRY RUE IS EXONERATED.

Charge That He Wrote an Article While Intoxicated Retracted by C. V. Vickrey.

A libel suit for $100,000 brought by Larry Rue, former correspondent for The Chicago Tribune in the Near East, against Charles V. Vickrey, General Secretary of the Near East Relief, has been settled by Mr. Vickrey making a full retraction of charges in a letter he circulated among State directors of his organization on Dec. 18, 1920. In the letter Mr. Vickrey declared that Mr. Rue was intoxicated when he wrote an article in which he said that some money collected by the Near East had been spent for champagne and the entertainment of Turkish officers.

In a letter dated Dec. 19 last, Mr. Vickrey admits that Mr. Rue's article was a true report of a hearing before a consular court in Constantinople and says that his charge that Mr. Rue was drunk when he wrote it was untrue.

SOLDIERS' SALES DROPPED.

Pencil Drive Netted Only $1,800 This Year, Witnesses Say.

Three witnesses in Assistant District Attorney Lehman's investigation of the National Disabled League drive for contributions, testified yesterday that the Christmas appeal this year, through the sale of pencils, brought returns of only $1,800, as against $5,800 last year. John T. Nolan, National Commander of the League in Washington, told the prosecutor that, while his salary is set at $6,000 a year, he draws only $150 a month. He added that the Treasurer received a salary of $3,500, and Kenneth D. Murphy, Adjutant, in charge of the office in this city, received $30 a week.

Richard J. Devereaux purchased the pencils, Nolan said, and received $385 a thousand dozen for them. When 50,000 dozen had been sent out Devereaux's fee was cut down to $350. Devereaux, it was stated, received $7,000 from the league only last Friday. The hearing was adjourned until Jan. 1.

CABARET OWNER KILLED.

Joseph Tomasullo of 42 Charlton Street, one of the owners of the White Poodle cabaret at 216 Bleecker Street, was shot and killed early yesterday morning in the hallway of the tenement at 6 Hancock Street. His assailant escaped. Tomasullo is believed to have been the victim of a gamblers' feud. He left a room where several men had been playing cards, the police said. His assailant had evidently been waiting in the hall for him.

Tomasullo's brother Anthony, who was in the vicinity, heard the shots and found his brother on the floor of the hallway. He placed him in a taxicab and drove to St. Vincent's Hospital, where the cabaret proprietor was pronounced dead. According to the police, Tomasullo is believed to have had about $2,000 with him. The money, however, had vanished. The police obtained a description of a man said to have been seen running from the building with a revolver in his hand. Tomasullo was known in pugilistic circles as "Kid Thomas."

WHAT was the actual fate of the Austrian Crown Prince Rudolph and the beautiful seventeen-year-old Baroness Mary Vetsera, found dead together in the Prince's hunting lodge at Meyerling?

Suicide? Murder? There were circumstances pointing to both, reasons enough for either, in the lives of these two, who loved not wisely, but too well. Their fate changed the future of a nation and gravely influenced the course of events that led up to the war.

For over thirty years the complete records—the letters of the Emperor Francis Joseph, Baroness Mary and the other principals—lay concealed in the Imperial Austrian Archives. Then McClure's unearthed them, obtained transcriptions of the originals, and prepared to give the news to the world.

Now at last the truth will be known! Deathless romance, more poignant, more vivid than any fiction! An historic sensation of the first magnitude, which will engage the attention of students of international affairs—and compel interest everywhere as an outstanding human document.

Read it to-day, in "The Mystery of Meyerling," by the eminent European journalist, Joseph Szebenyei, beginning in

McClure's for January

THIS is the type of exclusive material which is making McClure's, the magazine for men, the most talked-of magazine in America.

Seven short stories—seven news or feature articles—a Bulldog Drummond serial—consider these:

The Man Who Knew How
By Allanson Shaw

"Crime can be planned and executed as perfectly as any other project," boasted Sarthe.

"There is no such thing as the perfect crime," said Stenhouse. "A bad thing is always flawed—always."

Sarthe put his theory to test for the biggest stake he had yet sought—Ellen Seton. With his trail covered by the snow of Canadian winter, it looked as if he had succeeded, but he did not know that a safety match will light when struck on glass—the flaw in his crime.

Mussolini—New Napoleon or Demagog?
By Samuel Crowther

"I have not even the fetish of liberty when it is against the interest of the nation," the Premier declared. "Liberty is not only a right, but also a duty. When liberty is not recognized also as a duty, then it is a duty to interfere with it. I shall proclaim reaction if I like."

Great Stories—Strong Articles

"Tigers of the Sea," by Hamilton M. Wright, is a thrilling account of fishing for speed demons off the Florida coast; "Through the Inferno of the Japanese Earthquake" is a vividly real picture of the world's greatest disaster, seen through the trained eyes of Roderick Matheson, a Far Eastern correspondent who was in the midst of it; Edward Mott Wooley carries the biography begun by F. W. Woolworth himself, to an end, in "From Dimes to Millions."

Capital Labor's Friend

The benefits of capital to labor over long periods are growing constantly, regardless of whether the temporary trend of wages during short periods is up or down, writes Edward A. Bradford in this week's issue of The Annalist.

The article, thorough and unbiased, proves that if capital is insecure labor starves, and that therefore labor should strive for the growth of capital as the surest way to increase production.

ALL AID CONTINUES A YEAR

Contributions totaling $7,247.50 were sent for the Neediest Cases yesterday by 468 subscribers, increasing the fund to $168,202.63. The total of the fund today is nearly $11,000 higher than the complete total for last year and more than $18,000 higher than on the corresponding date in 1922.

One contribution of $2,325, which would have been listed in yesterday's total, was turned back by the fund because the manner of its receipt violated one of the cardinal principles of the fund—that there shall never be any personal solicitation for donations.

During last year's appeal on behalf of the Hundred Neediest Cases a check for $1,728 was sent to THE TIMES by a man well known in Wall Street. The money was designated for cases submitted by the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities. This year an official of that bureau, noting that the Wall Street man had not been among the givers up to that time, wrote to him and to other members of his family, suggesting that perhaps the man would desire to repeat his generous gift of other years for the benefit of certain other cases, the circumstances of which he detailed.

In the first mail delivered to the bureau yesterday the financier's check for $2,325 was received. The bureau reported the fact to THE TIMES, announcing that the gift would be included among those for the Neediest Cases. When the circumstances, including the dispatch of the soliciting letter, were made known, the Neediest Fund refused the donation on the ground that it has consistently made plain the fact that no personal solicitation for the fund would be permitted. The letter, it developed, had been sent by an official who was substituting during the illness of the man usually handling the appeal for the bureau. Although the contribution is not included in THE TIMES Neediest Fund, it will be used by the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities in other needy cases of equal merit, within its jurisdiction.

Gifts Free of All Costs.

Another contributor wrote to THE TIMES seeking information. The letter was as follows:

"Dec. 24, 1923.

"THE NEW YORK TIMES, Times Square, New York City.

"Gentlemen: I am in receipt of a letter from the State Charities Aid Association stating that they had received from you their share of my contribution to the Hundred Neediest Cases Fund. Whereas I have always been in great accord with you in this most worthy undertaking and have sent you each year since same was in force my contribution, I have done so on the strength of the statement made by you that all funds received are given direct to one of the cases listed by you without any charges or deductions.

"An association such as the one from whom I received the above mentioned letter is not conducted without expense and outlay, and if I had wanted to contribute any money to an association I would have sent same direct to them. Under the above circumstances I think an explanation is due me, as well as other contributors, as you as to why the money sent to you does not go direct and in full to the Hundred Neediest Cases, as you assure your readers will be done."

Every cent contributed to the Hundred Neediest Cases goes in full to the person or persons named by the giver. The six relief organizations, participating yearly in the appeal, pass the contributions to the cases in their care without deducting anything for administrative expense. The cost of transferring Neediest funds is borne by funds derived from other sources.

Relief Goes On for a Year.

In considering the point raised by this contributor it should be remembered that the relief extended by the fund is not merely for a day or two to tide somebody over a transient period of distress. The relief is for a year, and the money is not handed over in lump sum for the beneficiaries to expend as they please—perhaps in some instances to dissipate it on non-essential things.

The amount asked for each case is a carefully calculated estimate of the family's needs for a year. The beneficiaries receive a stipulated sum daily, weekly or monthly as the need may require. In this way they get into the habit of living by a budget. It inculcates the habit of seeing that expenses do not exceed income, and that disbursements are balanced.

Gifts continued to come in yesterday and the hope that fifty additional cases might be taken care of brightened. The largest gift was one of $1,000 sent anonymously, while a substantial contribution came from Will Rogers, out in Hollywood. This year, in addition to contributing, the actor wrote an appeal for the fund. He suggested that a list be compiled of the Hundred Richest of New York.

"New York," he wrote, "is one big family, and if the most fortunate hundred cannot give to the most unfortunate hundred, then I want you to give me their names and when I get back to New York I will tell jokes on each of them as long as my chewing gum holds out. They may escape the poor, but they cannot escape me. Giving the rich preference in this matter by no means excuses the rest of us. I was only thinking how wonderful if the richest did provide for the poorest. But every person in New York should contribute something to the poorest kiddies of his home town."

More Group Contributions.

Many group contributions were received in time to be listed as Christmas presents. Among them were gifts from employees of the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America, who sent $54.22; $10 from some of the boys of the Kohut School, Harrison, N. Y.; $10 from the Alumni Commerce Club; $25 from the Scribner School, 139 West Ninety-third Street; $25 from the Capital Club of Flatbush, $6 from the Young Men's Bible Class of Chelsea M. E. Church, and $31.42 from the community clubhouse of the Department of Community Service and Research of New York University.

Excerpts from contributors' letters, some of them written before the fund went beyond its goal, follow:

Nancy Stoddard Beely, 10 years old—I am so sorry to see that the number of Neediest Cases has not been reduced, but I think it wonderful that THE TIMES never forgets, and I am happy to hear that dear little Stephen and Kate, in whom I was interested last year, have a nice home in the country, because I live in the country myself and I know how lovely it is. I am also very glad that they are looking forward to Santa Claus just as my sister and I do. I am sending my contribution to Case 61 with much love and hope that they may find happiness as Stephen and Kate have. I am grateful to you, Mr. Editor, for the chance to help. This is my fourth year. I am very sorry for Case 74, but I know that even if it does not get direct gifts the Editor will give the remaining funds needed.

Mrs. M. P. S.—This check is for Case 16. I who know so well what loneliness is with a host of friends can well understand the bitterness this separation would mean, and that poverty would have an added sting. Just to be together with enough to eat and a roof seems little to ask of a world crowding the streets today with costly automobiles as I see them from my Central Park West window. When I read these pitiful cases I feel like selling my useless jewelry, after the command of the Christ, whose birth we are celebrating, when He said, "Go, sell all that thou hast, and give it to the poor, and come, follow me."

Gifts From Old and Young.

H. W. McC—Please accept this for Case 20, from a little boy who is knowing his first Christmas this year, and from his parents who want to teach him always to give something—however little, he can—to those who are less fortunate than he.

A. P. G., San Francisco—Please add the enclosed to the fund. I have selected no particular cases as the reading of that story of concentrated sorrow and suffering given in THE TIMES could only endanger my own impaired health. Kindly apply half to old persons in need and half to one who is young.

Mt. Vernon—Please find one of my daddy's checks inclosed, which I hope will help a little boy of my own age. I am just past 6 years.

Billy Wilson, 7 years old—I am going to send Billy $10 instead of having an electric engine for Christmas. I hope he will soon be better.

Alice Adler, Keith's Theatre, Washington—I am 7 years old and am sending my savings for some poor girl or boy.

The contribution which appeared in the list published last Thursday as "H. P. Brunell, $5" should have appeared as from H. R. Burnell.

TWO MORE KILLED BY BAD WHISKY

Nineteen Men and Three Women Join Other Victims of Poison Liquor in Bellevue.

SOME COLLAPSE IN STREET

Christmas Day Patients Still in Serious Condition—Actor Is Stricken.

Two more deaths from bad Christmas whisky were reported in the city last night, making five deaths from the same cause in twenty-four hours. Nineteen men and three women were admitted as alcoholic patients at Bellevue Hospital between midnight Tuesday and 1 o'clock this morning, making a total of forty-four for two days.

Benjamin Prienze, 44 years old, a member of the crew of the steamship Choluteca, lying at Pier 22, East River, was found lifeless in the messroom of the vessel shortly before midnight.

Victor Morgan, 45 years old, of 8 East Third Street, died in a restaurant at 29 Bayard Street before a policeman could summon an ambulance. Five persons were reported to be in a critical condition from "hootch" up to midnight.

Among those admitted to Bellevue Hospital shortly before 1 o'clock this morning was Jimmy Duffy, an actor, who formerly was a member of Earl Carroll's "Vanities." His only possession was a nickel and a tin whistle.

During the early hours four men and a woman, who were received at the hospital on Christmas Day, and whose conditions still was considered serious last night, regained consciousness. They were unable to make statements, however, and it is not yet known where they got the stuff which they drank in the belief it was whisky.

Rocco Farniero, 15-year-old schoolboy, who was sent to the hospital on Christmas afternoon suffering from alcohol poisoning, recovered sufficiently yesterday forenoon to be removed to his home at 307 East Forty-eighth Street. It was said that the boy told physicians that he drank the contents of a bottle which he believed contained whisky in the tenement in which he lived.

Seven of the alcoholic patients who were received at the hospital yesterday collapsed either in their homes or on the streets in the Bellevue Hospital district. The other seven were sent to the institution in ambulances from other hospitals in different parts of the city.

WANTS NAVY TO BUY TOWN.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—The calendar year 1923 was "noteworthy" for the Marine Corps because there was "no call for the services of marines for expeditionary duty" during that period, Major Gen. John A. Lejeune, commandant, said in his annual report to the Secretary of the Navy, made public today.

General Lejeune renewed his request that legislation be sought to set up some form of selective promotion for the marines, as the seniority system, he said, was "a serious bloc to efficiency and an unnecessary financial drain on the taxpayers." The report also asked for "a small increase" in the number of Major Generals allowed for the Marine Corps "to provide a sufficient prospect of a career" for officers and to make the proportion the same as in the army.

General Lejeune asked that authority be given to buy the town of Quantico, Va., which is surrounded by the Marine Corps post of that name. He described Quantico as "an unsanitary place and an abode of bootleggers and other undesirable persons," adding that it was a menace to the morale of the men of the camp.

LIQUOR TREATY DELAYED.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 26.—It is anticipated here that there may be some delay in the concluding stages of the negotiations over the proposed liquor treaty between Great Britain and the United States. This does not mean to imply that any objection has been raised in this country to the slight alterations suggested by the Washington Government in its last note.

The British proposal that no mention whatever of the twelve-mile limit shall be made in the text of the treaty has been touched, the American rum-chasing revenue cutters, it is understood, will simply have the right to chase rum-runners for a brief period of time beyond the three-mile limit of territorial waters.

The latter proposal, however, is substantially different from the arrangement which was submitted to and approved by the imperial conference last Autumn, and it will, therefore, presumably be thought desirable to inform the dominions of the latest amendments before definitely accepting them.

ALCOHOLICS ON INCREASE.

Public Welfare Statistician Cites Figures Since Prohibition.

A big jump in the number of alcoholic patients treated in city hospitals in 1922 is shown by statistics of the Department of Public Welfare made public yesterday by that department's Medical Statistician, Margaret D. Jackson.

"In 1918, 1919, 1920 and 1921 all the hospitals showed a great falling off of alcoholics from 1917," she said, "although in the Department of Public Welfare, where the figures are carefully watched, there was an almost continuous slight upward trend. But in 1922, the very year cited as so satisfactory for prohibition, the ratio of alcoholics to total discharges from the combined hospitals jumped from 38 to 62 per 1,000.

"If there is any cause for rejoicing in this showing it is not for prohibitionists. Again, in 1923, up to Oct. 31, the Public Welfare hospitals alone have discharged 2,078 alcoholics out of a total of 39,945 patients. This is a ratio of 54 per 1,000 for us, against 51 last year for the same period."

LAWYERS SUE EDITH DAY.

Seek Fee, Saying They Prevented Pat Somerset's Deportation.

Edith Day, actress, who is the wife of Pat Somerset, was sued yesterday in the Supreme Court by the law firm of O'Brien, Malevinsky & Driscoll for $2,500 for legal services. The attorneys expect to increase the sum to $5,000 when the case is tried. They allege that they brought about the withdrawal of the proceedings started by Carle Carleton, former husband of Miss Day, to have Somerset deported from this country as undesirable, after which Carleton got a divorce and Somerset married Miss Day.

The attorneys allege that they aided in getting Miss Day's contract with Arthur Hammerstein in "Wildflower" as a result of which Miss Day has received more than $1,000 a week for a year and will probably be employed in the production several years longer.

GAS FUMES KILL THREE AND PET DOG

WHISKY BOTTLES EMPTY

John McIntyre, his wife and her sister, Mary Smith, were found dead on the floor of their kitchen yesterday at 274 Ely Avenue, Long Island City. There was uncooked food on the stove, dishes and remnants of food on the table when Patrolman Charles Braun of the Hunters Point Precinct broke into the apartment, which is on the fourth floor. The entire four rooms were filled with gas, and Braun, holding his breath, made a dash for the kitchen, where he stumbled over the lifeless bodies, turned off the gas jets and opened the windows. A little dog was found dead with his nose against the wall.

A soliciter for funds for a church told Mrs. Louise Heissner, whose apartment is on the third floor, that when she was on the fourth floor she smelled gas. Mrs. Heissner went upstairs and traced the odor to the McIntyre apartment. She sent her son William for a policeman and he brought Braun. A search of the house revealed that McIntyre had served overseas in Evacuation Ambulance Company 8 and had been receiving Government compensation for wounds. He had a deep scar across his chin and face. Other papers indicated that he was a taxicab chauffeur.

The bodies were taken to Trudden's morgue in Long Island City, and the police are trying to locate relatives of either McIntyre or his wife.

Two empty whisky bottles were found in the kitchen, and it is thought that when the women were getting a meal they were careless with the jets and were overcome before they realized what was happening.

SIX DEAD, ONE DYING, IN KENTUCKY HOLIDAY

Store Keeper Shot by Error in Perry County Gunplay Succumbs to Wounds.

HAZARD, Ky., Dec. 26.—A review of the toll of Christmas shootings in Perry County tonight, finds six men dead and another so seriously wounded that he is believed to be dying.

John Godsey was shot and killed instantly tonight in Duane in a pistol fight in a barber shop operated by Joseph Turner. Godsey is said to have entered Turner's shop and opened fire at such close range that the powder set fire to Turner's clothes. Turner was able to obtain a weapon, however, and Godsey was slain. The two men had been close friends.

Jerry Dunn, storekeeper, was the last of the five to die, succumbing today to wounds he received at the time J. D. Matthews, a barber, and Lester Kaya, a miner, were killed. These men, who were in Dunn's store, were shot by Deputy Sheriffs on a manhunt, who shot into the building when a fire cracker was declared to have exploded at their feet, and they thought someone was firing on them from the store.

William Smith, a Deputy Sheriff, and Dennis Phillips engaged in a pistol fight in Christmas Eve, in which Smith was killed and Phillips seriously wounded.

John Richmond, 38 years old, a negro, was slain Christmas Day when he was alleged to have attempted to enter the home of James Workman.

According to the combined reports made public yesterday by the Board of Fire Underwriters, there were only three Christmas fires in the city's five boroughs from Christmas Eve to yesterday morning.

"This is a splendid record," said Fire Chief John Kenlon, pointing out that only one of the fires was started by lighted candles. Last week the Chief issued a warning about the hazards of the Christmas season.

The three fires referred to were at 502 West 122d Street, W. Frazee, occupant, short circuit of electric wires on tree; 1,111 Avenue Z, Coney Island, Michael de Mallo, occupant, lighted candles on tree, and 501 East Eleventh Street, L. Marabella, occupant, gas stove flame ignited tree.

Cost of Living Rose During the Past Year; 72.1 Per Cent. Above 1913, 20.5 Below Peak

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—The cost of living was one-fifth less in September this year than it was in June, 1920, when the highest point in living costs since 1913 was reached. A decrease of 20.5 per cent. in the total cost of living in the United States, as determined by a consolidation of the figures for thirty-two specified cities, is shown in an announcement issued today by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The cost of living, however, was almost three-quarters more than the 1913 average. In September a year ago costs were 66.3 per cent. above the 1913 average and at their lowest point since December, 1917, but December last year showed an increase. There was a slight decrease, according to March, 1923, figures, but since that time living costs have been rising slightly.

In the specified cities for which statistics are gathered by the bureau the percentage of decrease in the total cost of living from June, 1920, to September, 1923, was:

Atlanta 21 per cent., Baltimore 18.5, Birmingham 19.4, Boston 20.3, Buffalo 19.5, Chicago 19.3, Cincinnati 20.6, Cleveland 18.3, Denver 19.4, Detroit 21.4, Houston 20.5, Indianapolis 18.6, Jacksonville 21.5, Kansas City 23.5, Los Angeles 12.2, Memphis 17.6, Minneapolis 17.9, Mobile 22.0, New Orleans 15.9, New York 20, Norfolk 22, Philadelphia 18.4, Pittsburgh 18, Portland, Me., 20.1; Portland, Ore., 22; Richmond 15.9, St. Louis 19.5, San Francisco 18.2,

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Advance in Active Trading—Further Decline in French Exchange.

The impression which prevailed when the week began, that the course of the markets between Christmas and New Year's Day would reflect a pause in speculative activities, was promptly dispelled yesterday. On the Stock Exchange numerous advances of 1 to 4 points occurred in the industrial shares, only three days since last Spring. In the cotton market the spot price ran up nearly 1 cent a pound, reaching a figure matched this year only on Nov. 30 and Dec. 1. Rates on the foreign exchange market moved with some irregularity, but all were depressed by the further sharp decline in francs, which carried the price for the first time below 5 cents.

Business done on the Stock Exchange was better distributed than on other recent days of rising prices, activity extending even to some of the railway shares. But the more striking movements again occurred in the industrial stocks, in which some growth of the speculative spirit seemed to be indicated. Apparently the market was reflecting the character of the forecasts of the New Year, which began to show up as is usual at this time and which (as might have been predicted) were of a strongly hopeful character.

Some reaction in prices occurred before the closing, but it did not greatly impair the day's advance; which carried the "averages" to the highest point since the middle of the month. At their high point these average prices showed very nearly half of the decline since March to have been recovered. By way of contrast, yesterday's bond market transactions footed up a smaller total than on any full day in the three preceding weeks. Whatever else this may have indicated, it gave no evidence of what used to be called the "anticipatory investment buying" prior to the January disbursements.

Yesterday's stock market may or may not have taken observant Wall Street people by surprise, but the cotton trade was clearly taken off its guard by the rapid rise of that product. The Liverpool market was closed for an extra holiday, and it is conceivable that New York was returning the compliment paid by Liverpool, with the assistance of New Orleans, when the price was put up a cent a pound on election day. New York's market being closed. The day's advance of nine-tenths of a cent per pound brought cotton within ¾ cent of the year's high figure. This will make the cotton market highly interesting in the few remaining days of 1923. How far yesterday's movement was purely speculative and how far it reflected renewed and urgent spinners' buying, it is difficult to say. It was undoubtedly stimulated by the statistical showing of the continued large takings for export.

Nothing new came to light by way of accounting for the fall in the franc. The decline now amounts to ¼ cent for the past week and to nearly half a cent since the first week of December—that representing a shrinkage of 3⅛ per cent. It has therefore reached a stage at which, with all the familiar and plausible explanations current for several past months allowed for and in the absence of any new developments, it is necessary to assume either extravagant speculation for the decline, or quite unreasoning financial fright, or both. There is at least one good result which may follow this recent depreciation, however; the display by the French Ministry of a more amenable spirit in the matter of the international committees. Of this, there has already been some evidence.

A review of yesterday's situation would perhaps not be complete which did not mention the report by the mid-week iron trade reviews of renewed buying of iron on a considerable scale, which the trade seemed to interpret as meaning that lowest prices had been touched; also an estimate that the year's actual iron output in the United States will be shown to have surpassed all records.

FRANC'S NEW LOW LESS THAN A NICKEL

Drops 8 Points, to 4.99½, and Closes at 5.01½.

DECLINE PUZZLES BANKERS

Selling by Gambling Ring, Dollar Purchases and Reparations Among Theories Advanced.

The French franc dropped to another new low figure yesterday and for the first time in its history was quoted at less than an American nickel. The low quotation was 4.99½ cents, a drop of 8 points from the closing level of Monday and the closing was 5.01½. Since Jan. 2, 1923, the franc's decline has been sustained; on that date it was quoted at 7.44 cents, or nearly 2½ cents higher than the present level. Par is 19.3 cents.

The consistent decline, which recently has been accelerated, in view of the fact that France's political situation is not worse, has furnished a problem which bankers have been unable to solve.

An unconfirmed rumor, which dovetails with several known instances of foreign exchange activity, is to the effect that a gambling ring in Europe has been operating in francs. This ring, it is said, first speculated heavily on the short side of marks; next sold Italian lira and then the English pound.

Bankers and foreign exchange dealers are not inclined to place much stock in the report, although they concede its possibility. The main reasons, they say, for the decline of foreign currencies of late lie in the sudden quickening of foreign desire to hold dollars or to invest in securities bearing interest in dollars. This has been true in the case of Germany and England and more recently of France, which has brought heavily of American securities.

French merchants who have accounts with American firms, it was said yesterday, had been holding back in the settlement of these accounts until the franc might go higher in price. As a result, it was explained, there was a large accumulation of year-end settlements awaiting attention, and when the franc failed to rally these merchants made an eleventh-hour rush into the market for the purpose of setting up dollar balances. This, according to dealers, puts the franc under additional pressure.

An underlying factor, according to several bankers, is the reparations problem. Less confidence is felt as to the size of the final amount that France will receive by way of reparations, and with a big French internal debt, as well as a large foreign debt, France is forced to stake a great deal on her eventual success in getting reparations payments from Germany.

CERTAIN-TEED IN DEAL.

Products Corporation Enters Rug-Producing Field.

The Certain-teed Products Corporation will enter a new field as the result of a license agreement which it has entered with the Congoleum Company. Under this agreement the Certain-teed Products Corporation is authorized to manufacture and sell felt base rugs which are similar to the felt-base rugs of the Congoleum Company. These rugs will be sold under the trade-mark "Certain-teed" and will be on a royalty basis.

Manufacture under terms of the agreement will start in March, it was said yesterday. The Certain-teed Products Corporation approved of the plan as a means of filling out its line of felt-base products. It was enabled to undertake the manufacture of such rugs in roll form following the acquisition of Thomas Potter, Sons & Co. of Philadelphia, effected in 1920, this acquisition having been followed by the creation of a wider market for felt-base products.

SCHULTE STOCK INCREASE.

Stockholders to Pass on Plan to Double Preferred to $10,000,000.

A meeting of stockholders of the Schulte Retail Stores Corporation has been called for Jan. 12. David A. Schulte said the purpose was to authorize an increase in the preferred stock from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000.

Asked if the proposed increase was for the purpose of taking over the United Cigar Stores, Mr. Schulte said he could not discuss that proposition, as no lease has yet been signed. The plan for the combination of the two tobacco stores corporations is in the form of a ninety-nine-year lease of the United Stores to the Schulte Retail Stores Corporation.

Bank to Credit Accrued Interest.

The Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank announces a change in its by-laws relating to payment of interest on deposits. The amendment reads: "Accounts closed between dividend periods will, at the time of closing, be credited with interest on the money which has remained on deposit since the last dividend period for one or more calendar month or months at the rate of the last dividend." Money shall begin earning the full rate of interest for the month, according to the new plan, when deposited on or before the third day of the month and the full rate of interest for the calendar month or months it remain on deposit.

American Express Settling Claims.

Fred P. Small, recently elected President of the American Express Company, in a statement yesterday said the firm hoped to clean house of all old claims by the first of the year and enter 1924 paid up as far as possible. Writing off of losses, according to the statement, will be accomplished by immediate settlement and by setting up a reserve to take care of such claims as cannot be adjusted now.

FORD PLANS A TEST PLANT.

Motor Company to Try Out New Direct Process of Steel Production.

The Ford Motor Company has arranged to erect a demonstration plant at River Rouge, Mich., for the production of steel and iron by the Bourcoud direct process, according to the Iron Age. The company, it is said, intends to base its steel supply largely on the process if it is successfully demonstrated. It is planned to build a large plant for direct steel production if results are in accordance with expectations.

A. E. Bourcoud made public the details of his process at the annual dinner of the American Iron & Steel Institute held in this city in 1921. The process comprises four stages. The first is the gasification of powdered coal or oil. The second is the reduction of the iron ore by means of the gases thus produced. The third is the delivery of the resulting iron sponge at a high temperature into electric furnaces where the slag is removed. The liquid metal, if necessary, is then refined in the usual way in an electric furnace.

The process would eliminate the blast and open hearth furnaces in the production of steel. Waste heat is expected to produce all the power required to operate the process. The process, it is asserted, is more economical than any now in use, as any grade of coal or oil can be successfully utilized.

$40,000,000 Issue Falling Due in February Already Provided For by Debenture Sale

Public utility companies in various parts of the country will have to make provisions for $184,523,850 in notes and bonds which come due in 1924, according to figures made public yesterday. This is a smaller amount than for a number of years, including the $198,814,710 refunded in 1923; $432,934,890 in 1922, and $305,110,850 in 1921.

The largest and most important of the utility issues that will be refunded is $40,000,000 of American Telephone and Telegraph Company notes, falling due in February. Provision already has been made for payment, through a sale of debenture totaling $100,000,000 in November of this year.

Among the bonds and notes that must be refunded during the coming year, according to a report compiled by Dow, Jones & Co., are:

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

French Francs Down to Fresh Low—London and Continentals Steady.

A fresh outburst of weakness in French francs, which declined to a new low for all time at 4.99½ cents, was the significant feature of the dealings in the foreign exchanges yesterday. Elsewhere the market was quiet, with unimportant rate changes, observance of "Boxing Day" in London, and continuance of holiday at some points in the Far East and South America making for a smaller volume.

Paris checks started weak as a result of lower cables, and after preliminary trading around the five-cent level, rate broke to 4.99½ cents, the record low and 8 points under Monday's final. International bankers say that the renewal of pressure against French francs, which, aside from the slight advance on Monday, has been unremitting over the past fortnight, was due to accumulation of dollar credits to care for commercial demands arising out of the year-end, as well as to finance heavy purchases of American securities. In one quarter it was asserted that the availability of the American dollar was recognized in France, no less than by the rest of the world, and for that reason the conversion of French balances into American dollars has naturally followed.

TRADE DECREASED DURING NOVEMBER

WHOLESALE PRICES DOWN

Building Activity Also Declined, Except in New York—Credit Volume Little Changed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Wholesale prices showed a further slight recession, the production of basic commodities declined in November and the distribution of merchandise by both wholesalers and retailers was less active, according to the Federal Reserve Board's summary of business and financial conditions throughout the country. The summary, which was based on statistics for November and December, was issued tonight.

"Production in basic industries decreased about 2 per cent. in November," the board says. "The decline was due chiefly to reduced production of iron and steel and smaller sugar meltings. The Federal Reserve Board's new index of factory employment also declined, due to lessened activity at iron and steel plants and large seasonal reductions at clothing establishments.

"The volume of employment is now 2 per cent. smaller than in the Spring, but 3 per cent. larger than a year ago. Contract awards for new buildings were smaller in November than in October in all reporting districts except New York, but were 20 per cent. larger than a year ago.

"Final estimates by the Department of Agriculture show larger yields of corn, oats, tobacco and cotton than in 1922, and smaller yields of wheat, hay and potatoes. The total value of agricultural production at Dec. 1 prices was 12 per cent. larger than in 1922. Each of the ten principal crops, except wheat, showed an increase in value.

"Railroad freight shipments in November showed about the usual seasonal decline from October, but were in heavier volume as compared with previous years. Wholesale trade was 13 per cent. less in November than in October, which is more than the usual decrease at this season, but sales continued to be slightly larger than a year ago. Sales of hardware, drugs, and meat were larger than in November, 1922, while sales of shoes were smaller. Retail business was smaller than in October in most lines. Sales of mail order houses declined more than sales of department stores, but were 11 per cent. larger than a year ago.

"The Bureau of Labor Statistics index of wholesale prices declined in November to a point 4 per cent. lower than last Spring, and about 3 per cent. lower than a year ago. The chief reductions occurred in prices of animal products, fuel and house furnishings. Prices of clothing and crops, on the other hand, increased, and the latter group advanced higher than in any month since 1920. During the first half of December, prices of sheep, beef, sugar, cotton, silk and rubber declined, while quotations on crude oil, wheat and wool were slightly higher.

"The total volume of credit extended by member banks in leading cities showed but little change between the middle of November and the middle of December. A seasonal reduction in commercial and agricultural loans in most districts was accompanied by increased loans on securities, with the result that total loans remained practically constant.

"During the same period, borrowing at the Federal Reserve banks were also practically unchanged. Holdings of acceptances increased somewhat, partly in connection with the financing of cotton exports. The increase demand for currency for holiday trade was reflected in both a moderate expansion in Federal Reserve note circulation, and a reduction in gold certificates held by the Reserve banks.

"Rates of commercial paper sold in the open market continued to show an easier tendency, as indicated by increased sales at 4¾ per cent., particularly in interior districts. The December issues of one year 4½ per cent. and six months 4 per cent. Treasury certificates, compared with 4¾ per cent. on a six months issue sold in September, were largely over-subscribed."

EXPANDING MARKET IN STEEL ENDS YEAR

SHEET BUYING IS HEAVY

Iron Trade Review Says That Outlook for 1924 is Improving Steadily.

Buying of steel continues on a broad scale, if not great in quantity, according to The Iron Age. Sales were not at the expense of prices, but indications were that buyers are still covering only close requirements and see no protection in contracts.

"Steel making may taper off in the remainder of the year," says the paper, "as numbers of rolling mills, taking advantage of the satisfied demand for immediate deliveries, are employing a part or all of the holiday period to make repairs. At that, the production of steel ingots for 1923 seems likely to exceed 43,000,000 tons, and the pig iron make will be a record at over 40,000,000 tons.

"The idea of price firmness has spread to semi-finished steel, first quarter contracts in rerolling billets at the $40, Pittsburgh, price being reported. One Middle Western sheet bar producer has so heavily booked for the quarter that it has withdrawn from the market. Forging billets alone seem not definitely strong at $45, because obtainable from more mills than usual.

"Sheet buying has been notably heavy. December orders of independent makers are estimated in excess of 300,000 tons, but it is not yet clear that price shading has disappeared."

The Iron Trade Review says in part:

"Ending of the year 1923 in the iron and steel business is not unlike that of 1922. Buying is on the up-grade. Prospects are favorable. The outlook for the new year is improving steadily from week to week, dating back to mid-November and sentiment has become increasingly confident. The reason is an expanding market based on covering for future requirements and this is expected to broaden still further with the completion of inventory-taking and the usual details incident to balancing up the year's business."

Dividend on Aeolian Preferred.

In the dividend table of Dec. 6 a notice was printed that a ¾ per cent. dividend had been declared on the preferred stock of the Aeolian, Weber Piano and Pianola Company. This dividend should have been credited to the preferred stock of the Aeolian Company.

OIL PRICE RAISED AGAIN.

Pennsylvania Crude Advanced an Additional 25 Cents a Barrel.

Pennsylvania crude oil was advanced 25 cents a barrel yesterday, this being the second advance of that amount since Dec. 14. Under the new schedule of prices, Pennsylvania Bradford District crude is quoted at $3.10 a barrel and crude produced outside of the Bradford district at $2.85 a barrel. These prices compare with $2.60 and $2.35, respectively, quoted between Nov. 30 and Dec. 14. A year ago Bradford crude was quoted at $3 a barrel and on Feb. 15, 1923, it was quoted at $4.25 a barrel.

The announcement was received in the financial district during the morning and following receipt of the news there was a sharp advance in the petroleum stocks listed on both the Stock Exchange and on the outside market. Standard Oil and independent issues on active trading advanced from one to three points, many issues being quoted at the highest levels reported in months. In most instances the various stocks closed at the highest prices for the day.

The second advance in Pennsylvania crude announced yesterday gave rise to rumors that further advances in crude oil prices would be announced in other sections. In trade circles an advance in mid-continent crude oil was expected early in the new year, but now some interests expect an advance to be announced before the close of this year.

Exchange Rules on White Oil Stock.

The Committee on Securities of the New York Stock Exchange has ruled that the capital stock and certificates of deposit for the White Oil Corporation be quoted ex-rights on Dec. 28; that rights may be dealt in on a when-issued basis, and that transactions in rights must be settled Jan. 8, 1924, after which date dealings shall be as in securities.

U. S. Worsted Passes Dividend.

The Directors of the United States Worsted Company, have passed the dividend of $1.50 a share on the preferred stock which was due to be declared at this time, according to advices received in the financial district yesterday. In the last two quarters the company paid its dividends in the form of 6 per cent. scrip.

The Allis Chalmers Manufacturing Company has closed a contract to deliver a 30,000 k. w. steam turbine to the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois. The contract involves from $600,000 to $700,000 and is the third order placed by the same company.

What is the Investment Trust's Situation When Markets are Depressed?

Answer:—

UNLIKE the average individual, whose surplus funds for investment are less in unfavorable times than in good times, the Investment Trust has free resources when prices are low. Besides the proceeds of sales of its own securities, the Trust may exercise its corporate borrowing power to purchase sound, income-producing bonds and stocks in periods of depression.

A force of skilled analysts, constantly engaged in studying world markets, enables International Securities Trust of America to increase its assets on highly favorable terms when prices are depressed.

JANUARY PURCHASES AGAIN LIFT COTTON

Turnover of 130,000 Bales Marks Biggest Day of Trading in Months.

Interests that have been taking up and paying for all cotton received for delivery during January turned over about 130,000 bales on the January position yesterday. With the single exception of deliveries on July contracts in 1922, this represented one of the largest operations in recent history of the Exchange. Soon after the opening the same houses bought January on so large a scale that prices advanced half a cent the first half hour and another half cent before the close. Demand for January brought in active buying of later months, which advanced May above 36¼ cents. Prices gained 88 to 96 points on an unusually large volume of business. Middling quotations in Southern markets were raised three-quarters of a cent to a cent a pound on sales of about 15,000 bales.

The large quantity of notices in circulation had an unsettling effect at the opening, with January around 34¾ cents and later months slightly above Monday's closing level. But the opening call had barely been completed when brokers were sent into the ring to secure January contracts, in some instances purchases were made in blocks, contracts being taken at steadily advancing prices. In other cases, January was bought and March sold from 40 to 50 points difference between the two positions. Operations of this nature became so extensive and aggressive that prices rushed up half a cent within half an hour after the opening. Owing to the quite general tendency in commission house circles last week to take profits before the holidays, the moment January displayed strength many of these contracts were replaced. This brought an equally substantial rise in later months, so that May sold above 35¾ cents before midday. It was evident from the character of operations during the morning that the same interests circulating notices were engaged in the purchase of January contracts on a large scale. This furnished the market with a steady buying power in January throughout and to that extent encouraged activity in distant positions. In New Orleans January rose 40 points above New York early in the day and March sold above quotations here for the first time this season.

All cotton for sale was taken so eagerly that the upward movement gained further headway during the afternoon. May rose above 36¼ cents, highest prices since the general profit-taking movement among speculative holders began the first of the month. The day following the annual Washington report, a recovery carried May to 35 cents, but the rise halted at that level. After selling back to 33.45 ten days ago, the market has gradually strengthened and yesterday worked back to the highest level of the recovery. The nigh price of the year was attained on Nov. 30, when May sold areund 37¾ cents. Active buying of January continued during the afternoon and the last hour a sharp advance in New Orleans carried January here to 35¾ cents or over a cent above low figure of the morning. A large amount of cotton changed hands making the session one of the most active in some time. Final prices were highest of the day.

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Pr. Dy.

The local market for spot cotton was steady, 90 points advance to 37.25c for middling upland.

Southern spot markets were: Galveston 36c, 100 points advance; New Orleans 35.75c, 75 points advance; Savannah 35.25c, 100 points advance; Augusta 35.38c, 88 points advance; Memphis 35.50c, 100 points advance; Houston 35.90c, 90 points advance; Little Rock 35.25c, 75 points advance.

WILL PRESS DEMANDS FOR HIGHER RAIL WAGES

Brotherhoods Announce That Rock Island Settlement Has No General Application.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 26.—Negotiations for a 12 per cent. wage increase for train service men will be continued despite the fact that the engineers settled with the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad Company on the basis of last year's pay. This was announced here tonight by leaders of the engineers, firemen and trainmen, who also declared emphatically that there was no foundation for widely circulated reports that the train service men were preparing to strike.

In confirming the announcement of the Rock Island management several days ago that its engineers had signed a contract for another year at last year's wages, Warren S. Stone, President of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, explained that no increase had been asked for by the engineers on that system. The settlement applied only to the engineers, he said.

"That will have no bearing on our negotiations with the New York Central Lines or any other road," Mr. Stone said, "but the railroad managements are trying to use it. We will return to New York Jan. 3 to resume conferences with the New York Central Lines for wage increases where they were adjourned for the Christmas holidays.

D. B. Robertson, President of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, who is handling the wage demands of his men jointly with Mr. Stone and the engineers, said that the firemen on the Rock Island had not agreed on a settlement. Demands for increases on that line have been filed, he continued, and "the Rock Island firemen do not intend to settle for the old wage."

"The trainmen and conductors, who are handling their wage negotiations with the various railroads together, will go back into conference with the New York Central System in New York shortly after the first of the year, according to W. G. Lee, President of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

WILL SAVE $271,681, GREENE TELLS SMITH

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Dec. 26.—A saving of $271,681.15 to the State was announced to Governor Smith today in a letter from Colonel Frederick Stuart Greene, Superintendent of the State Department of Public Works.

Colonel Greene stated that under the public works law he had eliminated 126 positions which carried salaries of $241,940 and six automobiles which cost the State $15,000 a year to operate.

In the Bureau of Highways, Colonel Greene stated, he had abolished the offices of Secretary, two General Maintenance Inspectors, an assistant to the First Deputy and the Third Deputy and his entire staff of nine. The work hitherto done by the Third Deputy in auditing highway accounts would be done by the State Controller, he said. Nine division engineers would hereafter pass on all road work. In conclusion Colonel Greene said:

"I assure you that instead of doing harm to the Department of Public Works, these eliminations of unnecessary positions, made possible through the new public works law, will improve the morale and increase the efficiency of all three bureaus."

McCrary of the giant dirigible Shenandoah, will go to Washington next Wednesday to confer with Navy Department officials with regard to the projected North Polar trip of the Shenandoah, it was announced at the Naval Air Station here today.

Among the recommendations which it is understood will be submitted at Washington is a suggestion that hydrogen gas instead of helium gas be used in the giant balloon when, and if, it starts for the North Polar regions. No. 6 motor, which is in the control car of the dirigible, could be taken out so as to provide living quarters for the crew, it was said, but there are other details which must be settled.

GRAINS REBOUND FROM EARLY LOWS

Wheat and Corn Drop to New Levels, but Short Buying Brings Gains at Close.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—While wheat and corn broke to a new low on the present downturn early, the failure of general liquidation on the part of Eastern longs to develop, with a fairly good class of buying, brought about a strong rally from the inside figures, and the finish was ¾ of a cent higher on wheat and unchanged to 1 cent higher on corn. Oats were up ⅛@¾ cent and rye ⅝@1⅜ cents. All markets developed an oversold condition. The absorption of the offerings on the early break left the pit element in an uneasy position which brought in active short covering and a good advance and strong close.

In the day's news, the most important feature was the increase of 10,815,000 bushels in the Canadian visible and the decrease of 231,000 bushels in the United States. Taking the combined visible of the two countries, there are 113,978,000 bushels, against 63,000,000 bushels last year.

Canadian farmers have moved 317,000,000 bushels of wheat from the farms so far this year, against 254,000,000 last year. November shipments, at more than 64,000,000 bushels, set a new record.

It is understood that the bulk of the Canadian wheat at Eastern lake ports is owned by American millers and by Western cash handlers. Mills are in a position where they can secure all the choice Canadian they need, in case an increase in the tariff is announced, at the old rate or can mill the grain in bond and export the product.

December barley at Winnipeg closed 3¾ cents higher, reflecting liberal holdings by exporters who are waiting for a delivery in order to fill sales of around 2,000,000 bushels for deferred shipment abroad.

The domestic visible supply of wheat is 73,577,000 bushels, against 73,806,000 the previous week and 36,375,000 last year. Corn increased 1,520,000 bushels and is 6,242,000 bushels, against 4,722,000 the previous week, and 14,788,000 last year.

Deliveries here on December contracts before the opening were 80,000 bushels of wheat and 243,000 bushels of corn and 50,000 of wheat and 235,000 bushels of corn were sold to go to store. A part of the trading was in the buying of wheat and the selling of corn by Sam Mincer, who is closing his trades preparatory to going away. Decembers wheat at one time was 5⅛ cents under the May and became stronger later on better buying.

Primary arrivals of wheat were 1,200,000 bushels; week ago, 1,257,000; last year, 1,765,000. Shipments were 541,000 bushels; week ago, 611,000; last year, 654,000.

Early liquidation by longs in December corn forced it to 4¾ cents discount under the May, the widest discount so far. A good class of commission house buying was on, with Thomson McKinnon and Bartlett Frazier leading in covering shorts. The movement was heavy and cash demand here very good, with the early decline of ⅛ to 1 cent more than regained at the last. Reports from Western and Northwestern Iowa say that farmers are not selling corn to any extent, but are marketing live stock freely.

Corn receipts were 2,454,000 bushels; week ago, 1,545,000; last year, 2,456,000; and shipments, 1,038,000 bushels; week ago, 842,000; last year, 564,000.

COREY OUT OF CUBA CANE.

Directors to Be Reduced to Twenty Under New Plan.

William E. Corey, formerly President of the Midvale Steel and Ordnance Company, will not present his name for re-election as a director of the Cuba Cane Sugar Corporation, it was stated yesterday. It is understood that Mr. Corey, who in 1920, helped to guide the affairs of that company through the "bad sugar year," desires to sever business connections preparatory to making his home abroad. Stephen B. Fleming, another director of the Cuba Cane Sugar Corporation, also has resigned, it was stated yesterday.

When the stockholders hold their next annual meeting on Jan. 14 they will vote on a plan to reduce the number of directors to twenty. The number now stands at twenty-two, and this change would be effected through an amendment to the certificate of incorporation and by-laws.

Central Illinois Light Dividends.

The regular quarterly dividends of 1¼ and 1¾ per cent. on the 6 and 7 per cent. preferred stocks, respectively, have been declared by the directors of the Central Illinois Light Company. They are payable Jan. 2 to stockholders of record Dec. 16.

NET RAIL INCOME GAINED LAST MONTH

PENNSYLVANIA SHOWS DROP

But Saving in Operating Expenses More Than Makes Up the Lost Ground.

Net income of thirteen railroads from all parts of the country which have made public their November earning statement totaled $20,184,405 against $17,404,482 in the same period of last year. The gross revenues of the same roads amounted to $117,416,073, as compared with gross revenue of $115,744,704 in the same month of 1922. For the eleven months' period ended on Nov. 30 these roads had a gross revenue of $1,135,261,124.

Chief among the reasons for the revenues being virtually the same for November this year as they were in the same period of last year was the decrease on the Pennsylvania of $3,296,638 for the month, with a total gross revenue of $56,113,732. While the railroad was losing gross revenue it was at the same time successful in cutting its operating expenses for the month by $6,228,155, thus bringing the net railway operating income for the month up to $8,366,206, an increase of $467,279 in comparison with the same month of last year.

These figures bring the net income of the Pennsylvania for the first eleven months of the year up to $74,632,576, an increase of $7,358,791 over the same period of last year.

On the other hand, the Union Pacific reported a net income of $5,234,199, as compared with $4,611,358 in the same month of last year. This increase was for the most part due to the increase in revenue, which, for the month, amounted to $20,349,541, against $18,550,234 in November, 1922. The operating expenses showed an increase of $383,901 as compared with last year, although a reduction of $125,270 was made in the transportation account and one of $224,260 in the maintenance of equipment. These were offset by an increase of $666,000 in maintenance of ways and structures.

Besides being a big advance over last year the report showed a decided increase over November, 1921, when the gross income of $17,372,215, together with a net income of $2,793,294, was reported by the Union Pacific.

For the eleven months' period the gross income of the Union Pacific totaled $194,940,896, against $175,738,097 last year and $168,827,290 in 1921, while the net income for the same period was $36,637,278 for the eleven months just ended, against $29,897,609 in 1922 and $32,760,399 in 1921.

Perhaps the largest advance of any railroad that has reported was that of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western with a net income of $1,876,094, as compared with $481,629 in the same month of 1922. This, though, is less than the earnings in November, 1921, when they reached $1,731,288.

With a net earning report of $1,-270,254, the Louisville & Nashville showed a decline from the $1,855,111 reached in November of last year, but a sharp advance over the $1,061,041 reported in November of 1921.

Wabash continued to show improvement with net after operating expenses of $1,153,895, an increase of $470,490 over the same month of last year. This makes the net income after expenses for the first eleven months of this year $13,380,164, against $8,700,149 in the same period of last year.

The only report from the Northwest district was that of the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie, which reported net operating income of $768,-041, an increase of $274,257 over the same month last year.

BOND MARKET IS ACTIVE.

Two New Issues Offered—Buying Good in Holiday Week.

The offering of $41,000,000 of new securities yesterday met with a good market, according to investment bankers, who decided to depart from the usual policy of holding back financing until after the normally dull holiday week. Some of the syndicates reported they had not yet closed books and would not until tomorrow.

The Bankers' Trust Company in behalf of the syndicate offering $10,000,000 of Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre Corporation 6½ per cent. serial collateral trust bonds reported the entire issue sold.

An issue of $450,000 of the Thomas G. Sloan Company first mortgage leasehold 6½ per cent. gold bonds maturing 1925 to 1938 is being offered at par by Worthington, Bellows & Co. of Cleveland.

George B. Gibbons & Co., Inc., are offering a new issue of $82,000 City of Troy, N. Y., coupon or registered 4½ per cent. bonds due Jan. 1, 1925 to 1944, priced to yield 4.10 to 4.20 per cent.

Road's Passenger Revenue Gains.

Despite an increase in passenger revenue for November, compared with the same month last year, the Brooklyn City Railroad Company reported a net corporate income of $147,797, compared with $167,758 for the same month of 1922. For passenger revenue for November was $972,452, compared with $963,-962 in November, 1922. This brought the total revenue from passenger traffic for the first five months of the fiscal year up to $4,880,417, against $4,881,-706 in the same period of 1922.

COMMODITY PRICES.

Mixed Trend in Grains and Dairy Products—Cotton Higher, Metals Firm.

Cash markets yesterday showed a series of price changes which were interesting for their diversity, opposite movements being registered in certain groups as, for instance, the grains, where wheat advanced and corn declined; in the dairy products, where butter improved and eggs declined. Other changes included a gain of 90 points, to 37.25 cents, with a slightly lower value for coffee. Other provisions and metals were unchanged.

Following are the cash prices for the principal commodities in the wholesale market at the close of business Wednesday, a week before, and a year ago:

PUTS MEAT PRICES UP TO WHOLESALERS

Representative of Packers Contends First Cost Is Lowest in Ten Years.

PRODUCTION SETS RECORD

He Says Live Stock Producer Receives More Than He Did Ten Years Ago.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Charles E. Herrick of Chicago, President of the Institute of American Meat Packers, tonight issued a statement in which he asserted that meat production during the year just ending was the greatest in the history of the United States. Wholesale meat prices in 1923, he stated, were the lowest in the last decade, and in many instances were below the levels prevailing ten years ago at this time.

"Not in years have meats been selling at such low levels in the wholesale markets," Mr. Herrick stated. "Declines from peak prices range from 20 to more than 70 per cent. Pork loins, for example, have declined 71 per cent. from the peak reached during the post-war period; and now are selling in the wholesale markets from 5 to 10 per cent. below the quotations which prevailed in 1913. Other pork products, such as fresh pork shoulders and spare ribs, also have declined greatly and during recent months have been at or below 1913 quotations. Breakfast bacon, one of our most popular meats and one which not infrequently has been relatively highest in price, is now and has for some weeks, been selling at wholesale for slightly lower prices than those which ruled in 1913.

"Other meats also are selling at relatively low levels. Beef prices are somewhat higher than they were in 1913 except in the case of beef from cows, which is selling below the 1913 market. Good veal is wholesaling about 20 per cent. lower than it was ten years ago at this time.

"During 1923 the American packers, whose traditional policy has been to take everything that the producer sends to market and pay cash for it on the spot, have bought and handled nearly 10,000,000 more hogs than they did during 1922.

The producer of livestock, Mr. Herrick added, was receiving more for his cattle, sheep and lambs than he did ten years ago, but was getting less for pork loins, fresh pork shoulders, spareribs, bacon and all dry salt meats except fat backs.

Mr. Herrick estimated that the production of meat for the year, owing chiefly to the increase in pork production, would exceed that of 1922, the year of greatest production, probably by 1,000,000,000 pounds. He added:

"Virtually all of this increased production has moved into consumption either here or in broad stocks of meat in storage throughout the United States, according to the latest reports of the United States Department of Agriculture, are only slightly larger than the average for this season of the last six years."

SILZER URGES ACTION TO CURB COAL PRICES

BOSTON, Dec. 26.—Co-operation between the Federal Government, the State of Pennsylvania and the various anthracite consuming States to regulate the anthracite industry was urged by Governor George S. Silzer of New Jersey in an address before the Boston Rotary Club today.

"The President," he said, "in dealing with the question of coal * * * asked for the power to act in an emergency. We seem to be in the midst of an emergency all the time.

"Whether the Federal Government can exercise to the fullest degree the power of price-fixing and regulation or whether it cannot, there is no doubt at all that through the powers which the Interstate Commerce Commission now has and those which could be given to it or a similar commission it would have undoubted authority and power to eliminate the fraudulent and extortionate practices and the unfair competition and control which are the largest factors in the curtailment of production, the creation of shortages and the rising of the price. * * *

"The people of the thirty anthracite consuming States should petition Pennsylvania to take some action. * * * Pennsylvania in all fairness is charged with the duty of seeing that coal and not slate is sent to us for consumption. This it can easily accomplish. We should ask the State of Pennsylvania to repeal the coal tax. * * * It is unfair, unjust and immoral. * * *

"Pennsylvania should regulate and prevent the payment of extortionate royalties. This it can also do.

"Within our respective States we should be willing to co-operate. Our difficulty, of course, is first to get a sufficient quantity of coal into the State, and, second, to see that it arrives at a fair price. This being accomplished, we can prevent extortion and unfair practices within the State.

"If this industry and the governmental agencies who should control it fail in their duty to the public, then they have only themselves to blame if the public in self-protection forces upon them some radical action."

SAYS HOTEL DISCRIMINATES.

Was Refused, but Rooms Offered to Chauffeur, Shapiro Asserts.

Nathan D. Shapiro, an attorney at 50 Court Street, Brooklyn, and a member from 1914 to 1916 of the State Legislature, made public yesterday certain documents in support of his charge that the Hotel Traymore, Atlantic City, N. J., refused him accommodation on account of his Jewish name. Mr. Shapiro charges further that there was ample accommodation at the hotel, and offers as evidence a letter showing that three days after refusing his request for rooms for Dec. 29, the hotel reserved "with pleasure and hopes for a pleasant satisfactory visit" a double room and private bath on the same date for "John King" and his wife. They are a negro couple, employed by Mr. Shapiro as chauffeur and cook. Mr. Shapiro said yesterday that it was his present intention to send them to the hotel for a New Year visit and await results.

Mr. Shapiro supports his allegations by photostatic copies of the telegram sent to him by the hotel in which accommodation was refused and the letter offering the same reservations to John King.

Mr. Shapiro said yesterday:

"This situation brings back to my mind a plan which I was considering when I was a member of the Legislature to permit owners of hotels, maintained principally for vacation purposes, to exclude legally Jews, provided that they notified the public in some direct unmistakable form that Jews are not welcome.

"The Jews under those conditions, I am sure, would not be offended. In fact, Jews are very anxious to know just where they are not welcome, so that they may not trespass upon the sacred ground of some semi-civilized people.

"I have also since been reliably informed that the Traymore Hotel in their non-busy season are happy to have the Jews fill up their vacant rooms and merely exclude the Jews on days when Jewish patronage is not essential."

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 26.—Joseph W. Mott, general manager of the Traymore Hotel, said tonight that failure to make a reservation for Mr. Shapiro was a plain mistake, and added that "any attempt to discriminate would be foolish." He said that sometimes reservations were refused and next day, when "the outlook has brightened and cancellations are received," others were made. Persons familiar with the hotels here said that Jews frequently were guests at the Traymore.

Monday—4½ to 5 per cent. for the best paper.

Light Colors Are Gaining.

Mill agents here say the trend toward light-colored overcoatings for next Fall is becoming more clearly indicated. One of them said yesterday that, in his opinion, the interest in the dark tones was merely a "flash in the pan." He expressed confidence in buyers preferring the light colors of bluish cast. Blue gray is one of the shades that is definitely expected to have the interest of cloth buyers. Others comprise a series of more or less neutral tones. Browns and tans are also looked upon to sell well.

Staple Dress Goods in Demand.

While the belief has been that the Spring would be a season almost entirely given over to the novelty dress goods, sellers here say that the staple worsteds are in better request than four or five weeks ago. The twills, particularly, are moving more actively, although not as yet to the extent desired. One mill agent said yesterday he was selling rather well the hair or chalk line twills, mainly in navy, tan and gray. He explained the better demand as reflecting the increasing confidence of manufacturers in the vogue of the suit, for which twills are outstanding fabrics for the tailored versions to be featured.

Good Results for January Sales.

Opinion is growing that retailers will get rather satisfactory results with their January sales. Indications of this are afforded in the good response to the clearance sales of ready-to-wear begun yesterday by leading local stores. It is pointed out that a large consumer purchasing power has been held in reserve, awaiting these sales. Consumers apparently found that they could get along for the time being without new garment purchases, being aided considerably by the mild weather. Their wants have to be filled, however, and when offered the highly attractive current values, entailing reductions up to 20 per cent., the retail buying through all of this coming sales is expected to be good.

Gray Goods Trading Scattered.

Although some business of a scattered nature was put through in the local gray cotton market yesterday, the volume of cloths disposed of was not large. Buyers were endeavoring to get February-March deliveries of 38½-inch 64-60s at 11 cents, but the only shipments to be sold at that price were for the rest of this month and the first week of next. Spot 38½-inch 60-48s brought 9¾ cents, while for shipment next month some trading took place in 39-inch 58-72s at 12½ cents. In the sheetings some spot sales were made of 36-inch 4.70s at 11¼ cents, and business also took place in 36-inch 6.15s at 8¾ cents. For shipment in January and February some first hands disposed of 36-inch 5.50-yard sheetings at 9¾ cents.

A Benefit in Conservatism.

The conservatism with which the garment trade is going ahead with Spring operations, both in the buying of piece goods and in cutting up, while working some difficulties is considered a stabilizing force that will help the market considerably. The cutters, according to opinion expressed yesterday, are "going short" of their piece-goods requirements. This is working present hardships on the mills trying to get additional business and it may lead to some scarcity of wanted fabrics later on. Even the mill representatives, however, see the present policy as having benefits for the trade in general, as it will tend to prevent a recurrence of the unsatisfactory conditions of the Fall, which adversely affected the mills as well as the garment makers.

Fluffy Ostrich Trims Liked.

Full, fluffy trims of ostrich feathers play prominent parts in the trimming of one of the leading lines of women's Spring hats in this market. They are used to trim models of hemp and silk, and the flues are long and willowy. Orders that have been taken to date on this line indicate that trimmings of this type are going to be in vogue during the early season at least. In one model of sage green hemp, the large crown is banded with ostrich, dyed green, with the exception of the tips, which are brown to harmonize with the facing. The flues of the feathers drop over the right side of the long brim. In a fine silk model in the new tarit shade, several full flues of lacquer-colored ostrich decorate the crown in a kind of fringe effect. A willow "sweep" on this hat drops to the right.

Stock Goods Cleaned Up.

As far as desirable men's wear fabrics are concerned, it was said here yesterday that the mills will close the year with a fairly "clean" position as regards stock goods. In support of this statement it was pointed out that practically since last April the mills have had restricted production, many of them running on part time, so that at no time has there been any substantial yardage to be carried as stock. Whatever holdings the mills did carry were moved by selling pressure and concessions on Spring deliveries. Their inventories will be light. The jobbers are likewise said to be in a better position than is generally believed. While the demand reaching them for months past has not been good, they bought little from the mills for Spring and were successful to some extent, at least, in liquidating current Fall goods.

Quiet Week Ahead for Underwear.

With the jobbers in many cases now devoting their attention to inventories, very little buying of underwear is expected this week in the local knit goods trade. After the turn of the year, however, a more active demand is looked for, although buying may not really get active until about the middle of the month. At this time many of the wholesalers will be here to attend the annual Winter meeting of the Wholesalers' Association of Knit Goods Buyers. By then, it is hoped in the trade, cotton will have "lighted," for unless its fluctuations stop the lack of a stable basis on which to trade may hold things back considerably. Advances on Spring goods have not been to buyers' liking, but the feeling is growing that the new levels will have to be met. Consequently, buyers who covered themselves fairly well before the rise in the staple began are now congratulating themselves on their foresight.

Has a Novel Manicure Set.

Among the novelties that are now being offered in this market is a vest-pocket manicure set of European manufacture. The parts of the set are contained in a cylindrical colored wooden case with rounded ends that is about two and a half inches long. In the cover part of the case is a hole into which may be screwed the part of the set that it is desired to use, the case thus becoming the handle. The set contains scissors, two kinds of files and an implement for loosening cuticle. The blades of the scissors are about as long as those on the usual style of manicure scissors. Instead of having handles, however, the end of one blade of the scissors is screwed into the top of the case and the other blade is operated by pressure from the thumb after the manner of a nail clip. The set wholesales at a price which will permit it to be retailed at a reasonable figure with a good profit.

Burlaps Continue Firm.

Although very little was done in the local market for burlaps yesterday, prices continued very firm on the levels of the recent rise. Buyers' bids were few, but those made a few points under the market did not bring out any goods. Little trading is looked for during the remainder of the week unless some "slaughtering" to bring about low inventories is done by holders. With prices as firm as they are now, however, this is not looked for. Spot goods yesterday were quoted here on the basis of 5.30 cents for 8-ounce "40s" and 6 cents, nominal, for 10½-ounce goods of the same width, which are scarce here. The respective prices for those to arrive during th coming month were 5.70 and 7.80 cents, while January-March shipments from Calcutta were quoted at 5.75 cents for the "lights" and 7.40 cents for the "heavies." Because of their scarcity, spot and near-by arrival 10½-ounce goods are higher than would otherwise be the case, and it is this that accounts for the discrepancy between prices for these positions and the future delivery quotation.

EDUCATION MISSION GOING TO AFRICA

OTHER GOVERNMENTS AID

Purpose Is to Discover Educational Needs in Sudan, Abyssinia, Uganda and Elsewhere.

The Phelps-Stokes Fund, the International Education Board recently established by John D. Rockefeller Jr., mission societies of Europe and America and Governments directly concerned in Africa have recently organized an Education Commission to East Africa, sailing from Marseilles on Jan. 17 to make an investigation of hygienic, economic and educational conditions in that country in the light of experience in Southern States. The expedition is the result of the success of similar investigations carried on in West, South and Equatorial Africa in 1920 and 1921. An announcement made yesterday by the Phelps-Stokes Fund says:

"Dr. Thomas Jesse Jones, educational director of the Phelps-Stokes Fund, who headed the earlier commission, will serve as Chairman of the newly formed Education Commission to East Africa. He will sail on the steamship America on Saturday with Dr. James Hardy Dillard of the General Education Board and President of the Jeanes and Slater funds; and Dr. Homer Leroy Shantz, agriculturalist and botanist of the United States Department of Agriculture, who are the other American members of the commission. The full party will leave Marseilles on Jan. 17, 1924, and spend eight months in Egypt, Soudan, Abyssinia, Kenya, Uganda, Ruanda, Urundi, Tanganyika, Nyasaland, Southern Rhodesia, Northern Rhodesia, Portuguese East Africa and South Africa."

"Other members of the commission are Major Hanns Vischer, Secretary and member of the British Advisory Committee on Education in Africa; Professor James Emman Kwegyir Aggrey, a native of the Gold Coast and formerly a professor in Livingstone College, Salisbury, N. C.; and Dr. Garfield Williams, Educational Secretary of the Church Missionary Society. James W. C. Dougall of Scotland and George B. Dillard, son of Dr. Dillard, will serve as secretaries of the commission.

"The purposes of the commission will be to inquire as to the educational work being done in the areas to be studied; to investigate the educational needs of the people in the light of the religious, social, hygienic and economic conditions; to ascertain to what extent these needs are being met; to assist in the formulation of plans designed to meet the educational needs of the native races, and to make available the full results of this study. The commission is making an exhaustive study of conditions in East Africa partly because of the urgent request of the British Government and the full approval of the Belgian, Portuguese and Abyssinian Governments. Dr. Jones is in receipt of a letter from Prince Ras Teferi of Abyssinia in which a cordial invitation is extended to the commission to visit Abyssinia. 'You will be entirely welcome. I favor strongly the development of American culture in Abyssinia and anything that contributes to the mutual friendship of the two peoples,' wrote the Prince.

"The marked interest manifested by Great Britain in the education of the native African may be gleaned from the following excerpt from the Official Report of the debates in the House of Commons July 25, 1923. Major Ormsby-Gore, Under-secretary of State, speaking on the subject, said: 'I have to announce that recently we have had an important conference at the Colonial Office, consisting of the African Governors and Colonial Secretaries home on leave, together with our educational advisers, as to the future of native education in Africa. We want to avoid making mistakes at this critical stage. We want to explore the experience of the world as to what is the best and most helpful form and type of education that we can give to the Africans for the purpose of giving light to new Africa. With that view we have formed a permanent committee and hope shortly to get a permanent Secretary to advise on this issue.

"We were led to this largely as the result of a most extraordinary and interesting report issued by Dr. Thomas Jesse Jones, who has traveled, not only through British colonies but through French Africa, Belgian Congo and Portuguese colonies. He has made a most helpful contribution to the subject of African education from the point of view of the native. It is hoped that Dr. Jones may pay a similar visit to the East African colonies."

LATEST DEALINGS IN REALTY FIELD

WAS HELD AT $1,600,000

Many Apartment House Properties in Manhattan Purchased by Investors.

One of the largest and most important realty deals of the year involving Park Avenue property was closed yesterday when Frederick Brown, an operator, purchased from James C. McGuire & Co. a plot consisting of about an acre of land on the west side of Park Avenue, between Eighty-eighth and Eighty-ninth Streets, consisting of 1,084-1,094 Park Avenue, 57-67 East Eighty-eighth Street and 56-72 East Eighty-ninth Street.

The property consists of six twenty-five-foot five-story flats and the former Fifth Avenue bus garage.

It has a frontage on Park Avenue of 150 feet, on Eighty-eighth Street, 153.4, and on Eighty-ninth Street, 210 feet. Comprising in all over 40,000 square feet. Pease & Elliman negotiated the transaction.

The property was purchased from various owners by James C. McGuire & Co. about a year ago. During this period this section of Park Avenue has been greatly developed by the new buildings erected by Julius Tishman and Son at the northeast corner of Eighty-sixth Street, also their new building at the southwest corner of Eighty-seventh Street; the new building erected by J. E. R. Carpenter at 1,000 Park Avenue, the new building erected by Charles Mayer at 1,075 Park Avenue, southeast corner of Eighty-eighth Street, and also Michael Paterno's new co-operative building, 1,101 Park Avenue, northeast corner of Eighty-ninth Street. There have also been a great many sales and resales between Eighty-sixth and Ninty-sixth Streets, which foreshadow other important improvements.

Mr. Brown purchased the property on an all-cash basis, it having been held at $1,600,000.

Several weeks ago James C. McGuire & Co. sold to Mr. Brown the southeast corner of Park Avenue and Ninetieth Street, a plot of approximately 18,750 square feet.

The property was known as the Beulah Apartments for many years, having been built by Erastus Treat, the publisher.

Mrs. Anna Benis sold to an investor for all cash the five-story walk-up at 428 West 146th Street and 369 to 378 Convent Avenue, being the southeast corner. It was held at $65,000. Leroy Coventry was the broker in the deal.

Mrs. Annibel D. Walton bought from Jeromire Silverman the two five-story apartment houses with two large stores at 2,054 and 2,056 Seventh Avenue, between 122d and 123d Streets, held at $75,000. The broker was A. G. Shaw.

Local snows or rains have occurred also in the lower lake region and the North Atlantic States.

The temperature was below zero Wednesday night in several stations in the last-named sections.

The Western disturbance will move east-northeastward toward the lake regions, and will be attended by rain almost generally over the States east of the Mississippi within the next twenty-four to thirty-six hours. It will be preceded by rising temperature in the lower lake region, the Ohio Valley, Tennessee and the East Gulf and South Atlantic States during Thursday, in the Middle Atlantic States Thursday and Friday and in the North Atlantic States Friday.

Following the passage of this disturbance much colder weather will overspread the lower Ohio and middle Mississippi Valleys Friday night and the upper Ohio and lower Mississippi Valleys and the lower lake regions Friday night or Saturday.

WANAMAKER IN NEW JOB.

Special Deputy Police Commissioner Rodman Wanamaker yesterday accepted the appointment of President of the new Board of Deputy Police Commissioners and Special Deputy Police Commissioners organized recently by Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright.

Commissioner Enright, in his letter offering the post to Mr. Wanamaker, explained that the board would meet from time to time to exchange ideas and to formulate plans for the improvement and development of the police services.

"I fully realize that your extensive and far flung business enterprises, as well as your duties as Chairman of the Mayor's Committee and as Special Deputy Police Commissioner, are making tremendous demands upon your time and services," continued Mr. Enright, "and I feel that perhaps it is a great imposition for me to assume any additional burdens. If you can see your way clear to accept this designation, we will proceed with the organization of the board and the formulation of such other plans as may be suggested or approved from time to time."

$352,325 NET LEFT BY PARK BENJAMIN

$318,116 FOR ANNA BOLCHI

Two Employes and Two Grandchildren Receive the Remainder of the Property.

The estate of Park Benjamin, father-in-law of the late Enrico Caruso, was appraised yesterday at $389,127 net gross and $352,325 net. The report does not disclose the amount that the chief heir, Anna Bolchi Benjamin, adopted daughter of the decedent, who later married her attorney, Arthur L. Fullman, paid to settle the contest of the will.

At the time the settlement of the contest, brought by the children, was announced, it was said that one of the conditions was an agreement to delete from the will Mr. Benjamin's reference to his children as "parasites," and declaring them guilty of unfilial conduct. In its present shape, the will, in referring to them, says that he gives $1 to each of his children, Dorothy Caruso, Gladys Goddard, Marjorie Glenny, Park Benjamin Jr. and Romeyn Benjamin.

Mr. Benjamin left his residuary estate, valued at $236,011, to his wife, Mrs. Ida E. Benjamin, for life and upon her death to the adopted daughter, Anna Bolchi Benjamin. Mrs. Benjamin has since died, and her share, with a legacy of $60,000 and personal effects valued at $22,105, was left outright in the will to Anna Bolchi Benjamin, which makes her total share $318,116.

Mr. Benjamin owned real estate valued at $41,700, including the home at 27 West Seventy-third Street and a residence at 974 East Eighteenth Street, Brooklyn. He gave the latter property, valued at $9,000, to Gertrude T. Porter, "in recognition of faithful services," and also left her $15,000 cash. He gave $2,500 to Mary T. McGarry for faithful services and left $10,000 to two grandchildren, John and Marjorie Clark.

Mr. Benjamin owned mortgages and notes worth $177,816, which included notes of $2,000 made by Frederick W. Goddard and a mortgage of $7,450 made by Mr. and Mrs. Goddard on property at Plainfield, N. J. Mr. Benjamin had securities worth $111,823, of which the largest holding was 100 shares of United States Steel common. His debts were $9,020, which included $3,248 due to his attorney, Arthur L. Fullman.

The report said that Mr. Benjamin owned jewelry valued at $1,275, which included a platinum and diamond bracelet worth $1,200. A painting, done by himself, called "Man," was appraised at $35. He owned two ancient documents, one bearing the signature of Charles II. of Spain and Philip II. of Spain, each appraised at $50.

Dodge L. Marks of counsel for the United States Mortgage & Trust Company, the executor, stated in an affidavit that after the contest of the will was brought by the children the attorneys made "an exhaustive search of papers, letters and diaries of the decedent covering a number of years, and examined a number of witnesses." He stated that they negotiated for a settlement, which was affected early this year. The attorneys received $15,000 for services to the temporary administrator while the contest was pending. He stated that he believed $5,000 more should be paid them. This item is allowed in his report.

Anna Bolchi entered the Benjamin household some years ago as governess to the daughter, Dorothy, later Mrs. Caruso and now Mrs. E. A. Ingram. She was adopted by Mr. Benjamin in 1919. She married Mr. Fullman in London, July 4.

BOTH THE TUCKERS NOW ILL

Couple Suffering From Colds After Long Auto Trip From South.

Burton S. Tucker, as well as his wife, is now ill in bed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McCabe at 113 Orchard Street, South Ridgefield Park, N. J., according to Mr. McCabe. It was said Tuesday night at the McCabe house that Mrs. Tucker was ill, and that her husband, who was 16 when they were married Oct. 2, was at her bedside, much concerned over her indisposition. At that time Mrs. Tucker was reported to have been affected by the strain of their automobile trip north from Southern Pines, N. C., but had no cold. McCabe declared last night, however, that both Mr. and Mrs. Tucker have bad colds. Their condition is not serious, he said.

Former Judge J. Raymond Tiffany, the Tuckers' counsel, failed yesterday to carry out his announced intention of consulting Assistant Prosecutor Aloysius McMahon about the time for the couple to appear for pleading to the charges on which they have been indicted in Hudson County. The indictments resulted from allegations that there was fraud in the Tuckers' marriage.

Mr. McCabe informs THE NEW YORK TIMES that it was in error when on Dec. 4, in an account of the difficulties of the Tuckers, it said that Mr. McCabe's wife formerly was a cook employed by Mrs. Tucker when she operated the Hotel Pasadena. Mr. McCabe said that his wife never had been employed as a cook, and never had been employed at all at the Hotel Pasadena.

NEW POST OWNERS FILE.

Incorporators Silent as to Policy Under Cyrus H. K. Curtis.

Incorporation papers of The New York Evening Post were filed yesterday with County Clerk James A. Donegan. The company will have 20,000 shares of preferred stock at $100 a share and 10,000 shares of common stock without par value. The incorporators are Cyrus H. K. Curtis, John C. Martin, both of 600 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, who subscribed for ten shares, and Hugh Burke of 286 Madison Avenue, who subscribed for the same amount.

In addition to Mr. Curtis, Mr. Martin and Mr. Burke the names of the directors until the first annual meeting are David L. Smiley and Charles A. Tyler, whose addresses are also given as 600 Chestnut, Philadelphia.

The objects of the corporation, it is stated, are to acquire the good-will and the name of The New York Evening Post, Inc., an existing New York corporation, which was filed in the office of the Secretary of the State on Aug. 5, 1918, including all right in and to the daily newspaper known as The New York Evening Post, and to continue the publication of such newspaper and generally to engage in the business of publishing, printing, binding and distributing newspapers, magazines, pamphlets, books and publications and in the business of job and book printers.

Mr. Burke, the only New York director, has been for many years the Eastern Manager of The Philadelphia Public Ledger Bureau. He declined last night to make any reference as to the future editorial policy of the paper, saying that such a statement would best come from Mr. Curtis or Mr. Martin.

Skates that are better

If you want to get more speed use these new skates, made by a patented process

TO GET the greatest fun in skating you want your skates to be just right. You can have skates that are specially constructed and balanced to give all possible speed—Alumo Skates. They are fast—light in weight and are built to fit your feet in skating position so that you will not tire so quickly—snappy looking, too.

The only aluminum skates

ALUMO skates are made possible by a special patented process. They are the only aluminum skates. The aluminum body and steel runner are made in one piece—no rivets or joints to rust, and strong enough to stand the hardest kind of use.

Alumo combinations (skates and shoes) are available in full and half sizes, from 2 to 12, for women, men and children. Three models—racing, hockey and arena, in two different finishes—polished and satin. They are the latest thing in skating outfits. Fully guaranteed.
